TOP QUALITY! AT BOTTOM PRICES!

When society is reconstructed there will be no such things as prices, and only one quality. The almighty dollar will have vanished, and banknotes be waste paper; everything will be obtainable for nothing, and nobody will want what belongs to anybody else. Free lunches, as now understood, will have no charm for the wayfarer, because his tucker will be assured by the State; and in the national workhouses thousands of good men and true, having thrown aside the prejudices that trammelled their ancestors, will dine out of a common dish and drink from a common mug. The national tap will replace the public-house, and no one will be allowed more than one drink a day.

OH! HAPPY DAY!

Can we not hasten it? Can we not, on wings "as swift as meditation or the thoughts of love," fly to this Utopia, where the sun of contentment shall ever shine, and the flowers of happiness bloom always? Alas! for it cannot be. 'Tis but a dream, the awakening from which finds the world as it was and ever shall be.

TOP QUALITY! AT BOTTOM PRICES!

No dream, but a blissful reality. No coinage of the visionary's muddled brain, but an actual experience of active life. Live and believe. Come and see. Call on us. Bring your household orders to our store. Buy the boots for the children there and shoe yourself the same way. Come to us for Family Drapery, for Calico and Flannel, for things of Linen and Lace, for Bonnets and Gloves for your wife and daughters, for a Gold Watch for yourself, and a new set of Harness for your favourite nag. All these and a thousand other things of

TOP QUALITY! AT BOTTOM PRICES!

Our Universal Programme attracts thousands to our doors. Our capability of supplying all the wants of life in a fashion that is convenient and expeditious makes our store the shopping centre to which all flock. The common desire to get all they can for their money brings the people, and the consummation of that desire makes them come again. They go in with a pound to spend, and come out with all they want and five shillings to spare. They go through an elaborate process of shopping, including furnishing a house, arranging about carpets, seeing to floorcloths, looking out pots and pans, selecting crockery and choosing knives and forks. They have been attracted by the display and delighted with everything they have been shown, and, most delightful of all, the bill has staggered them by the extent of the ground it covered and the smallness of the total it showed. And yet it's simple enough; it's because we give everyone who favours us with their custom

TOP QUALITY! AT BOTTOM PRICES!

This is the experience of tens of thousands who make our store their market, their shop for everything, their place to come to when they have any craving want or desire, when they're sorting up the family stores, renewing the family clothing, or looking for materials for the family breakfast. A nice cup of tea, did you say? Oh, yes, the nicest in the world. One spoonful for each of the family, and you may leave out the usual one for the pot, because our teas, being prime, require nothing extra to get at their flavour. All our Groceries and Provisions on the same basis all good, all first rate. Jams and Jellies, Sugar and Salt, Pickles and Peas, Bacon and Butter, Brickdust and Blacking, all of

THE EVANGELINE SEASON.
The Messrs. MACMAHON announce the Complete, Magnificent and very Emphatic Success of the Second of the important series of engagements made by Mr. James MacMahon in America.
TO-NIGHT, and EVERY EVENING,
a superb and altogether unique production of the beautiful and immensely successful American Romantic Burlesque, EVANGELINE,
which is a household word in America, and for the first production of which in Australia the following special and extraordinary engagements have been made:—
The Composer,
Mr. EDWARD E. RICE,
has come to Australia to personally direct the production.
Mr. GEO. K. FORTESCUE,
the most eminent Burlesque Actor in America, and the original Katherine in "Evangeline," has been induced to visit the colonies, here to repeat his world-famed characterisation.
Mr. JOSEPH HARRIS,
the original "Lone Fisherman" of Evangeline, that quaint and curious identity, who is as familiar throughout America as Santa Claus, and Miss VIRGINIA EARL,
the Graceful "Gabriel."
FULL OPERA BAND, CHORUS and BALLET of 60.
In order to bring about the very strongest possible Operatic and Burlesque Organisation, an amalgamation has been made whereby the newcomers will be reinforced by some of the sterling favourites from the Opera House, Melbourne.
The whole, together with the Full Band, Chorus, and Ballet, constituting the MOST POWERFUL DOUBLE COMPANY ever arrayed upon the Australian stage.
Miss FANNIE LIDDIARD, the charming Prima Donna Contralto and the Eminent Comedian and ever-welcome favourite
Mr. JOHN GOURLAY.
The Superb Scenery of "Evangeline" by
Mr. John Hennings, Mr. Fred. Edmunds, Bert Levy, and Assistants.
Mr. RICE will conduct the Orchestra TO-NIGHT.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January 12, 1866.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure for cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution: None genuine without the words, "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Latest London Novelty,
WILLIAMSON'S
OUR FLAT COMPANY,
specially organised by Mr. J. C. Williamson for the production of the New Three-Act
Farcical Comedy
OUR FLAT,
written by Mrs. Musgrave.
OUR FLAT was produced at the Strand Theatre, London, by Mr. Willie Edouin, and at once became the talk of the town as a legitimate successor to "Our Boys," and for over two years remained the standard attraction for all visitors to the great metropolis. The wit and humour of the dialogue, the natural and lifelike incidents, and typical portraits of character appealed to all classes. Old and young found delightful amusement in witnessing "Our Flat," the result being intense satisfaction to the public and a fortune to the manager.
OUR FLAT will be supported by a most powerful company of eminent artistes.
Box Plan for "Our Flat" open TO-DAY, WEDNESDAY, at Nicholson's.
OUR FLAT,
the greatest Farcical Comedy of modern times,
SATURDAY NEXT, JUNE 27,
at the GARRICK THEATRE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CANTERBURY.
Gentlemen,—
I beg to return to you my sincere thanks for the high and honourable position in which you have placed me by the polling on Wednesday last. To the 7281 electors who recorded their votes in my favour, to the Committees at each centre, to the Secretaries of such Committees, and to the earnest and zealous workers who conjointly laboured to secure my return, I remain under a deep debt of gratitude, which I shall endeavour to repay by serving the constituency and the country faithfully and fearlessly to the best of my ability and in accordance with those principles which I have openly advocated at all times.
I desire also to tender my grateful acknowledgment of the many congratulations which, by letters and by telegrams, have reached me from many portions of the colony.
I remain, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
J. H. CARRUTHERS.

ILLAWARRA DISTRICT.
FOR ABSOLUTE SALE, THE FREEHOLD LANDS AND COAL MINES of the COAL CLIFF LAND and COAL-MINING COMPANY, Limited.
BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEE.
The Freehold Land comprises an area of about 5400 acres, and extends from the borders of the NATIONAL PARK on the North to beyond CLIFTON in the South; and as the land north of the property, as well as that lying to the south of it, has been proved to be coal-bearing, it must be admitted that the whole of the intervening 5000 acres mentioned also contain the well-known coal-bearing measures of the Illawarra District. On the most southern and eastern block of the company's land, containing an area of 150 acres, is situated the COAL MINE, from which during many years thousands of tons have been shipped to the Sydney market, while in other parts of the adjacent land is the village occupied by the miners' cottages.
A portion of this Estate is traversed by the Illawarra Railway, and on it is situated the Township and Railway Station of Clifton.

POWELL'S BALSAM of ANISEED.
In palace and cottage alike, Powell's Balsam of Aniseed is the old and unexcelled COUGH REMEDY. Its large sale throughout the whole civilised world proclaims its great worth.
MR. THOS. A. SHERIDAN, of Elphin, Ireland, writes:—"For three days and nights I was a stranger to rest and sleep; racked and almost killed with a hard cough, I tried all kinds of remedies, but to no purpose. At length a friend kindly supplied me with a quarter of a small bottle of your Balsam, and told me to try it, which I accordingly did. The result has been miraculous. The cough has almost ceased, and I have once more found out (thanks to your Balsam) what it is to enjoy sleep and life."

IMITATIONS.
Only articles possessing some special and acknowledged excellence are worth imitating; and thus, induced by the unprecedented success of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, dishonest traders, with reckless audacity, have tried to pass off on the public utterly worthless imitations. In order, therefore, to protect the public against such fraudulent imitations, the well-known Trade Mark—"Lion, Net, and Mouse"—is conspicuously printed on the wrapper of every bottle of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, and any imitation of the same is forgery and a breach of the law relating to Trade Marks.

REVIEWS.

Canada and the Canadian Question. By GOLDWIN SMITH, D.C.L. With Map. London and New York: Macmillan and Co. 1891.

"Whether the four blocks of territory"—the maritime provinces, comprising Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward's Island; old Canada, comprising the present provinces of Quebec and Ontario; the new region of the North-West, and British Columbia—"constituting the Dominion can for ever be kept by political agencies united among themselves and separate from their continent, of which geographically, economically, and, with the exception of Quebec, ethnologically they are parts, is the Canadian Question." That is the form in which Professor Goldwin Smith states the proposition on which he bases this book, and it requires but a slight knowledge of the writer to guess the tenor of the answer running through these pages. Their arrangement is pointedly methodic. First the separate Provinces are delineated; then follows a sketch of their political history leading up to the British North America Act and the Confederation; an account of the Confederation itself, with its political sequel up to the present time; and then the problem is propounded. As an uncompromising opponent of the policy of Sir John Macdonald, and an eager controversialist, the writer has entered on his work con amore. The style, as usual, twinkles with points of imperfectly suppressed epigram. "To impart anything like liveliness to a discussion of the British North America Act," he says, in one place, "one must have the touch of Voltaire." Mr. Goldwin Smith seems desirous of being regarded as possessing a touch like that, and perhaps, on the whole, his efforts to redeem the reputation may strike some tastes as tending considerably to lighten these pages.

A decidedly unsympathetic account is given of the state of things in the French province of Quebec. To the habitants, as the peasantry are called, it is a French colony still, and the clergy are as much spiritual guides and the champions of the nationality as was the case among their Breton ancestors under the Bourbons. "If there is an Arcadia anywhere, in the habitan's village most likely it is to be found." The other side of the picture makes him ignorant, credulous, unprogressive; the church services are the poetry and pageantry of his life; he is not cultivated or aspiring, but "his life is above that of the troglodyte of La Terre." This is not enthusiastic, but it supplies an argument for the writer's use later on, as when he says that "the factories of New England welcome the French because they are tractable, amenable to factory discipline, and not addicted to industrial war." Ontario, or British Canada, is the core of the Confederation. "Rich by nature, poor by policy," might be written over her door. "Rich she would be," says the writer, "if she were allowed to embrace her destiny and be a part of her own continent; poor, comparatively at least, she is in striving to remain a part of Europe." The basis of society is sound, though agriculture, which is the staple industry, is depressed; the Canadian himself being described as a moral, honest, temperate man, albeit close. "Fried pork, bread ill-baked, heavy pies, coarse and strong green tea account perhaps in part for the increase of lunacy," hazards Mr. Smith, with hardihood. In all fundamental respects—yeoman proprietorship, democratic sentiment, the social influence of wealth, journalism, the servant difficulty, and the unattractive manifestation of the democratic spirit among the lower class of boys—the structure of society and its developments are identical with those of the United States. Canada has been "industrially annexed" by the Knights of Labour. The writer devotes some thirty very readable pages to the elaboration of the parallel, and concludes them with the remark that "saving the special connection of a limited circle with the old country, Ontario is an American State of the northern type, cut off from its sisters by a customs line, [under a separate Government and flag." The maritime provinces are in the main identical with it in all social and political respects. Manitoba and the North-West are new country in the pioneer stage, peopled by Skye crofters, Icelanders, Mormonites, and young men from England who suggest a locally familiar type in the circumstance that the jesters of the North-West call "remittances from home" the English man's harvest. British Columbia is cut off by the Rockies, and "the cottage villas with their rose gardens of Victoria have an English look, and she prides herself on being English in spirit." "The most lively thing about her at present," proceeds the writer, with a touch of mannerism that smacks more of Chicago than of Oxford, "is the Chinese colony, where we come into contact with the advance guard of that countless host which, bar it out with laws and poll-taxes on immigration as you will—hunger driving it on and capital craving for its cheap labour—can hardly be arrested in its march, and may some day possess the coast of the Pacific." So much for the Canada of to-day.

An interesting, though characteristically disfigured, chapter follows about French Canada before the conquest; after which came the concessions by the British to preserve its allegiance in the face of the American Revolution. Royalist refugees from the old colonies came in and formed an "oligarchy of conquest," and attempts were made to solve the problem of settlement and ownership by dividing the colony into a French and English province. All this, of course, is common history; but the writer handles his subject in such a way to throw out in relief the forces that constructed French Canada, and the Confederation later on, on their present lines; and to demonstrate that Ontario can only secure the freedom of action that absolute independence of French Canada would give, by dropping the Imperial connection which holds each in its relative place within the Confederation. The same object would, of course, have been secured if circumstances had allowed of French Canada being treated from the first strictly as a conquered country. The chapter on the history of Upper Canada enters into this part of the subject. Then comes the Durham mission, and the famous Durham-Buller report, with its result in the shape of a reunion of the provinces under responsible government; the subsequent conflicts between the power of the Crown and that of the Assembly, the failure of the union policy to bring about British ascendancy or assimilate the French element, the collapse of 1846, the Reciprocity Treaty, and that state of political deadlock out of which the only issue was by the doorway of confederation. The history of the state of things immediately antecedent to that step is instructive. We read how in the United Parliament the French element was so powerful in its rôle of the old conservative party that politics were impossible without it, and once again there was talk of the Upper Canadians, as the Durham Despatch put it, "ceasing to be English that they might continue to be British,"—joining the States, that is, to escape the overwhelming influence of the French of Lower Canada:—

At last there came a Ministry with a majority of two, which afterwards dwindled to one, so that the fate of the Administration might hang on the success of a page in hunting up a member before a division, and the dangerous opportunity was afforded to each individual politician of saving the country by his single vote. Dissolutions only made faction more factious. Finally there was a deadlock. The wheels of the political machine ceased to turn, and the most necessary legislation was at a stand. As a door of escape from the predicament into which their factiousness and selfishness had brought the country, the politicians bethought them of a confederation including all the North American colonies of Great Britain.

The three maritime colonies had already discussed a union among themselves, but they failed to agree about the site of the capital; Judge Haliburton had ventilated a scheme for a Canadian confederation long ago in Sam Slick; Lord Durham had recommended it; and there was always the advantage it would give in case of invasion. The Reciprocity Treaty of Elgin had been for some years lost to Canada; and finally, the new representatives in the Federal Parliament from the maritime provinces would help to outvote the French contingent and render politics partially independent of it. So in 1864 the "grit" leader Mr. George Brown coalesced with Sir John A. Macdonald; delegates were appointed by the Governors of all the colonies, a conference held, and a scheme drawn up; this was submitted to the Legislatures, taken to London and submitted to the Colonial Office, and in due course embodied in what is now known as the British North America Act, constituting the Confederation. "Its real parent," says Goldwin Smith, "was Deadlock." Some of his remarks at this point are of interest to us just now. He says, for instance,—

There was nothing morally to prevent the submission of the plan to the people any more than there was to prevent a vote of the colonial Legislatures on the project. The framers can hardly have failed to see how much the Constitution would gain in sacredness by being the act of the whole community. They must have known what was the source of the veneration with which the American Constitution is regarded by the people of the United States. The natural inference is that the politicians were not sure that they had the people with them. . . . The Constitution of the Canadian Confederation is valid by acquiescence alone. . . . If some day Canadians are called upon to make a great sacrifice of wealth and security in order that they may keep their own institutions, the reply perhaps will be that the institutions are not their own, but were imposed upon them by a group of politicians struggling to escape from a predicament into which their factiousness had drawn them.

To the reader who is interested in the Australian Federation proposals, perhaps the most interesting chapter in the book is that on the Federal Constitution which the Act of 1867 secured. "A false front of monarchy," as Mr. Smith describes it, is represented by a Governor-General who does not govern, and who solemnly delegates his impotence to a puppet Lieutenant-Governor in each province. They are the "ventriloquial apparatus" of their Ministers. The Dominion Parliament is opened with parade and cannon; the Provincial Parliament ceremony is less impressive, and in some cases is "reduced to a series of explosions mimicking cannon." The power of dissolution seems to have been abandoned with the rest; the Governor-General now appears to feel himself bound to dissolve Parliament at the bidding of his Minister, and "the robe of the Queen's representative in this and other cases forms a decorous cover for the practices of the colonial politician." The writer makes merry over the attempts to engraft court etiquette on the "ignorant Canadians." He jibes cruelly at knighthoods and baronetcies. "To make a colony an outpost of aristocracy for the purpose of maintaining that institution at home," he says, "is to sacrifice the political character of an American community to the interest of a European caste." The Lieutenant-Governorships are bestowed by party leaders on worn-out politicians. But "passing through the false front into the real edifice," we find that Canada is a Federal Republic after the American model. The Dominion Legislature answers to Congress, the Provincial Legislature to the State Legislature, the Dominion Prime Minister and Cabinet to the President and his Cabinet, the Provincial Prime Ministers and their Cabinets to the Governors and officers of States, so that "were a Canadian Province to be turned at once into a State of the Union, the change would be felt by the people only in a certain increase of self-government, the political machinery would act as it does now." The deviations in the Canadian copy are chiefly in the direction of an increase of the federal power. Says this writer:—

The framers of the Canadian Constitution fancied that American secession was an awful warning against leaving the Federal Government too weak. In this they were mistaken, for slavery and slavery alone was the cause of secession, and had the Federal Government possessed authority to deal with the Southern institution and proceeded to exert it, that would only have precipitated the catastrophe. Perhaps, however, the Canadian legislators were swayed by the centralising tendency and sentiment of the monarchy with which they were connected. . . The Federal Government . . . has by the constitution a political veto on all State legislation, whereas in the American Republic State legislation can be cancelled only on legal grounds by the Supreme Court. And whereas, by the American Constitution, all powers not given to the Federation are left in the States, by the Canadian Constitution all powers not given to the provinces are left in the Federation. This last distinction is important.

Doubts have recently been raised about the wisdom of the national veto, but at the time it was adopted prominent politicians spoke of it as the safeguard of the system, and necessary in order that the Central Government should have a control over the local Legislatures. Mr. Smith considers that the Canadian system is better than the American as regards the non-separation of the executive from the legislature, "contrary to Montesquieu's false notion." In the American House, he says, business is only furthered by allowing the Speaker to act as party leader of the majority, and nominate partisan committees; and if a president pursues a course of policy at variance with that of Congress, the only remedy is the rough one of impeachment. But, on the other hand, it is pointed out that the American system gives the country a stable executive, independent of the fluctuating majorities of the legislative chamber and shifting combinations which sometimes make it impossible to find a firm foundation for a Government. The Canadian Senate is nominated by the Crown, and is described as being "as nearly a cipher as it is possible for an Assembly legally invested with large powers to be. The chief reason for rejecting the elective principle in use before the Confederation was that "if the Senate felt the sap of popular election in its veins its spirit would become too high; it would claim equality as a legislative power with the House of Commons, perhaps even in regard to money bills, and collision between the two Houses would ensue." This is one of the problems before our own Convention a few weeks ago; but the difficulty, in this writer's opinion, is inseparable from the two-chamber system. "To construct a body," he says, "which, without claiming co-ordinate authority, shall act as a court of legislative revision, and as the sober second-thought of the community, is practically beyond the power of the political architect." Canada, he thinks, was led away by the notion of a House of Lords, which never acted so, but merely stands as the House of a privileged order, resisting change in the interests of privilege. Nothing analogous to it exists in Canada, and in framing Canadian institutions it ought to have been put out of sight, in the opinion of those who follow Mr. Goldwin Smith; yet the Senate there is treated with ironical respect. Its members sit in gilded chairs, and are styled "Honourable," taking precedence on ceremonial occasions of the holders of real power.

The Senate neither initiates nor controls important legislation. After meeting for the session it adjourns to wait for the arrival of bills from the Commons. About once in a session it is allowed to reject or amend some measure of secondary importance by way of showing that it lives. . . . . Its debates are rarely reported.

Of the 76 Senators of Canada, all but nine have been nominated by a party leader, who is accused by this writer of having exercised his power for a party purpose, if for no narrower object. The reference, of course, is to the late Sir John Macdonald, whom Mr. Goldwin Smith carefully refrains from naming throughout almost the whole of his book. He speaks of the inevitable tendency towards manhood suffrage, of which the founders of the Confederation promised to steer clear; and he tolerates payment of members as the choice between the two evils of paying a needy man regularly and letting him pay himself in irregular ways. Here is a passage in which a hint is apparently thrown out for ourselves:—

The absence in the debate on Confederation of any attempt to forecast the composition and action of Federal parties fatally detracts from the value of the discussion. If Australia or any other group of colonies thinks of following the example of Canada, a forecast, as definite as the nature of the case will permit, of Federal parties will be at least as essential to the formation of a right judgment as the knowledge of anything relating to the machinery of the Constitution.

Mr. Smith thinks that before federation is assumed to be a universal cure it would be well to consider how far such a thing as a genuine federation now exists; and in another "aside" to these colonies, he remarks:—

We cannot help once more warning the Australians. That federation under the elective system involves not merely the union of the several States under one Government with powers superior to them all, but the creation of a Federal party with all the faction, demagogism, and corruption which party contests involve over a new field and on a vastly extended scale. It is surprising how little this obvious and momentous consideration appears to be present to the minds of statesmen when the question of federation is discussed.

The writer mentions a curious fact in connection with the exodus of Canadians towards the States. After premising that it is reckoned that there are now south of the line a million of such emigrants and half a million of their children; that 300 persons left St. John and 400 Montreal in one week; that Ontario farm property has declined 30 per cent.; he adds, "Strange to say, the exodus has told in favour of the stability of Government; not only because it forms a vent, but because the emigrants, as a rule, are the most active-minded, and there are probably among them at least two Liberals for one Conservative."

At this rate, the operation in Canada of the principle of the survival of the fittest will presently abandon the Dominion to the unprogressive elements in the community. The temporary remedy this writer suggests is to admit Canada to a free market, by bringing her within the commercial pale of her own continent; but "there is a natural flow of population to the great centres of employment in the United States." He is a fervid anti-Imperial Federationist. Were England to withdraw from the American continent, he thinks, she would have no more diplomatic entanglements about boundaries and fisheries, or of the ill-feeling which her presence there enables her enemies in the States to keep up. As to emigration, 49,168 left Britain for Canada in 1888, as against 293,099 to the States; and of those who shipped to Canada half went on to the States. Finally, he quotes with approval the remarks of a Canadian knight:—"I do not think that we are under any deep debt of gratitude to English statesmen, that we owe them much, unless, perchance, it may be our duty as Christian men to forgive them for the atrocious blunders which have marked every treaty, transaction, or negotiation which they have ever had with the United States where the interests of Canada were concerned."

In the last chapter Mr. Goldwin-Smith balances the tendencies towards dependence and independence, criticises the Imperial Federation scheme, and political union and commercial reciprocity with the States as they will affect Canada. He objects to "annexation" as a term to describe the union, which should be on terms like those of Scotland with England; he condemns protection as the bane of Canadian trade, and concludes with a half prophecy that the result of the recent elections in Canada would be fatal to the Macdonald Ministry and favourable to the new state of things he advocates in his very partisan volume—a prophecy which events have since disproved.

A Treatise upon the Employers' Liability Act. By G. C. WADE, B.A. Oxon, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-law. Sydney: C. F. Maxwell. 1891.

This is an examination of the Employers' Liability Act of 1886, with special reference to the doctrine of "Volenti non fit injuria," as to the application of which there has been some conflict of judicial opinions lately. "An apology seems necessary," says the author, "for editing a short Act of Parliament; but when we consider the number of persons whose immediate interest it is to know their true legal position when confronted with dangers that arise during their employment, it is possible that this extended scope will not be considered unwarrantable." A commentary on the corresponding statutes of England and Victoria is also given. A useful introduction presents a continuous account of the statutory provisions in regard to this question, in which technicalities are avoided and conclusions only in contested points are stated, for the guidance of the layman; and the book is put forward in the hope that, if the conclusions arrived at cannot be accepted literally, they may at least be of some service in the solution of a difficult problem in the law of master and servant.

The "Volenti non fit injuria" maxim expresses the voluntary nature of the action of the workman, and its application is seen in cases where the defence has been raised that the risk was incidental to the employment. When this has been proved the plaintiff has failed because it is assumed that he impliedly agreed either to accept an obvious risk as incidental to the employment, or a newly discovered risk on the same terms; and inasmuch as he had agreed to relieve the employer of any liability in respect of such accepted risks, the latter owed him no duty. "But in truth," says Mr. Wade, "the Latin maxim has no application as a defence between master and servant, and is based on a different principle of law;" and he goes on to illustrate the importance of the distinction by the changes legislation has made in the defences that were available to the employer at Common Law. In a decision under the English Act of 1880, by Chief Justice Cockburn, it is laid down that a man who enters on a necessarily dangerous employment with his eyes open takes it with its accompanying risks. On the other hand, if the danger is concealed from him, and an accident happens before he becomes aware of it, or if he is led to expect, or may reasonably expect, that proper precautions will be adopted by the employer to prevent or lessen the danger, and from the want of such precautions an accident happens to him before he has become aware of their absence, he may hold the employer liable." And Bramwell has decided that "there is nothing legally wrong in the use by the employer of works or machinery more or less dangerous to his workmen or less safe than others that might be adopted," and that "it does not create a right of action for an injury which it may occasion when the workman is as well acquainted as the master with the nature of the machinery, and voluntarily uses it." A decision in Weblin v. Ballard, in 1886, however, lays it down that "the mere fact that deceased knew that the work was manifestly dangerous of itself does not constitute contributory negligence; if it was shown that deceased had used that which was dangerous in a negligent manner, that would have been contributory negligence." Before the passing of the Employers' Liability Act in 1880, says Mr. Wade, "the defendant might have said—(1) The plaintiff was injured through the negligence of a fellow-servant, or (2) The injury complained of was a risk incidental to the employment; and either of these defences would have been a complete answer to the plaintiff's claim for damages." It is the purpose of this book to show how and in what respects these defences have since become weakened. The book is urgently needed. The writer has shown considerable labour and research, and the volume as it stands is likely to be of great service to the public generally, and especially to all interested in the working of the Employers' Liability Act.

"The Light that Failed," by Rudyard Kipling (Macmillan and Co.) is the latest of this successful writer's stories, and a preface explains that the present form is the one in which it was originally conceived by the writer. It is not an Indian history; and though there is a good deal of army colouring in it, that element is only treated from the point of view of the artist and newspaper correspondent. There is a rude strength about the story that compels interest, though the plot itself is slight. The story, indeed, is simply one of the boy-and-girl love of a couple who are separated, to meet again in later life, when the man is an artist correspondent, whose boldly-original battle sketches from Egypt have won him fame, while the woman is a rather commonplace art student. Dick becomes blind, and Maisie, instead of marrying, leaves him. There are some vigorous sketches of the "special correspondent," the Bohemian life of Dick and his friends, and a girl waif, who serves as a model. Conventionally viewed, the story may be as unsatisfactory as some critics have found it; but it is full of crude vigour and rugged strength.

"The Wages of Sin," by Lucas Malet (E. Robertson and Co.), is an able book, in this writer's forcibly realistic style. The hero is a successful artist, who deserts the mother of his child in favour of a lady in a superior station in life to his own, who discovers the state of affairs before the marriage, which is announced, has taken place; and out of this material the writer has put together a powerful analytic study of life and its problems from the point of view of the realistic school in fiction literature. The book is very clever and full of interest.

"Tourmalin's Time Cheques" is the title of "a farcical extravaganza" from the vivacious pen of F. Anstey, author of "Vice Versâ" and "The Tinted Venus" (Arrowsmith, Bristol). The story is the outcome of an absurd fancy of the writer that waste time may be stored up in a species of time bank, to be drawn upon at any future time when the spare half-hours might be more welcome. Tourmalin is a passenger from Australia to England when he is induced to become a customer of this bank, and the book tells of the curious plights and outrageous "fixes" he gets himself into by fragmentary flirtations that might have taken place during the time spent on shipboard. The book is as clever as any of Anstey's previous efforts.

"News from Nowhere," by William Morris (Reeves and Turner, Strand), is a sketchy little volume, somewhat on the line of Bellamy's "Looking Backward," in which this writer essays a description of the state of society a couple of centuries hence, after the social revolution shall have taken place. It is almost impossible for Morris to write a book on such a subject that would not be clever, and this one is both able and interesting. The most practical portion of the sketch is that wherein the writer treats of the methods by which the social revolution is supposed to have been brought about; but his descriptions of the life of the Arcadian period he anticipates are full of this accomplished writer's peculiar charm.

INFORMAL VOTES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Being greatly interested in the present election, I think that it is most deplorable to see so many "informal votes" in the returns of almost every electorate; and to prevent so many electors from fruitlessly recording their votes, I would suggest that some method be adopted similar to that in existence in some New Zealand towns for municipal elections (as regards the general election, I cannot say whether this method is made use of, not having had an opportunity to record my vote while a resident), all directions being given as to how to vote at the top of the voting paper, the same being in large red print. I think that by introducing a method similar to the one referred to, it would prove most invaluable to those unaccustomed to the ballot-box. Providing it is not too late, this plan I think could with advantage be adopted for the remainder of the constituencies during the present election. By kindly inserting the above in your valuable columns, some means may be devised which may prove of great service to a large portion of the electors in future. I am, &c.,

EPPS' COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. ## FUGITIVE NOTES.

It is a melancholy sign of the decadence of a great people to find them forgetting the land of their nativity when seas between them braid ha's rolled since auld lang syne. This deplorable lapse has been feelingly touched upon by a correspondent in the Herald, who himself at least is not ashamed to call himself a "Scotchman," and who says that "it is seldom one finds a native of Scotland stand up for the dignity of his country when attacked"—and so on. This singular moderation—or shall we call it modesty—in the Scottish character is so frequently remarked in the colonies that one is inclined to cry in anguish, "Breathes there a man with soul so dead?" It is difficult to account for this peculiar characteristic in Scotchmen; for there is nothing in their country or its history that should tend to the death of patriotism, or afford us any valid clue to the fact of their flying from their country in such numbers, and then for ever trying to conceal the fact that they are Scotchmen, while they hear their country and their race despitefully spoken of in the land of the stranger. It is said that in the old red sandstone, or some other geological remnant of primeval epochs, the footprints impressed north of the Tweed are all pointing southward—Nulla vestigia retrorsum—which appears to prove that even in prehistoric ages the denizens of Caledonia stern and wild seemed to show their love of country by leaving it for ever; and so continuous has been the tendency ever since, that somebody that professes to know, says that if ever the North Pole is found, a Scotchman will be found astride of it. This centrifugal tendency may be all right enough, but how to account for the fact that one never finds a Scotchman to stand up for the dignity of his country when attacked, is the national feature that puzzles us. The occasion that elicited this saddening reflection was in the fact that only for once a defender has been found for the rights of Scotland in repelling the slanderous imputation that Glasgow is a town of England. This base effort to filch away the glory of Scotland is only of a piece with the unworthy attempts that are frequently made to ignore the major part of Great Britain; and a "Scotchman" very properly proves from the lips of Garter King of Arms, that "England was an appanage of the Scottish Crown." Only think of that now; and yet Scotchmen will allow themselves to be walked over in that way. Indeed, the cheek of these English people is something prodigious, for even before the Scottish James went south and put the crown of England on his head, it is unmistakable that England was but an appanage of the Channel Islands. The thing is easy enough proved, and every old true-blooded Jersey man knows it; for the Channel Islands were part of the dukedom of Normandy when their Prince William went over and annexed England at Hastings. The subsequent cession of the continental part of the dukedom to France does not affect the position, and the Channel Islands are, therefore, the legitimate inheritors of the dominancy over England. The claim may possibly be disputed by the Scots in virtue of subsequent conquest; but that in view of these rival claims English people should think anything of themselves is a piece of unwarrantable self-conceit. Pity is that the intuitive modesty of a Scotchman prevents him from standing up for his country.

One of the comforts derivable from the modern advances of medical science is that a man can die in a dignified way; that is to say, instead of sinking under some old and loathsome malady, he can succumb to something with such a fine nomenclature that one feels it almost a pleasure to die. If the microbes did nothing more by putting themselves in evidence than this they deserve all the distinction that has been heaped upon them, for they not only enable the doctors to differentiate in sesquipedalia verba between tweedledum and tweedledee, and so minister to the elevation of the profession in the eyes of all right-thinking men, but they smoothe the dying pillow by the reflection that one is passing away under a refined and learned pathology. What we used to call cancer in animals is not called cancer at all now, but "actinomycosis," and where is the man of proper feeling that would have the conscience longer to object to a joint of diseased meat if he knows that what is the matter with it has so picturesque an appellation. It may be communicated from animals to man, but what of that? A rose by other name may smell as sweet, but cancer by another name may be shorn of all its repulsiveness, and become rather unobjectionable eating. At least, that is the testimony of an authority who has written to the Herald on the subject, and says that "the cause of the cancer in man is 'different to' that of cancer in animals, and is unknown." True science is usually a modest thing, and does not speak dogmatically of the unknown; and so long as the genesis of cancer is unknown, people who follow commonly the leadings of common sense will be reluctant to masticate actinomycosis, quite as much as when, in the old dark ages of physiological knowledge, it was called by the name of cancer.

It is a lamentable fact that the best developments in arts as well as in nature are checked by evil influences. High breeding in animals, high culture in trees, have their special parasites or poisons that kill them if unabated; and scientific invention in the same way seems always to stimulate something to spring up and mar it. There is our favourite and everywhere becoming popular penny-in-the-slot, and already it is doomed. It was the boast of its authors that it could discriminate by a hairsbreadth in diameter, or a featherweight in avoirdupois; and its impounding of flattened buttons and bits of zinc, with never a response to the would-be cheat, was regarded as a testimony at once to its perfection, and the imperfections and moral depravity of human nature. But somebody, it is said, has made a brazen thing that fits the slot, and cheats the instrument. This is what might have been expected, and it rings the death-knell of what promised to be the coming power of the age. For it is manifest that whenever the extension of this business makes it worth the while a "chevalier of industry" will arise and meet the wants of the dishonest. The advance from a penny to a sixpence and a shilling and a sovereign would have been the natural development of this mechanical contrivance; but a cunning blend of metals, the manipulation of a cheap alloy corresponding accurately in bulk and weight, must necessarily be capable of meeting the conditions of the instrument. Mechanical contrivances may do much, but there is a limit beyond which they cannot pass, and at which it requires the quick eye and the ready intelligence to keep them right. The glance, the touch, the sound that tell the practised human of the presence of the counterfeit coins can not be possessed by the automaton, and "put the penny in the slot" has its limit there.

The "Stranger" who writes complaining the ministers don't "speak up" in the pulpit is conscious of having a real grievance. In the roar and whirl of election excitement, when demagogues have been bawling from a hundred platforms, one is refreshed at meeting with one who is out of it all, and who only complains that he can't hear the sermon. The irreverent may say that life must go easy with him, and that he has not much to trouble him, when he thinks it incumbent on him to lift up his voice and complain through the public press that he can't hear the sermon. The evident sincerity of his plaint shows, however, that it is no trivial thing with him, and nobody knows how many an hour he has spent in musing on his trouble, and in making up his mind to "write to the papers." But is there not just a little selfishness in his asking for louder speaking because he is himself a little deaf. Should he not think of the hundreds of others whose repose would be disturbed, and to whom the quiet somniferous hum of the service is just what they want? One is inclined to think gently of the man who is troubled about his sermon when all the world is agape with platform excitement; but there is just a tinge of the universal spirit of selfishness in this request for more sound from the pulpit.

The domestic relations are feeling the spirit of the age, and though woman has not yet won the right to be a member of Parliament, it is surprising how rapidly she is by force of character sustaining her claims to the equality of the sexes. The other day at Goulburn a woman, with becoming coyness, but womanly pride, admitted having thrashed her husband with a whip, and the Police Magistrate said she had done perfectly right, and that it would have an excellent effect if all the wives of drunken husbands did the same, instead of appealing to the Court for protection. He said he knew one or two other instances in which wives had adopted this course with beneficial results, and the imprimatur of judicial authority having been thus given to the process, we should not be surprised if we find a general new departure in the regulation of the family ménage. It goes without saying that the magisterial counsel only applied to cases in which the recognised head of the establishment had abrogated his right to rule by habitually putting in his mouth that which stole away his brains. In such cases, provided always that the woman felt confidence in a sufficiency of physical strength, taking into account the temporarily demoralised condition of her hubby, there is a swift effectiveness in the remedy that commends it to adoption. But in the absence of such assurance it is a risky proceeding, no matter what the magistrate says. If this therefore is the law, in the spirit of its modern interpretation, as presumably it is, it follows that it is the duty of a wife, liable to be called on to put forth her abilities in this way, to prepare herself for her new duties by taking lessons with the boxing gloves, or at least with the singlestick. Hitherto the only weapon of defence and offence with which Nature was supposed to have endowed her, has been her tongue; and though it is admitted to be effective within its limits, it cannot be said to lead to practical results, at least in the solution of domestic trouble. Under the conditions necessary for success, the method recommended by the Goulburn magistrate has the merit of having more practical effects; and even though a woman may be inferior in brute force, she is not infrequently endowed with wonderful pluck, and if moderately trained, she might show good work with a riding whip or a walking-stick or an umbrella, or the poker or the leg of a chair, or anything else that comes handy. One might have been disposed to doubt the law of the Goulburn magistrate, but we see from recent decisions in the high courts at home that the principles of domestic economy have been entirely revolutionised in these later times; and, no matter what may have been thought about marital rights in the past, that in the eye of the law the grey mare may be the better horse.

A STATE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—When, last Friday evening, I sent you a few lines supporting Mr. R. S. Nottingham's proposal for the establishment of a Musical Academy, I scarcely expected that my seemingly mild and inoffensive letter would have brought down such a peal of thunder on my head as has been launched from the Jove-like arm of Mr. R. S. Smythe. Poor Mr. Nottingham shares with me that gentleman's Olympian wrath; but as he is no doubt able to be his own protector, I will simply defend myself, in the space that I solicit for the purpose, from the strictures with which your correspondent has endeavoured to discredit my advocacy of a State Academy, to the opposition of which, however, Mr. Smythe devotes only a dozen lines out of nearly a hundred. The remainder of his letter is mainly devoted to the endeavour to prove that I have been—I underline the covert sarcasms—"unwittingly, no doubt, a little ungrateful for the State aid already rendered to the purest and most refining of the arts; a little unjust to the many very competent professors of music in the colonies; and a little oblivious of the value of the visits to these shores of great European artists, from Catherine Hayes to Sir Charles Hallé." In these insinuations Mr. Smythe speaks very much without his book, and I can only, therefore, presume that because I have not enjoyed the honour of being upon the critical staff of either of the great daily papers, and as he, I believe, is not a regular resident of Sydney, he has not deemed it worth his while, before making these somewhat sweeping charges to acquaint himself with what I have done or have not done in the directions indicated, but has thought to snub me with a general sneer, and so extinguish me.

Dealing as briefly as possible with your correspondent's allegations. I have yet to learn that a municipality is a State, or that whatever the City Fathers may have done in the way of erecting magnificent organs, or engaging the ablest organists, can either be construed into State aid to music, or can produce thoroughly trained and competent musicians. During the eight and a half years that I have resided in Sydney I cannot call to mind any particular aid to music that has been rendered by the Government of New South Wales; though in other colonies where it has been granted, I have gratefully and willingly acknowledged it. I do not suppose that Mr. Smythe has ever heard (or would take the trouble to peruse it if he had) of a rather lengthy paper of mine on "Public Taste and its Improvement," which was read in Melbourne, in April, 1890, before the Victorian Architectural and Engineering Association, having been written at the special request of that body. Much of that paper would refute straight away Mr. Smythe's assumptions concerning the position I have taken with regard to music and musicians; but I can only ask you, Sir, to kindly allow me to quote the following sentences, with the remark that I alluded in another portion of my paper to what South Australia was doing for the encouragement of the arts:—

"In music, too, your colony has made a magnificent departure, in the finely interpreted and high-class music she provided for your great Centennial Exhibition, and in the present establishment of your Melbourne Orchestral Concerts; while in Sydney, with one of the greatest orchestral conductors that has ever visited Australia resident there, orchestral music has been literally begging, cap in hand; and a series of such concerts have at last been given only through the public spirit of Signor Hazon, Mr. Rivers Allpress, and their fellow orchestral artists, who resolved to play for the sheer love and honour of their art, whether the wealth and aristocracy of Sydney chose to come and hear them, and pay a shilling or two to do so, or stayed away. Did a properly organised Conservatoire of Music exist, a standard scheme of high-class concerts would of course be organised in connection with it; but pending the most desirable consummation of such a thing, State aid might certainly be accorded to a certain class of musical performances, just as it is accorded for the purchase of certain pictures."

Of course, since the Centennial Hall has been in use, and the magnificent organ has been opened, the applicability of these strictures has been considerably lessened.

With reference to my being "unjust to the many very competent professors of music in the colonies," I deny the charge indignantly and in toto. No musical critic has striven more persistently and conscientiously than I have done to bruit abroad the great abilities possessed by many of our resident musical artists, and to promote in every way the highest and best interests of music; in proof of which assertion I appeal to the leading professional and amateur musicians of Sydney, and to those talented gentlemen upon the daily press whom I had formerly the honour of calling my fellow critics. Ask the "pupil of Faccio," the "pupil of Alard," and "the leading French pianist." Ask especially the "pupil of Faccio" whether I was not one of the very first to chronicle his splendid talents as an orchestral conductor at a time when those talents having been principally manifested at Sunday concerts they had not received the general recognition of the daily press. Ask those who know whether I did not defend our great conductor—whom any country in the world might well be proud of,—from the jealous attacks of a well-known antagonist who was then occupying the position of musical editor in a neighbouring colony, and in his very paper, too, on which I was the Sydney critic. Ask my former readers of the terms in which I spoke of Miss Amy Sherwin's cultivated talents, however I may have condemned the rubbish that she mostly sang. Or ask the favourite and accomplished baritone professor of singing who managed the Italian Opera Company at the Gaiety Theatre in 1883, in what way I greeted the first appearance in Italian opera of Madame Vogrich (then Miss Alice Rees) in "La Sonnambula"—the very opera in which I so well remembered Patti's début years before—and whom (Miss Rees) I compared in my criticism of May 5 of that year to poor lamented Bosio. Both these ladies, as well as Madame Melba, I spoke of in a letter on "A Plea for Australian Art," which you were good enough to publish on the 16th of last August; and I also fancy I was the first (of late years) to publicly advocate the performance of the late George Packer's "Crown of Thorns." I could continue at considerable length in the same strain, but I have no desire either to unnecessarily burden your valuable space or to speak egotistically; my only wish is to defend myself from a most uncalled-for attack.

Surely, if Mr. Smythe had known a little more about me and my musical work than he appears to do, he might have supposed that an old London critic from the year 1865, and one of the directors of some of the foremost musical societies in England, who has known, or written about, or been brought personally into contact with, many of the greatest musical celebrities of the past quarter of a century, would be about the last man in the world to underestimate "the value of the visits to these shores of European artists."

After all his Jovian fulminations to annihilate me, Mr. Smythe regales your readers with this tiny shred of flimsy, would-be argument:—"In conclusion, it would appear that the case for a State-aided Academy of Music is by no means indisputably strong, and that the establishment of such an institution at the present time would be, to say the least, somewhat premature." Did ever mountain labour to bring forth so miserable a mouse? When Mr. Smythe or anybody else puts forward any real arguments against "the establishment of such an institution" I may perhaps endeavour to refute them; and if I have not the time, no doubt some other gentleman will.

THE SHEARING DIFFICULTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. A. B. Paterson writes in your issue of to-day on the sheep-shearing difficulty in this colony. He suggests that the Legislature should put forward an agreement to be called the "Government agreement," and that it should be binding on all parties. Mr. Paterson, like many well-intentioned people, appears to think that the Legislature can, by a stroke of the pen, adjust to universal satisfaction any difficulty or conflict that may arise between different individual parties in the State. But what reason can there be to suppose that an agreement respecting the shearing trouble, if drawn up by the Legislature, would be satisfactory to both parties concerned? None whatever. If it pleased the pastoralists it would be sure to displease the shearers, and vice versa. No agreement would satisfy the shearers unless it provide that unionists only should be employed in the woolsheds. There can be no mistake about the issue between the shearers and the pastoralists. It does not require Legislative wisdom to determine as to which of these two parties is in the right, and which in the wrong. The shearers say that none but members of their union shall shear sheep in station sheds. The pastoralists say that they will employ any man who offers his services and can satisfactorily perform his work. If the pastoralists refused to employ any man who was a member of the Shearers' Union, then there might be the colour of unfairness in their attitude. It is the shearers who are unreasonable; it is they who are the unjust party in the dispute. And of this I can assure Mr. Paterson, that no Legislative enactment—if the Legislature were insane enough to make one—would induce the pastoralists to budge one iota from the just and honourable position which they have assumed on this question.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—TUESDAY, JUNE 23.

No. 1 Jury Court.—(Before his Honor the CHIEF JUSTICE and a jury of four.)

NUNN V. BOROUGH OF REDFERN.

Mr. O'Connor and Mr. J. L. Campbell, instructed by Messrs. Urquhart and Steel, appeared for the plaintiff; and Sir Julian Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by Mr. W. H. Pigott, for the defendants. This was an action brought by William Nunn against the Borough of Redfern to recover compensation for injury done to his property owing, as alleged, to the borough having so improperly, carelessly, and negligently constructed and maintained certain drains and sewers that his property was flooded, and he not only lost the rents from such property for a considerable time, but had to expend a large amount of money in repairs. Damages were laid at £1000. The defendants filed a plea of not guilty.

Owing to the absence of a juror, who through illness was unable to attend, the case was further adjourned till Monday next, and the Court rose.

No. 2 Jury Court.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice STEPHEN and a jury of four.)

ALLPRESS V. HANNINGTON.

Dr. Sly, instructed by Mr. J. M. Fawl, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Hanbury Davies, instructed by Mr. Frank A. Davenport, for the defendant. This was an action brought by James B. Allpress against Laura Hannington to recover balance of account for money lent to defendant and money paid on her behalf. Plaintiff's case was that defendant was formerly housekeeper to a Mr. Benjamin Alexander, of Hoxton Park, and upon his death he left defendant his estate, which she asked plaintiff to look after. As the estate consisted for the most part of land, plaintiff lent defendant £32 5s, and subsequently at various times he lent her other sums, and also paid £7 14s to take defendant's watch out of pawn. The total amount claimed was £91 10s 4d, of which sum defendant paid £41 10s 10d into court, leaving a balance of £49 19s 6d, to which she pleaded never indebted.

The case was not concluded.

No. 3 Jury Court.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice WINDEYER and a jury of four.)

SOLLING V. BROUGHTON.—PART HEARD.

Mr. Pilcher, Q.C., and Dr. Donovan, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Want, Q.C., and Mr. Wise, instructed by Messrs. Way, for the defendant.

This was a suit to determine the ownership of certain lands at Ball's Head Bay, North Shore. There were two suits between the parties, which the Court had ordered should be tried together. Mrs. Ellen French and Mr. W. B. Solling were the plaintiffs, and Mr. Thomas Broughton was the defendant. The defendant was applying to have brought under the provisions of the Real Property Act 10 acres of land situated at Ball's Head Bay, North Shore. The plaintiffs had lodged a caveat against this application, as they claimed the land as theirs. The issues to be tried were whether the caveators had a documentary title to the land, and whether the title of the applicant had been destroyed by 20 years' continuous possession prior to the lodging of the application to bring the land under the Real Property Act. The plaintiffs in the action claimed to be in possession both by deed and by 40 years' possession. The evidence for the plaintiff would be that the land 40 years ago was well defined by natural boundaries, although it was not fenced. At that time W. L. Gore was in possession of the land, and let it to tenants for quarrying purposes. In 1850 the land was surveyed. In 1863 W. L. Gore died, and the land passed to his next of kin. He had two sisters resident in the colony, one of whom was Mrs. Charlotte French. She left a nephew named John French, who went into possession of the land with the acquiescence of his mother and sister, and in 1865 he had the land again surveyed. He let the land to various tenants, and by his will he devised it to his wife in general terms. In 1878 Mrs. French fenced it in, and in 1881 she conveyed to her brother 2¾ acres of the block, and since then her brother had been in possession of the whole 10 acres with her permission. He had lived on the land with his family since then, and the title of the plaintiffs was a possessory and documentary title.

The examination of Thomas Broughton was concluded, and evidence in rebuttal was given by the plaintiff, Ellen French. The case stands as part heard.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice INNES.)

CONNORS V. KELLY.

Mr. Pilcher, Q.C., Mr. C. B. Stephen, and Mr. Ferguson, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, appeared for the plaintiff, and the Attorney-General (Mr. G. B. Simpson, Q.C.) and Mr. Heydon, instructed by Mr. Rawlinson (of Bega), for defendant. This was a claim for £500 damages for assault. The case was tried last week, and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff with damages £25. The question of costs was reserved, and judgment was now delivered upon that point.

His HONOR, after stating the facts, proceeded: In the case of Minehan v. Clarke, reported in 9 S.C.R., 227, Stephen, C.J., elaborately examines the principles by which a Judge should be guided in granting or refusing a certificate for costs. The Chief Justice at p. 229 points out that the amount actually recovered is not the only guide, and proceeds: "It may be that the matter in contest, although in itself of no great value, may depend on or involve difficult questions of law, or serious and complicated questions of fact. The plaintiff also may justly have expected and been in fact entitled to a much larger sum." Now, applying those principles to this case, am I justified in saying that there was—to use the words of the Chief Justice in that case—"a sufficient reason for sueing in the Supreme Court, rather than in the less expensive and more accessible jurisdiction?" It was stated by Mr. Pilcher that the action was not brought by the plaintiff. The plaintiff swore that she never thought of bringing an action, and gave no instructions for its being brought. The cause of action arose in May, 1890. No word of complaint in reference to it was uttered by the plaintiff until November. The counsel for the plaintiff stated that it was brought by the Department of Education, not to recover damages, but to try the question whether a master had a right to inflict corporal chastisement (even though moderate and reasonable, and no matter how much the apprentice may have misconducted herself) on a female apprentice of the age of 16 or 17 years. In the peculiar circumstances of this case, therefore, there was no reason for expecting larger damages than £30. There were certainly no "serious or complicated questions of fact" involved. The chastisement was admitted, it was sought to be justified by reason of the plaintiff's misconduct, and it was pleaded that it was moderate and reasonable; the plaintiff replied that it was excessive. And the jury so found. Except as to the number of strokes (the plaintiff deposing to some 10 or 12, the defendant admitting four), there was no dispute as to the fact. It was clear the plaintiff had saucily and contumaciously disobeyed the lawful commands of her master the defendant, and the sole question was whether the chastisement was excessive or not. The jury very probably thought, and not without reason, that a green hide leg-rope for bailing up a cow was not a proper instrument wherewith to chastise a girl. There was certainly no "difficult question of law" on the pleadings. The whole question was one of fact. Was the punishment excessive? The defendant with his wife and family resides in the district, and within a few miles of the town of Bega, where a District Court is held four times a year. All the witnesses to the case, with the exception of the plaintiff, live at Bega. At the most serious inconvenience to himself, and the disarrangement of his farming business, he has been compelled to attend, with his wife and witnesses, in Sydney, while it was quite impossible for him to bring away from the farm two other witnesses on his behalf, who could have attended at the District Court at Bega. The bringing of such an action by the Crown in the Supreme Court avowedly without any intention to obtain redress in damages for the plaintiff, but merely to try a question of law, which was not raised on the proceedings, and which, had it been raised at the trial, could have been quite sufficiently determined by a ruling in the District Court, with an appeal to the Supreme Court, seems to me to have been without sufficient reason, seeing that all the purposes of the action might have been served by proceeding in the Bega District Court. I am unable, therefore, to certify that there was a sufficient reason for bringing the action in the Supreme Court, and for imposing upon the defendant the exceeding great burden of all the costs of an unnecessarily expensive proceeding. I do not think I am going beyond my province in adding—that the jury have expressed no opinion upon it, it being quite a collateral issue—that while I trust we shall never again hear of a master lifting his hand in the way of corporal chastisement upon a female apprentice or servant—a proceeding not to be tolerated in these days—in my opinion the defendant stands altogether exonerated from the graver charge of misconduct brought against him of taking advantage of his position to corrupt and defile a young woman placed under his charge.

In Equity.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice OWEN, Chief Judge in Equity.)

GRAHAM V. RAND AND ANOTHER.

Mr. Cohen and Mr. Knox, instructed by Mr. Wallace, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Gregory Walker and Mr. Rich, instructed by Messrs. Lawrance and Rich, appeared for the defendants. This was a suit by the plaintiff, Maria Graham, tenant for life of an estate, against William Rand and William Simple, the executors and trustees under the will, for an account of money due to the plaintiff for her income. It was stated that the plaintiff withdrew all charges of wilful neglect or default, and by consent a decree in the terms of the prayer was granted. Costs were reserved.

HARRIS V. SLATE.

Mr. Walker stated that there were some negotiations for a settlement going on in this matter. The case was ordered to stand over.

CHAPPELL AND ANOTHER V. BROUGHTON.

There was no appearance in this suit, and the case was struck out.

CAMPBELL V. BROUGHTON.

This case was struck out for want of appearance.

In Divorce.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice WINDEYER.)

SQUIRE V. SQUIRE.

These were cross suits, the husband petitioning for divorce from the wife, and the latter having lodged a petition against her husband for judicial separation. By consent of Mr. Ralston and Mr. Whitfeld, who appeared for the parties, and Mr. Lamb, who appeared for the co-respondent, W. E. Morgan, it was agreed that the two suits should be consolidated. The issues in the husband's petition were settled as marriage and adultery, and in the wife's suit for judicial separation as marriage and cruelty. The hearing was fixed for August 11 without a jury.

BROWNE V. BROWNE.

The decree nisi granted November 18, 1890, for the dissolution of the marriage of Edith Browne (petitioner) and George Browne (respondent) was made absolute, and the marriage accordingly declared dissolved.

In Bankruptcy.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice OWEN.)

MOTION UNDER SECTION 130.

Re Angus Henry Gregory. On the motion of Mr. Gordon (who was instructed by Messrs. Fergusson and Broad) his Honor made an order requiring George Russell to deliver to the official assignee certain bullocks, truck, and gear within a fortnight after the service of notice, or to pay the value of them to the official assignee.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice MANNING.)

MOTIONS UNDER SECTION 130.

Re John Higginson, ex parte the official assignee. Mr. Gordon, instructed by Mr. E. A. Smith, appeared for the official assignee; and Mr. H. S. Cohen, instructed by Messrs. Stephen and Ickerson, for the respondent, Edward M'Ginty. This was a motion for an order directing Edward M'Ginty to pay to the official assignee what should on inquiry be found to be the damages caused to the estate of the bankrupt by reason of the alleged breach by M'Ginty of a certain contract or agreement as follows:—"8th December, 1890. In consideration of £100 I, John Higginson, agree to sell, and I, Edward M'Ginty, agree to buy my business and take over all current liabilities.—EDWARD M'GINTY, JOHN HIGGINSON." And for an order, if necessary, referring it to the Registrar to inquire and ascertain the amount of such damages, on the following grounds:—That the bankrupt, in accordance with the agreement, handed over to M'Ginty all his business, and received from the respondent a portion of the purchase-money, but the respondent had neglected, and still neglected, to pay the balance of the purchase-money, and had not taken over and liquidated the current liabilities of the business, whereby the estate of the bankrupt had lost the balance of the purchase-money, and had become and was charged with the payment of the said liabilities.

The evidence in regard to this matter was taken on Tuesday. When the matter was called on to-day it was stated that the parties were willing to consent to an order being made for the payment to the official assignee of the sum of £62 12s 7d, which was standing in a bank in the joint names of Mr. Smith and Mr. Ickerson. His Honor made an order accordingly.

Re Owen Malone (bankrupt), ex parte Patrick Malone, of Braidwood, motion under section 130. Mr. Knox, instructed by Mr. F. W. Walker (for Mr. Allan MacInnes, of Braidwood), appeared on behalf of the applicant (Patrick Malone); and Mr. B. R. Wise, instructed by Mr. G. Russell Jones (for Mr. Gannon, of Goulburn), on behalf of the respondent. This was a motion on behalf of Patrick Malone for an order declaring that certain furniture and household effects which were now in the possession of Mrs. Owen Malone, at Braidwood, and also two horses—one a brown one and the other a bay—all of which had been seized by the official assignee in the estate of Owen Malone—are the property of Patrick Malone, and ordering the official assignee to forthwith deliver up the said property to Patrick Malone, on the grounds that the applicant is the owner of the furniture, household effects, and horses by virtue of purchase which he made at a sale held at Braidwood on September 1 last of the bankrupt's estate; and that the furniture and effects had been let to Mrs. Owen Malone by the applicant at the rental of 10s per week. The matter stands as part heard.

Re Hermann Levy (of Hay), ex parte the official assignee—Henry Bentwitch, respondent. Mr. H. E. Cohen, instructed by Messrs. Levy, Hemsley, and Perkins, appeared for the official assignee; and B. R. Wise and Mr. J. L. Campbell, instructed by Mr. Burcher, for the respondent. This was a motion on behalf of the official assignee for an order directing the respondent to deliver or otherwise account to the official assignee for or to pay to the official assignee the value of one moiety—being the moiety belonging to J. Raphael, and not included in the bill of sale of November 6, 1888—in certain goods, chattels, stock-in-trade, furniture, and fittings, all of which, it was alleged, formed a part or the residue of the goods, &c., formerly belonging to the firm of J. Raphael and Co., jewellers, &c., of Hay, and of which firm the bankrupt was a partner, and which said moiety was seized and taken possession of by the respondent on or about April 19, 1890, and directing the respondent as mortgagee in possession to render full and proper accounts to the official assignee of the proceeds of the goods and premises comprised in a certain bill of sale dated November 6, 1888, executed by the bankrupt to the respondent to secure the repayment of certain moneys and which goods and premises were taken possession of by the respondent on or about April 19, 1890, and directing the Registrar in Bankruptcy to take the said accounts, and to make all necessary inquiries incident thereto. The matter stands as part heard.

APPEAL AGAINST ORDER OF ACTING REGISTRAR.

Re Joseph Landers, adjourned appeal against the order of Acting-Registrar Salusbury issuing a certificate to Mr. Landers. Mr. B. R. Wise, instructed by Mr. E. A. Smith, appeared for the official assignee; and Mr. Field, instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, for the respondent. It seemed that at the hearing of the application made by Landers for a certificate, objection was taken on behalf of the official assignee to the granting of the certificate on the ground that the applicant had previously been insolvent, and in connection with that insolvency had not paid at least 10s in the pound, or obtained from his then creditors a certificate to the effect that his insolvency arose entirely from misfortune. Mr. Acting Registrar Salusbury, holding that he was bound to follow the decision given by Mr. Justice Owen (acting for the Judge in Bankruptcy) in Dawbarn's case, ordered that a certificate be issued to Landers.

His Honor held that the decision in Dawbarn's case was only a nisi prius decision, and did not form part of the considered judgment of the Chief Judge in Equity, and therefore he (Mr. Justice Manning) was not bound to follow it. The Acting Registrar had no course open to him but to follow the decision of the Judge in Equity. He had come to the conclusion that sub-section H. of section 38 of the Bankruptcy Act did apply to a sequestration under the old Insolvency Act, and therefore the objection taken to the granting of the certificate was a valid one. As, however, the objection taken was a technical one, and there was no misconduct of any kind imputed to Landers, he thought that there ought to be merely a nominal suspension. It seemed to him that the suspension which had already taken place was more than sufficient to meet the case, and therefore the certificate ought to be issued at once. His Honor ordered accordingly.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. ARTHUR HENRY.)

CERTIFICATES GRANTED.

The Registrar directed that certificates be issued to Arthur Fleming and Alfred Dearne.

CERTIFICATE APPLICATIONS.

The hearing of applications for certificates which had been lodged by the undermentioned bankrupts was adjourned:—Coll M'Donald, to the 29th instant; Joseph Florns, to the 30th instant; Charles Mitchell Farrell, to the 30th instant; James Russ, to August 4; John James Cotton (rehearing), to August 4.

EXAMINATION OF BANKRUPTS.

Re "George Bruce" (Edward Brown), public examination of bankrupt. Mr. Pigott appeared on behalf of the official assignee. The bankrupt, who had been arrested for not attending his public examination, was brought up under a writ of habeas corpus for examination. The bankrupt deposed that his real name was not George Bruce, but Edward Brown; within a few days of his bankruptcy he left the colony, going to Melbourne to get a situation; he did not attend his public examination; he came back five weeks ago; he did not inform the official assignee that he had come back; witness was arrested at Gulgong; he had been in the colony for about 5 years; he came from London; he was bankrupt in London; he did not get his certificate before leaving London; he was not bankrupt under the name of "George Bruce," but under the name of Edward Brown; he had a public-house property in England; a writ was issued against him for, first £5000, and afterwards for £250; he did not keep the public-house, but it was kept by Thomas Pettitt; he did not tell any one that he was leaving England; witness was in five public-houses in London, and in respect to the sixth he was in partnership with another; he had been in the employment of Mr. Cohen at Yass; when he left Cohen he had nothing of his own to speak of; with what he borrowed he bought a business; he borrowed £280 from his wife; he paid a deposit on the place without seeing it; the place came to more than he expected, so he paid the balance in post-dated cheques; he gave promissory-notes for £2000 of the purchase money; the promissory-notes were for 6, 12, 18, and 24 months; he had not paid a single one of those promissory-notes; he was in business for over 12 months; he had a clerk to keep the books; there were no entries in the cashbook after October; he sequestrated his estate in March, 1891; he had an auction sale of some moth-eaten goods; he had Bruce auction sales at Cassilis, Coonabarabran, and Coolah; the greater part of the stuff sold at those sales was not new; there was no entry of those sales in his books; a book containing entries of cash sales over the counter had been lost; the last bill paid by witness was due on December 4; the bills due in January, February, and March were all dishonoured; the cash sales for the last six months did not amount to £500; his liabilities amounted to £3149; the deficiency was £1907 odd; George Cutler was in the employment of witness; he did not remember having any conversation with Cutler about paying money into Cutler's name; he did not recollect whether he had asked Cutler to open an account in his (Cutler's) name with witness's money; he did not remember saying that he knew the business would lead to bankruptcy, but he had to make a living somehow; he did not know whether he said those words to Mr. Priestley; he had not paid his wife the money he borrowed from her; he would not swear that he did not say at Coolah that he had paid his wife that money back.

Mr. Pigott: Did you not tell James Druce that you had crossed his account out of your book, and he was to pay you after all the bother was over, as you were about to become bankrupt?

Witness: I won't swear that I did not; I cannot remember whether I did or not.

The Registrar said that undoubtedly the bankrupt had been guilty of evasion. All that he could do in the circumstances was to adjourn the examination sine die.

Re Ferris Brothers. The bankrupt, Isaac Bernard Ferris, deposed that his wife was putting in a claim in the estate for £382, for moneys borrowed by his wife from her sisters, the Misses Hart, of Canowindra, trustees of Mrs. Coady; he received two sums—one of £350 and the other of £32—which he paid into the A. J. S. Bank; his wife had not a separate estate; he agreed to pay 8 per cent. interest to his wife's sister; he paid £8 a quarter, sometimes to his wife and sometimes to her sisters; in September he made a composition with his creditors of 10s in the pound; the liabilities amounted to £12,000; witness paid 5s in the pound by bills, which were endorsed by Mr. Rawdon; the bills had a currency of three months; witness paid three bills, the others had not matured; he obtained a release subject to the payment of those bills; Ferris Brothers had carried on the business for 17 years; their bankruptcy was caused by taking Government contracts; they lost between £7000 and £8000 over the water supply contract; about four or five years ago they speculated in gold mines. The bankrupt, William J. Ferris, was also examined.

Re Frederick Wahab Stoddart. The bankrupt, in the course of further examination by Mr. Burcher, deposed that he had taken out a life policy in the A. M. P. Society for £300; his income was £60 a month; his wife did not make over £400 last year; the rent of the studio had to come out of the earnings of his wife.

Re George Moffatt Horne. The bankrupt was briefly examined.

The examination of Albert James Heap and Thomas Benn was adjourned to the 30th instant.

EXAMINATION UNDER SECTION 30.

Re James Markham. The bankrupt was examined by Mr. Gibson (of Messrs. Dibbs and Gibson).

SEQUESTRATION ORDERS.

Frank Philippe Degail, of Cologotook. Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.

John Wallace, of Braidwood, auctioneer. Mr. L. T. Lloyd, official assignee.

Henry Bunce, of Berry, farmer. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.

Daniel Smith, of Hunter-street, Newcastle. Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.

Thomas Landrigan, of Swan Creek, near South Grafton, farmer. Mr. E. M. Stephen, official assignee.

Leon Blumenau, of 419 Riley-street, Surry Hills, hawker. Mr. L. T. Lloyd, official assignee.

David Rintoul, of Petersham and St. Peters, builder. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.

Thomas Graham, of Wollongong, baker. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.

John Flanagan, of 26 Wells-street, Redfern, carter. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.

LAND COURT—TUESDAY.

(Before Mr. F. E. ROGERS, Q.C. President; Mr. FREEMAN, and Mr. BRANDIS.)

Mr. Canaway appeared on behalf of the Minister of Lands.

APPEALS.

The Cowra land board made reference for further direction in the matter of Margaret Ousby's additional conditional purchase application, No. 90-49, Cowra. Mr. Cohen appeared for Margaret Ousby, and Mr. Pring for the caveator, Mr. Paton. The Court, after hearing some argument, decided that, having given a direction to the land board which they could not misunderstand, and which from the board's present reference it was clear that they did understand, it was enough to say that the direction of the Court must be carried out by the board, and Mrs. Ousby's application disallowed. When that was done such other steps as might seem advisable could be taken. The Court, by a majority, allowed costs to Mr. Pring, on the ground that the action of the board had been brought about by the course taken by Mrs. Ousby's advocate. Had the board made reference on its own motion, no costs would have been allowed.

St. G. F. Rothery, of Carcoar, appealed against the granting of James Ewen's additional conditional purchase application, No. 89-177, and conditional lease application, No. 89-137, Carcoar; and also against proposed allotment of reduced area in satisfaction of his conditional purchase application, No. 89-188, and against the disallowance of his conditional lease application, No. 89-145, Carcoar. Mr. Macnamara appeared for the appellant Rothery, and Mr. Abbott and Mr. Lamrock for Mr. James Ewen. Mr. Abbott objected that no caveat had been filed in the time required by law, and that there was no evidence that Rothery was a party to the proceedings. After some argument the Court upheld the objection, and the appeal was dismissed, with costs. Mr. Macnamara was granted four weeks in which to state the case.

Thomas Nelligan, of Goulburn, appealed against decision of local board refusing to order W. Gillard to contribute to cost of fence on conditional purchase No. 87-76, Goulburn. Mr. Abbott appeared for Nelligan, and Mr. Crick by his representative for Gillard. The action of the board was severely commented upon by Mr. Abbott and the President. The latter stated that the Court would not for a moment allow the board to so far forget the respect due to the Court as to decline to make an order. The duty of the board was to act in a straightforward way, and make an order which the litigants could understand, and against which they could appeal if they desired. The Court was unwilling that this unfortunate selector, if he was entitled to the fencing, should not get it through the contumacy of the board. The board must distinctly understand that the decision of the Court was that Nelligan was entitled to recover to the extent of one-half of the appraised value of the fencing between him and Gillard. The board was to appraise the value, and the Court trusted that this direction would be obeyed. If not, the Court would be bound to make other representations.

Samuel Mackay, of Cooma, appealed against disallowance of his additional conditional purchase application, No. 90-228, Cooma. The appellant appeared in person, and after hearing what he had to say the Court dismissed the appeal, the deposit to be refunded.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

TUESDAY.

(Before his Honor Judge MURRAY.)

BARNETT AND ANOTHER V. LYONS.

In this case John Barnett and William M'Kenzie, trading as W. Smith and Co., sued Samuel Lyons for £17 7s 6d for tailoring work. Verdict for plaintiffs in the amount claimed, and costs.

BOARD OF WATER SUPPLY AND SEWERAGE V. ELLEY.

This was a claim made against James Elley for £12 4s 7d for rates. Defendant pleaded not indebted. Verdict for the plaintiff in the amount claimed, and costs.

SYME V. AIREY.

The plaintiff, Augustus J. Syme, sued Henry Park Airey for £13 13s, for dental work. Defendant pleaded not indebted. Verdict for the plaintiff in the amount claimed, and costs.

HINSBY V. CARDEN.

In this case Joseph Hinsby sued Edward Carden for £13 4s, for goods sold and delivered. Defendant pleaded that the fourth section of the Statute of Frauds had not been complied with. Verdict for the defendant, with costs.

GROUNDS V. FLOOD AND ANOTHER.

In this case Isaac Grounds sued William Robertson and William Peter, trading as Flood and Co., for £17 18s 9d for work and labour done under an agreement dated September 16, 1890. Plaintiff was a free labourer, and as such had been engaged in working for Flood and Co. during the latter part of last year, he having signed an agreement with that firm. He claimed that by the agreement he was entitled to 1s per hour for the eight hours, and 1s 6d an hour for overtime, and that he had therefore earned £2 4s per week for 24 weeks, a total of £52 16s. He allowed for two weeks for absence through illness, and credited the defendants with having paid him £34 17s 3d in weekly sums varying from 6s 9d to £2 4s. He now claimed a balance of £17 18s 9d. The case for the defendants was that the plaintiff had been paid for the number of hours that he had worked, that he had been absent from work for two fortnights through illness, and that he had repeatedly broken rules, for which he was discharged a fortnight before the expiration of the agreement. The time books showing the number of hours the plaintiff had worked were not forthcoming. His Honor deducted two weeks during which the plaintiff had been absent owing to an injury to his finger, two other days during which he had been absent, and the latter fortnight during which he did not work owing to his having been discharged for drunkenness. Deducting £9 11s for the four weeks and two days, his Honor awarded the plaintiff £8 7s 9d, and one witness's costs.

LOWEN V. WAINE.

In this case, W. R. Lowen sued J. C. Waine for £200 damages for alleged negligence of the defendant's workmen in connection with the construction of a portion of the Lands Office, whereby the plaintiff was injured and incapacitated for work for some weeks. Plaintiff contended that he was working on a roof, and that owing to some supports beneath having been removed by other workmen, he fell through on to the boards beneath. He sustained a number of bruises and a shock, and was laid up for a month. When the Court rose the case stood as part heard.

METROPOLITAN QUARTER SESSIONS.

TUESDAY.

(Before his Honor Judge DOCKER.)

Mr. Butterworth appeared for the Crown.

SENTENCES.

George Simmons, for breaking and entering, was sentenced to two years' hard labour. Frank La Forte, found guilty on Monday of receiving stolen property, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. Prisoner, who is a libéré, had a French record against him, having served a sentence of 19 years in New Caledonia for robbery with violence.

BIGAMY.

Charles Vincent Goold pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy, and was remanded for sentence. The particulars of the case were that the prisoner married Norah Margaret Prudence on September 27, 1875, and while his wife was still alive he married Julia O'Grady, at Hay, on July 27, 1889.

ALLEGED STEALING IN A DWELLING.

George Le Gard and Joseph Barron were charged with stealing a purse, a railway ticket, a hawker's license, and £34 10s, the property of Albert Petersen, and a knife, the property of William Cook, on the 20th May in the house of Charlotte Lodge, Sydney. Mr. Cahill appeared for Barron. The jury returned a verdict of guilty against Le Gard, and he was remanded for sentence. Over the case of Barron, however, the jury failed to agree by 10 p.m., and were accordingly locked up for the night.

ALLEGED RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY.

Julia Ann Bain was charged with receiving an overcoat, the property of Thomas Myock White, well knowing the same to be stolen. Mr. W. Roberts appeared for the accused. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was acquitted.

CASES FOR TO-DAY.

William Pamment, Charles Mortimer, and William Menzies, maliciously wounding and assault; Charles Chadwick, larceny; Michael Moroney, Henry Christianson, and William Chantler, larceny and receiving; William Chantler and Arthur Cardwell, larceny.

OBSTRUCTING THE TRAMLINE.

In the Charge Division of the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. B. Lee, S.M., William Roberts, 47, was charged with having placed a tram rail across the tram line near the gates of the Victoria Barracks, Paddington. The accused was well known, and Mr. Lee stated that he was a public nuisance. He was fined £10, the highest penalty, in default, three months' imprisonment. This was accumulative on a previous sentence of six months' imprisonment, with hard labour, for having no visible lawful means of support.

CADBURY'S COCOA.
The Editor of the Medical Annual, after a careful examination of CADBURY'S COCOA, pronounces it to be both a food and a beverage of the highest quality, and counsels the Medical Profession to remember, in recommending Cocoa, that the name of Cadbury on any packet is a guarantee of purity.—[ADVT.]

POLICE.

Mr. C. Delohery, D.S.M., presided at the CENTRAL POLICE COURT yesterday, and dealt with a large number of trivial cases. Joseph Lemmon, 23, a labourer, was ordered to pay 15s weekly for a period of 12 months towards the support of his deserted wife. Frederick Amber, 26, was remanded until Friday on a charge of having stolen about £11, the property of James Pearse.

Mr. B. Lee, S.M., presided in the Charge Division of the WATER POLICE COURT. Robert Jones, for interfering with a constable while in the execution of his duty, was fined 20s, or seven days' imprisonment. Frances Barf, a middle-aged woman, was sent to gaol for six months, with hard labour, for having no visible lawful means of support. William Love, 66, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for having no visible lawful means of support. Richard Murphy was charged on remand with maliciously injuring two window panes, one looking-glass, one picture, and sundry ornaments, valued at £5 10s, the property of Alice Richardson. He was fined 20s and ordered to pay the damage, £3, or go to gaol for two months. In the afternoon, before Captain Fisher, Frank La Forte, who, during the morning, was sentenced at the Quarter Sessions to seven years' imprisonment, was sentenced to three months' concurrent imprisonment for having in his possession a quantity of jewellery supposed to have been stolen.

In the REDFERN POLICE COURT, before Mr. Johnson, S.M., Joseph M'Carty, licensee of the American Hotel, Eveleigh-street, Eveleigh, pleaded guilty to having kept his premises open on Sunday, and was fined £5, levy and distress. Amelia Murray, 17, for having stolen a sealskin jacket, black silk dress, and a pair of corsets, value £3, the property of Thomas Fitzgerald, was sentenced to two months' gaol. John Hunt, 15, found guilty of having assaulted Chung Lee, was fined £5, with £1 11s costs, in default four months' gaol. William Schneering, 20, was ordered to be imprisoned for three months, on a charge of having obtained the sum of £5 from John Bloom by means of a false pretence.

LICENSING COURT.

The weekly meeting of the central division of the Licensing Court was held in the Central Police Court yesterday.

Transfers of publicans' licenses were granted—from Michael Nolan, of the Napoleon Hotel, Kensington-street, to Patrick O'Brien; from Robert M'Munn, of the Comet Hotel, to Thomas Wormald; from William Hession, of the Macquarie Hotel, to George Rogers; from James M. Morris, of the Court House Hotel, Newtown, to Joseph William Lloyd; from William M'Alloon, of the University Hotel, Camperdown, to Elizabeth A. Doyle; from William H. Gillingham, of the Native Rose Hotel, Leichhardt, to John Challis; from P. Gilligan, of the Terminus Hotel, to Mary Grandfill; and from Denis Maguire, of the Butchers' Arms Hotel, St. Peters, to James Howarth.

Renewals were allowed to John Harrold, Dundee Arms Hotel; George Rogers, Macquarie Hotel; Mary Grandfill, Terminus Hotel, Redfern; James Howarth, Butchers' Arms, St. Peters; and to Annie O'Sullivan, Cross Keys Hotel, Sydney.

The following applications for renewals of licenses were refused, owing to police objections:—Thomas H. Lonnon, Smith's Family Hotel, West-street, Petersham; Wm. M'Alloon, University Hotel, Camperdown; John Delaney, Oriental Hotel, Burwood; Samuel J. Wakely, Gladstone Park Hotel, Leichhardt; Charles Manson, Botany View Hotel, St. Peters; Michael Rogers, Crown and Anchor Hotel, Sydney; and Charles Johnstone, Tradesmen's Arms Hotel, Sydney.

In the following cases the objections of the police were not considered sufficient to cancel the licenses, which were therefore granted:—Louis R. Richardson, Albert View Hotel, Redfern; Wm. A. Swann, Town Hall Hotel, Marrickville; and Denis Maguire, Butchers' Arms Hotel, St. Peters.

Permission to alter the signs of licensed premises was granted to the following:—Thomas E. White, from Civility Hotel to Sir George Grey Hotel; and to Arthur E. Cooper, from Gaiety Hotel to the Olympic Club Hotel.

A temporary license was granted to W. A. Swann, Town Hall Hotel, Marrickville; and the postponed application under section 16, by John Francis Murphy to Peter Hamilton, for premises known as the Tradesmen's Arms Hotel, was also granted.

CHARGE OF IMPERSONATION.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. C. Delohery, D.S.M., John Johnson, alias Charles Robello, 29, was charged with having personated John Johnson, an elector for East Sydney, at the election held on Wednesday last.

Rowland Hill, who acted as presiding officer on the occasion, deposed that the accused entered the booth at about 9 a.m. and gave witness a ticket numbered 4651, stating that his name was John Johnson, and that he resided at 69 Crown-street; about an hour afterwards John Johnson, of 69 Crown-street, and an elector of East Sydney, entered the booth, but witness refused to allow him to vote, and communicated with the police, who arrested the accused.

John Johnson stated that he was a storekeeper, and carried on business at 69 Crown-street; he was an elector of East Sydney; he did not know the accused; when he arrived at the booth he found that his vote had been recorded.

Evidence was given to show that the accused had been known by the name of Charles Robello.

Accused said, after having been cautioned, that he was not aware that he had done wrong; he had been told by a man to enter the booth and to give the name he had given, and to state that he wished to plump for Mr. Reid. Accused was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions. Bail was allowed.

INQUESTS.

THE WATERLOO TRAGEDY.

The city coroner commenced an inquest in the George Hotel, Elizabeth-street, Waterloo, yesterday afternoon on the body of Francis James Pride, who, on Monday, after firing at two women, shot himself in the heart.

Charles Pride, labourer, residing at No. 71 Hanover-street, Waterloo, deposed that the deceased, who was his son, was 21 years of age, a native of Queensland, by occupation a bricklayer, and a man of temperate habits; about 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon witness was at home with his wife, deceased, and a daughter; his son was then in his usual health of body and mind; he saw his son in the street throwing stones; he told him to come in, and he answered, "I'll shoot myself;" he said to him, "Do not do yourself any harm;" his son went in, and witness had just left off speaking to a woman, and was walking in when he heard a shot; he rushed into the front room, and saw his son lying on a couch; no one else was in the room; he did not see the revolver produced; he asked his son what was the matter; the boy groaned, and immediately expired; then witness saw the wound in his left breast; in a few minutes the police came; Dr. Parker was sent for, but he was not at home at the time; he never knew that his son had a pistol, and never heard him express any intention of shooting himself. The following letter was in the handwriting of the deceased:—"Saturday, June 20th, '91. Dearest mother and father, brothers, and sisters,—At the time of writing I am in a dreadful state of mind, and it grieves me very much to write such a letter for you to read. You know what trouble I am in with Mrs. Wenman, but not the misery; and it is all through that Mrs. Bawn, so rather than go to gaol for them to laugh at me, I will blow their brains out. It's a hard thing to battle, but I am determined to do it, come what will. Why should I suffer for things like them in court when they are the cause of it all? What show would I have against two living —— as them? None. So I have to throw away my life for the sake of two that's not fit to live, and I hope when I fire it will strike them to the heart, also myself. Yes, it's through them I am driven to this; but God forgive me. Dear mother, father, brothers, and sisters, also Dora Himan, I must say farewell now and for ever, and may God bless you all and protect you to the end.—Yours no longer, F. J. PRIDE."

Constable Kidd deposed to finding the revolver produced on the mantel shelf of the room in which deceased was; it was a five-chambered revolver; one chamber was loaded, and the other four bearing the appearance of having been recently discharged.

Dr. Joseph Parker deposed to finding a wound in the left breast of deceased just over the region of the heart, which could have been caused by a bullet similar to the one produced. The wound could have been self-inflicted, and the bullet must have entered the heart. Death was caused by the wound, and must have been almost instantaneous.

This concluded the evidence.

The jury, after a few minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict of death from the effects of a pistol shot wound self-inflicted while temporarily insane.

The Coroner expressed a wish to be informed where, in the evidence, it was shown that the man was temporarily insane.

A juror: The evidence of the letter.

Another juror: Then we would like to hear the evidence of Mrs. Wenman and Mrs. Bawn.

The Coroner: You can hear them, but they can say nothing about the man shooting himself.

A juror: We are all agreed that he killed himself.

The Coroner: Of course, if you insist on the addition of the words "whilst temporarily insane," I shall accept them, but they are not in accordance with the evidence.

The verdict as agreed to was then accepted.

MALICIOUSLY WOUNDING.

William Norris, 23, a labourer, was charged at the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. C. Delohery, D.S.M., with having maliciously wounded one George Dodge.

Colin George Watson, a duly qualified medical practitioner at the Prince Alfred Hospital, deposed that on March 30 last prosecutor was brought to the hospital at about 6 p.m. by Constable Brown; he was suffering from a contused wound on the left elbow about 2½in. in length; it was about ¼ of an inch in depth and exposed the bone; there was also a wound on the lower lip about an inch in length, and he was extensively bruised; the injuries must have been produced by some blunt instrument.

Prosecutor, residing at John-street, Macdonaldtown, deposed that between 1 and 2 p.m. on March 30 he was in the bar of the Native Rose Hotel, Leichhardt, playing dominoes, when four or five men came in and asked him to shout for them; he refused, and they then rushed at him, knocked him down, and severely kicked him; he was still suffering from the severe injuries.

Accused was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions.

ST. ANDREW'S COLLEGE.

A meeting of the councillors of St. Andrew's College, University of Sydney, was held on the 17th instant. Present—Principal Kinross (in the chair), Rev. Dr. Steel, Rev. J. Cosh, Rev. G. Grimm, Hon. A. Dodds, Mr. E. Bowman, Mr. Andrew Brown, Mr. John Campbell, Captain Charles Smith, and Mr. J. T. Walker. The principal reported that Mrs. Fell, of Branxholme Brae, North Sydney, had sent £10 10s to the library fund, representing prizes awarded to her late son, Mr. John Walter Fell, but not received during his life time. The thanks of the council were ordered to be sent to Mrs. Fell, simultaneously with a letter of sympathy and condolence, on the death of her son, one of the most distinguished students the college had ever had. The thanks of the council were also recorded for a donation of £10 10s to the library fund from one of the resident students. In accordance with notice given at a previous meeting, the council deliberated on the question of adding to the buildings so as to provide accommodation for the increasing number of students. A resolution was carried unanimously,—"That an effort be at once commenced to collect subscriptions for the necessary enlargement of the college buildings."

The Principal, Hon. A. Dodds, and Mr. J. T. Walker were appointed a committee to prepare an appeal, and to take immediate steps to enable the council to apply for the balance of the endowment under the Colleges Endowment Act, 18 Vic., No. 37. The amount to be collected is £5870, which, with corresponding endowment, will enable additions to be erected at a cost of £11,740. The intention is to provide additional bedrooms, students' sitting-rooms, and class-rooms, and generally to complete the college buildings in accordance with the wishes of the founders and original subscribers.

HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Recently cables have appeared in the press stating that affairs in Hawaii are disturbed; that a revolution had occurred, or was expected; and that the Queen's life had been threatened. All these statements are utterly false, being without any foundation. By the Pacific mail which reached Sydney yesterday, I have received information directly contradicting and disproving these injurious reports, and, as a matter of fact, the peace and contentment of all the nationalities composing the cosmopolitan population of Hawaii, the steadily increasing and substantial improvements everywhere apparent, are convincing proofs that there is no serious contemplation of interfering with, or breaking up of the present eminently satisfactory state of affairs, excepting it may be by a few—a very few—disappointed and discontented politicians with little or no influence. Her Hawaiian Majesty has always strictly adhered to the constitution of the kingdom, and displayed a wise and conservative discretion, both as Regent and Queen, and at all times has rigorously condemned pernicious influences in Government and social circles, thereby daily winning the affection of her people, by whom she has always been much beloved for her lifelong and kindly deeds. No ruler of Hawaii has proved more popular than the present Queen, who has been received in all the islands she governs with marked demonstrations of loyalty and affection, together with expressions of perfect approval of her present advisers and of their policy. Efforts are being made to trace out the promoters and coiners of the malicious falsehoods that have been circulated about the Hawaiian Islands for some years. These efforts are likely to succeed.

In conclusion, I desire to state that the prejudicial reports, rumours, or apprehensions which have been circulated as to disturbances having taken place (up to the 4th instant), or likely to occur in the kingdom of Hawaii, are absolutely false, and without foundation, probably emanating from interested persons in San Francisco or elsewhere.

I am, &c.,
ERNEST O. SMITH,
H.H.M.'s Consul-General for Australia
June 23, 1891. and Tasmania.

Two beautiful and valuable pieces of old Gobelins tapestry, one representing Apollo killing the python and the other Narcissus at the fountain, have disappeared in a mysterious fashion from the hôtel de ville of Limoges. ## THE BOYS' BRIGADE.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LADIES' COMMITTEE.

The annual meeting of the ladies' committee of the Boys' Brigade was held yesterday afternoon in the Council-chamber, Town Hall. The Countess of Jersey presided. There was a large attendance of members of the committee and ladies interested in the work of the brigade.

Mrs. ELLIS, by request of the committee, briefly related the work of the past year. She said that 12 months ago, at the annual meeting of the trustees, they were invited to assist in the domestic arrangements of the brigade, and in the furtherance of the social welfare of the boys. They had every cause to be thankful that their efforts so far had been successful. Through the kindness of many friends the Home had been supplied with over 600 books, besides many other useful articles which had helped to make it more attractive. Some of the zealous workers said they had not done much for the boys beyond feasting them. If that were true did it not afford opportunities for bringing together a number of the boys when good advice was tendered them by members of the trust? The kind words spoken by the Governor and the Countess of Jersey recently would never be forgotten, and neither would the parting words of Lord Carrington. The report gave particulars of what had been done during the year. The fact that 70 to 150 lads were kept from the streets at night was in itself a good work. The superintendent, Mr. Gray, extended every kindness to the lads, and especially to those who were destitute; on many occasions he had found situations for them, and in several instances he had begged poor boys from the hands of the police, promising for their good behaviour in the future. Many improvements might be made in the home; but to do this a more suitable building, with class-rooms and other advantages would be required, to secure which they would need more funds. Next to our charities the work among the boys was most important and well worthy support. In Queensland the Boys' Brigade had an enrolment of 1000 members. By taking in hand the newsboys of Sydney they would soon increase their numbers to a large extent. A pleasing feature to be noted in connection with the institution was that many of the elder boys retained their membership, thus showing an interest in the welfare of the brigade and that of its younger members. The friendships thus formed amongst the boys would prove lasting, and lead to mutual help among them in the future. In conclusion it was remarked that no destitute lad had ever been refused admission to the Home, day or night. They must remember that the lads of to-day would be the men of the future. Let them endeavour, therefore, to achieve still more good than had been done in the past.

The report of the committee, as presented by the hon. secretary (Mrs. Thow), dealt extensively with "the internal domestic arrangements of the institution." A committee, consisting of over 50 ladies, it stated, was formed by Mrs. T. E. Ellis, at the special request of the trustees, and a sub-committee of 13 was appointed to meet at the home twice a month to deal with the domestic details and report progress at the general meetings, which had been held on the second Friday in each month. These meetings were presided over by the Mayoress, and 31 ladies still remained on the committee. The attendance of boys had varied from 40 to 150 per night, giving an average of about 70. The members' roll contained the names of fully 300 boys whose ages varied from 10 years upwards. The reading-room, which was but poorly supplied a year ago, now possessed a good bookcase, and at least 700 volumes, with illustrated papers and magazines. Draughts, dominoes, bagatelle, and other games found amusement for many. The gymnasium had been nightly utilised to its utmost extent, and the bathroom attached was greatly appreciated by the boys. Lectures had been delivered by the Hon. J. H. Carruthers, Messrs. Woodworth, Hay, Haviland, and others. Classes in reading, writing, and arithmetic had been held by Messrs. Symmonds, Hannay, and P. Summers. These classes and lectures had all been well attended, and of immense benefit to the boys. The ladies felt sure that instruction in singing, carpentering, and general knowledge would be greatly appreciated, and the co-operation of gentlemen as teachers was requested. Carbine and cutlass drill had been attended by 60 or 70 boys under the instruction of Mr. Dow. The brass band continued practice, under the efficient training of Mr. Westbrook, and it was now able to accept engagements from the public. A number of concerts had been given by the boys' minstrel troupe, all of which were well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by their companions. The ladies gave the boys two socials, at one of which his Excellency and the Countess of Jersey were present; also a tea to the news boys, which was followed by a magic lantern entertainment by Mr. Corbett. On the occasion of Lord Carrington's farewell visit to the Brigade, Mr. and Mrs. Burdekin gave a social. Coffee had been supplied free of charge to the boys during the winter months. Many kind responses had been made to the ladies' requests for help to make the Boys' Home comfortable. The trustees of the late Excelsior Club sent a handsome present of bedding, books, furniture, and crockery. Mr. D. Walker kindly promoted a football match, Mr. M'Creadie a concert, and Mr. Geo. Rignold gave a matinée at Her Majesty's Theatre. The home was open at all times to boys out of work and destitute, and food, beds, and clothing were freely supplied and always ready. During the year over 400 beds and 1000 meals had been supplied to homeless boys. Situations had been found for many of these, and their employers had expressed great satisfaction. Several boys who had at times been in the hands of the police were now, thanks to the influence of this institution, quite reformed, and promised to do well. The services of Drs. Kyngdom and Matthias had been gratefully received.

Mrs. WARREN, in moving the adoption of the report, said that to many of those present the work of the past year did not seem very great; but reforms were only made slowly. As they had already heard, they had many difficulties to contend with, not least of which was the present very unpleasant and unsuitable building. There was a strong feeling in the committee that more commodious premises should be provided, and that the boys should be taught something more than the three "R's." Singing, drawing, and carpentry ought all to be included in their education, and they were just as necessary as the teaching of cooking and washing and the making of clothes was to girls. All these things helped to make comfortable homes; and it was the want of such homes in Australia that was one of the causes of larrikinism. If they could only train these boys to be good sons, good brothers, and good husbands there would be little fear of their not turning out to be good citizens; and they were all anxious the boys should so become.

Mrs. ROBJOHN seconded the adoption of the report. She said that while the work of the year had been of an encouraging character it had been retarded by the want of funds and of workers. It was suggested that in furtherance of the Boys' Brigade movement branches should be opened in each of the suburbs, into which the little waifs and strays might be gathered and taught the need of purity, righteousness, highmindedness, and nobility of character, and the time would come when they would bless the brigade.

The report was adopted unanimously.

The financial statement, read by Mrs. Ellis, showed the receipts to be £164 19s, and the expenditure £40 11s 10d.

Votes of thanks were accorded the honorary medical staff, on the motion of Mrs. Ellis, seconded by Mrs. Rosenthal; to the office-bearers, on the motion of Mrs. Carpenter, seconded by Mrs. Vickers; and to the working committee, on the motion of Mrs. Carpenter, seconded by Mrs. H. Hudson.

Mrs. Ellis was appointed a third vice-president. Mrs. Thow was reappointed hon. secretary, Mrs. Warren assistant hon. secretary, and Mrs. Rosenthal hon. treasurer. The following ladies were appointed to the committee:—Mesdames Ellis, Carpenter, Kirkcaldie, Rosenthal, Vickers, Carruthers, Warren, Reading, Plumb, Reynolds, Tighe, Thow, Devlin, White, and Wood.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Countess of Jersey for presiding, on the motion of Mrs. Ellis.

Lady JERSEY, in reply, thanked the ladies sincerely. What she had done was little indeed. She was glad, however, of the opportunity to express her hearty sympathy with the work which had been so nobly carried on by the committee, and by Mr. Lewis and other gentlemen. It was a work which must commend itself to their sympathies; it was a great work for the future of the country. The young men and boys growing up around us, must hereafter be a great political power, and it was most important that they should be trained in the ways of honesty and uprightness. In any work of this character the first and most important thing to do was to note exactly what they wished to accomplish. She had been struck by the very clear way in which the ladies had placed before them what they desired to do, what they had done, and what still remained to be done. One great object must have forced itself upon them at the social a few evenings ago—the need of a better building. Of course that was only a question of funds. She fully agreed with Mrs. Warren that it would be a good thing to teach the boys drawing; the ability to sketch was a great help to any boy, whatever trade or business he might follow. It was quite possible that some gentleman or lady would be found who would devote say one afternoon a week to imparting such instruction to the boys. As she had just said, the objects of the brigade had been clearly put before them, and they were such as to enlist all their sympathies. She thanked them heartily for having so kindly received her that afternoon.

THE MOON AND THE GAS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I desire to call the attention of the various Municipal Councils in and around Sydney to a flaw in the partnership entered into with the Gas Company. Under existing contracts the company is exempted from lighting up on six nights in each month, because in clear weather the moon is considered a sufficient illuminant. No provision is made, however, should either of these six nights be dark and cloudy. Surely it is an easy matter to foresee in the course of the day if the night is likely to be clear or otherwise, and act accordingly. In view of the recent black and stormy nights, it is a gross public wrong that gas should be available in our streets, and yet not have the use of it. Perhaps when some series of outrageous robberies has taken place, our councils will be awakened to a sense of their responsibilities. Trusting that this matter may be immediately attended to,

I am, &c., G. R. M.

The ship Derwent was taken alongside the Central Wharf yesterday.

The steamer Warora will move from the Grafton Wharf to an anchorage in Johnson's Bay to-day.

The barque Ocean, from London, will take up a discharging berth at the C. R. and M. R. S. N. Company's Wharf to-day.

The ship Glengarry will be berthed at the Grafton Wharf to-day.

Captain H. E. Mannigel reports the steamer Maitland left Newcastle at 11.45 p.m. the 22nd, and arrived at the company's Sydney wharf at 6.45 a.m. 23rd with the following cargo:—21 bales hay, 46 hides, 54 bags potatoes, 32 bags maize, 150 bags flour, 17 bones, 2 cases eggs, 6 casks wine, 15 horses, 27 calves, 12 pigs, 127 casks tallow, 47 cases biscuits, 300 boxes candles, 80 boxes soap, 4 boxes tobacco, 20 drums glycerine, 1 waggon, and sundries.

A Richmond River report says:—It is stated that a well known and favourite passenger steamer is to be put in the trade between Coraki and Ballina, leaving the former place every morning and returning in the evening. The steamer Union is now trading between the Clarence and Richmond.

Captain S. Boulden reports that the steamer Wellington crossed out over the Port Macquarie bar at 7.30 a.m. on the 22nd instant, passed Seal Rocks at 2.45 p.m. same day, and entered Sydney Heads at 3 a.m. on the 23rd. Experienced light southerly winds and smooth sea throughout the passage. At 9.15 p.m. on the 22nd, when five miles north and 14 miles off Bird Island, spoke a four-masted ship, from Liverpool, bound to Sydney. The wind being light, she was making very little headway. Cargo: 348 bags maize, 29 hides, 28 pigs, 4 coops poultry, 20 cases eggs, 1 bag horns, 14 cedar logs, 23 pieces sawn cedar, 120 bags antimony ore, 1 cask tallow, 7 cases fish, 2 cases fruit, and 8 packages sundries.

A telegram from Newcastle states that the overdue schooner Lady Bowen passed Newcastle for Sydney at 1.30 p.m. yesterday.

The Louisa Messell, Amy Moir, and Alice Templeton were bar-bound at the Manning River yesterday.

THE MAIL STEAMERS.

Messrs. Mason Brothers, Limited, are advised that the New Zealand Shipping Company's R.M.S. Aorangi left Cape Town on Saturday, the 20th instant, for Hobart and Wellington.

The R.M.S. Arcadia, from London to Sydney, arrived at Adelaide yesterday, and her mails should reach here for delivery to-morrow.

The R.M.S. Ormuz left Suez on June 19, outwards.

ORDERED TO SYDNEY.

The Norwegian three-masted schooner Congo, which arrived off Port Phillip Heads on Friday last from Madagascar, has been ordered on to Sydney. The Congo belongs to Messrs. A. and F. Smith, of Tvedestrand, Norway, who are the owners of the barque Skjold, now in port. The Congo is a vessel of 293 tons net register, and was built at Tvedestrand in 1886.

THE ROBERT DUNCAN.

The four-masted ship spoken by the steamer Wellington off Bird Island, on Monday evening, will very likely prove to be the Robert Duncan, now 106 days out from Liverpool for Sydney. The Robert Duncan is a four-masted ship of 2005 tons net and 2166 tons gross register. She was launched in January of the present year, from the yard of Messrs. R. Duncan and Co., Limited, and was named after the noted shipbuilder. The Robert Duncan is owned by the Robert Duncan Shipping Company, Limited, the managers being Messrs. Leitch and Muir, of Greenock. The principal dimensions of the ship are:—Length, 279ft. 7in.; beam, 42ft. 1in.; and depth of hold, 24ft. 5in. Captain E. Falconer is in command of the vessel, which comes consigned to Messrs. Mason Brothers, Limited.

THE BUCKINGHAM.

The Buckingham, a new steamer, under charter to Tyser and Co., is due here at the end of the week from Antwerp to London. She is not one of the frozen-meat carriers, but was placed on the berth in order that Messrs. Tyser should keep faith with their clients, by sending away a steamer at the regular interval. The Buckingham was launched at the beginning of the present year from the yard of W. Gray and Co., West Hartlepool, for Messrs. Raeburn and Verel, of Glasgow. The hull is constructed on the web-frame principle, with a well-deck forward. It is also double-bottomed, and is divided into water-tight compartments by five substantial bulkheads. The double-bottom extends to a length of 278ft., and the capacity of the water tanks for ballast is 873 tons. The dimensions of the hull are as follows:—Length 314ft. 8in.; beam, 40ft. 6in.; and depth of hold, 20ft. 6in., or 23ft. 8in. moulded. This gives a register of 1876 tons, or a gross measurement of 2879 tons. The space under deck is 2235 tons. The bridge-deck is 120ft. in length, and the raised quarter-deck extends a length of 100ft. The poop is 29ft. in length, and under it is a comfortable and rather elegantly fitted up saloon for the use of the master. The Buckingham is all steel and iron from truck to kelson, and the only wood on which the eye can rest is the poop deck, which is sheathed. The engines are on the triple-expansion principle, and were erected by the Central Marine Engineering Company, West Hartlepool. They are surface-condensing and direct acting, and are of 240-horse power nominal, or 1400-horse power effective. The diameter of the high-pressed cylinder is 24in., that of the medium-pressed is 38in., and of the low-pressed 64in. The piston stroke is 42in. The boilers are steel, and work on a pressure of 160lb. They were subjected to a hydraulic test of three times that limit. There are two donkey boilers for cargo work, and four steam winches. The Buckingham's equipment comprises steam steering gear and a steam windlass, and steam is made use of wherever it can be applied. The engines are of excellent workmanship, and were thoroughly tested during the voyage by the heavy weather against which the steamer had to contend. The Buckingham is straight-stemmed and schooner-rigged, and is registered 100 A1 at Lloyd's. From Sydney the steamer goes to Brisbane.

THE SEARCH LIGHTS OF THE ROYALIST AND LIZARD AT SEA.

Two warships, H.M.S. Royalist and H.M.S. Lizard, hence on the 27th ultimo, and bound to the islands were off Flattop Island on the 8th instant. The lighthouse keeper at Flattop saw them passing showing their searchlights. He says that while sitting outside his house, he saw a most brilliant light shine from the I. Island anchorage on the barque Diana, which is lying at anchor under Flattop. So vivid was the light that he could see plainly the men on the deck of the barque. After a while the bright light died away and a masthead light became visible. On receiving the news the harbour-master at Mackay despatched a launch which proceeded at once to Flattop. There was, however, no reappearance of the light, and the men aboard her were left in doubt until daylight on the following morning, when from the island they were able to make out with the aid of the glass two men of war, one barque-rigged, and the other rigged like a three-masted schooner, proceeding in a northerly direction, and it then became evident that the phenomenon had been caused by the war vessels throwing out search-lights. The captain of the barque Diana states that when the light was thrown out the vessels were somewhere between I. Island and Flattop, and it was so brilliant that every portion of his rigging became as clearly defined as in daylight. In Mackay the light was distinctly observed in different parts of the town by several persons, who were unable to account for its appearance. Amongst the Solomon Islands and the coral patches the Royalist and Lizard usually visit, the searchlight serves the double useful purpose in narrow and intricate waters of lighting the way and astonishing the natives.

REPORTS OF CHINA SHIPPING COMPANIES.

The report for 1890 of the China Shippers' Mutual S. N. Co., Limited (headquarters at London), states that owing to lower freights and increased expenses the results of the year's working were not quite so good as in 1889. The company now possesses a fleet of 10 steamers, the Oopack, Ningchow, Chingwo, Kaisow, Moyune, Oanfa, Pakling, Pingsuey, Keemun, and Kintuck, the last, a vessel of 3550 tons, having been launched on December 26 last. The cost of the fleet to date, including part payment for the Kintuck, was £493,490, the depreciation fund was £70,000, and the insurance fund £9130, and the balance of profit and loss account was £29,090. It was proposed to add £15,000 to depreciation fund, to pay the dividends already announced by wire, and to carry forward £2994 17s 5d. The seventeenth annual report of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company (headquarters at Shanghai) declares a dividend of 10 per cent. "Of 27 of the fleet, one (the Fu-yew) was lost during the year at Ch'engshan, which diminished the insurance reserve by 60,000tls. The Kiang-ping was sold, lessening the total value of the fleet by her value, about [illegible]tls. By command of the Tsung li Yamên, the Kuling was purchased, strengthening the total value of the fleet by [illegible]tls. It now consists of 26 steamers, and its value with the attendant property in wharfs, jetties, and godowns, is [illegible]tls. As no allowance has been made for depreciation of steamers, and the Shanghai southern godowns and land have been added to the real estate assets, the total value exceeds that during the preceding year by 155,000tls. The value of the company's fleet is put at 1,961,000tls, steam-launches, cargo boats, and receiving hulks representing an additional 86,000tls."

H.M.S. CURACOA.

H.M.S. Curacoa arrived in Farm Cove last night. The Curacoa left Sydney as far back as October 27 last, and has ever since been cruising in New Zealand waters. From Sydney she went to Wellington, arriving there on October 29. In Port Nicholson she remained for three weeks, and went thence up the east coast to Auckland. She made a short stay there, and then cruised down to the Middle Island, calling at the principal ports. A cruise right round was made, calling at Lyttelton, Port Chalmers, the Bluff and round by the West Coast Sounds, visiting Nelson and Picton on the way back to Wellington. From Wellington the Curacoa steamed northward to Auckland, there to await the arrival of the other ships of the squadron, Auckland being the rendezvous of the fleet. After a few days' stay in the Waitemata the Curacoa left on March 12, on a second cruise southward, and since then the greater part of the time was spent between Akaroa and Lyttelton, cruising round Banks Peninsula. Departure towards Sydney was taken from Lyttelton on June 12, and final departure from Auckland on June 17. On the run across the warship had favourable weather to Port Jackson. The officers speak well of the New Zealanders, and the stay there was enjoyed by the whole crew. During her stay there five of her men deserted, and she reports the death of the ship's writer, Mr. Bell, who expired while undergoing treatment in the hospital at Christchurch. When at Auckland the Curacoa picked up three deserters from H.M.S. Rapid and brought them on to Sydney. During her absence Assistant-paymaster Bridgestock has been transferred to the paymastership of H.M.S. Dart. The Curacoa will remain here until the arrival of her relief crew, expected partly by the troopship Himalaya and partly by one of the new cruisers.

Mr. Rubben Hallenstein's newly-patented apparatus for closing lift and staircase openings will be exhibited at Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin's Wool Warehouse, Macquarie-place, Circular Quay, between 3 and 5 This Afternoon.—[Advt.]

H.M.S. ORLANDO.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that H.M.S. Orlando sailed for Sydney yesterday. Respecting the route of the new cruisers the Governor of Queensland has received the following telegram through Lord Hopetoun, Governor of Victoria, from the Secretary of State for the Colonies:—"Happy to inform you that Admiralty have agreed that the new ships, after rendezvous at Thursday Island, should visit in such order as Admiral may find convenient, Moreton Bay, Sydney, Adelaide, Melbourne, and Hobart. After that those that are to be laid up will visit, as soon as convenient to general naval service, Fremantle."

SHIPPING SALES.—THE THORNLIEBANK.

The Sydney underwriters, on behalf of the Home underwriters, have given instructions for the sale of the iron barque Thornliebank, and the sale will take place at Fremantle at noon to-day. As may be remembered, the vessel is damaged by fire. The vessel is comparatively new, having been launched by Russell, on the Clyde, in 1886. She is of 1405 net or 2250 gross tonnage. The fire occurred on the 8th February last. The vessel was discharging rails from Middlesborough. The fire raged furiously, and baffled all attempts to put it out, there being 100 tons of coal in the lower hold which became fully ignited. The vessel was gutted, but about two-thirds of the rails had been discharged prior to the fire.

THE WOOLLAHRA.

Our correspondent at South Head wired last night:—The barque Woollahra, Captain Barneson, from Puget Sound, loaded with timber, anchored off Watson's Bay. She has had very heavy weather.

A SUMMARY FOR THE OUTGOING MAIL.

Our Fortnightly Summary will be published on Monday morning next, and will contain a digest of the news of the past two weeks, together with a list of the Births, Marriages, and Deaths for the same period. The mail for newspapers will close at 1.30 p.m. on Monday, and the mail for letters at 3 p.m.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1891.

The Countess of Jersey presided at the first annual meeting of the ladies' committee of the Boys' Brigade, which was held yesterday afternoon. A very satisfactory and hopeful state of affairs was revealed in the annual report, which was adopted.

General dissatisfaction is expressed amongst colliery proprietors in Newcastle at the proposed enforcement of the newly-framed railway regulations relating to the haulage of coal trains, and also the detention of coal-laden waggons at the Dyke.

The Railway Commissioners have sent in claims to the colliery managers for infraction of rules, but the latter refuse to pay the amounts.

On Monday afternoon the body of a man, apparently of the labouring class, was found floating in the Murrumbidgee River, near Wagga. The right jaw was fractured, and the body had probably been several days in the water.

At Newcastle yesterday, William Woodlands was committed to take his trial at the next local Court of Quarter Sessions, upon a charge of embezzling the sum of £100, the property of Messrs. Thornton, Sandkerkoff, and Co., by means of illegally cashing a promissory-note. Accused was admitted to bail.

Mr. Thomas C. O'Mara, the well-known barrister, who a few years ago represented the Monaro electorate in Parliament, died at his residence in Burwood yesterday morning, after a protracted illness. The deceased gentleman was attacked by influenza several months ago, which developed into consumption, and brought about his early death.

Whilst the steamer Tomki was being towed over the bar at Ballina yesterday, she struck a sunken log, which carried away a couple of the blades of her propeller. This misfortune necessitated the steamer's return to Ballina for the purpose of having the damage repaired.

Mr. Rubben Hallenstein's newly-patented apparatus for closing lift and staircase openings will be exhibited at Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin's Wool Warehouse, Macquarie-place, Circular Quay, between 3 and 5 This Afternoon.—[Advt.]

At an inquest held yesterday upon the body of Charles Pride, the young man who shot himself in Hanover-street, Waterloo, on Monday afternoon, a verdict was returned of death from the effects of a bullet wound self-inflicted whilst temporarily insane.

Great disappointment was experienced at Bulli on Monday evening owing to the non-arrival of the Hon. J. H. Carruthers. Preparations had been made for his reception, and a large number of residents, including many ladies, awaited the arrival of the train at the railway station.

A middle-aged man named William Roberts was fined £10, in default three months' imprisonment, at the Water Police Court yesterday, for having placed a rail across the tramline near the gates of the Victoria Barracks, Paddington. Upon a further charge of having no means of support accused was sent to gaol for an additional six months.

Several intercolonial steamers which were delayed by the recent heavy gale were yesterday reported as having safely arrived at their respective destinations. They include the Innamincka, Era, Burrumbeet, and Maranoa.

H.M.S. Curacoa arrived in port last evening from a cruise in New Zealand waters. The Curacoa will remain here until the arrival of her relief crew by the troopship Himalaya.

At the Metropolitan Quarter Sessions yesterday Frank La Forte, convicted on Monday of receiving stolen property, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. Prisoner, who was a libéré, had previously undergone a term of ten years' imprisonment in New Caledonia for robbery with violence.

The R.M.S. Arcadia arrived at Adelaide yesterday, and landed the London mail, which will be delivered in Sydney to-morrow. The steamer is timed to reach here on Monday next.

A coloured man named Christopher Williams has been remanded at the Nowra Police Court upon a charge of having impersonated William Witty, a half-caste.

Mr. Carruthers left the city last evening for West Maitland. Thence he proceeds to Dungog, where he will address the electors on behalf of the Government candidates this evening. To-morrow night the Minister has promised to speak at Clarence Town.

Inquiries show that 11 widows and 22 children have been left in a destitute condition by the loss of the steamer Taramung.

Two men, named John Brown and John James, were buried by a fall of earth in No. 2 Tribute, Imperial Company, Buninyong, yesterday morning. Brown was dug out a short time after, having escaped with a few abrasions. The dead body of James was recovered during the afternoon.

Lieutenant Owen has completed the preliminary surveys at Thursday Island in connection with the proposed fortification works.

The Land Court continued its sittings at Darlinghurst yesterday, when several cases of appeal were dealt with.

A bottle has been picked up at Moreton Bay containing the following message:—"Albatross foundered off Fiji; all hands saved; on the coast with friendly natives; send relief as soon as possible; 14 hands all told. Captain H. Johnson. 14-7-1885."

The third session of the Victorian Parliament opened yesterday. In the Governor's speech reference was made to the measures with which it is proposed to deal during the session, which include bills to amend the Railway Commissioners' Act, and the electoral law in the direction of one man one vote, and the extension of the franchise to women.

Measures dealing with local self-government, the criminal law, mining, and other matters are also promised.

Mr. James Martin, one of the members for South Sydney, left town last night for a tour in the Murrumbidgee electorate. He will speak at Wagga to-morrow evening, and at Junee on Friday.

On Saturday last the cable steamer Recorder went aground upon a sandy patch midway between the Horn and Wednesday Islands. Soundings, however, showed the area of the dangerous spot to be very limited, and the vessel got safely off with the rising tide.

A labourer, named Frederick Caffyn, yesterday obtained a verdict of £468 in Melbourne from Howard Smith and Sons, Limited, for injuries sustained by him through alleged carelessness on the part of the foreman of the defendants.

Sir J. C. Bray yesterday introduced a bill into the South Australian Parliament regulating the hours of labour in factories and dealing with the employment therein of women and children. The measure also provides for the early closing of shops.

During the debate upon the second reading of the Free Education Bill in the South Australian Parliament yesterday, Sir John Downer moved as an amendment, "That, in view of the recent failure of the floating of Australian loans, no bill or resolution should be passed which might involve a loan or charge on the revenue till the financial statement has been submitted and considered."

Dr. Moorhouse is reported to be suffering from a severe attack of influenza.

Information from Charleville, Queensland, states that the unionist camps are rapidly dispersing. The men located there at present can be counted by units.

It is felt that the necessity no longer exists of keeping military stationed at Barcaldine, and consequently an order has been issued for the troops to return to headquarters with a view to disbanding.

The police, however, are to be disposed at the different stations where shearing is in progress, until the officers in charge of the districts are satisfied that it is perfectly safe to withdraw them.

Riots of a serious nature, arising out of the tramway conductors' strike, have occurred at Bordeaux Throne. The mob had to be repeatedly charged by the police and military before they dispersed.

Angao Sena, the sixth brother of the Jubraj or Acting-regent at Manipur has been condemned for complicity in the massacre of British officers during the recent rebellion.

Sir Charles and Lady Halle will arrive from Melbourne by the express train this morning. During the afternoon Lady Hallé will hold a reception at the Hotel Métropôle.

The Rev. J. Fordyce, of Woollahra, delivered the second of a course of lectures to young men, upon modern infidelity, in the hall of the Y.M.C.A., last evening, his subject being "The Agnostic's Knowledge."

The Customs revenue received yesterday amounted to £8367.

The interest which the colonies, and especially adjoining colonies, have in each other's proceedings is much intensified at the present time, when they all have before them one great subject pressing for consideration in which they are all concerned. And this circumstance naturally adds to the interest with which we read the Vice-regal speech, delivered yesterday at the opening of the Victorian Parliament, to see the course which the Government proposes to take in regard to federation and the bill of the Convention. Owing to the vacillation of our own Government at a critical moment, and the obstructive tactics pursued by the leader of the Opposition, the opportunity which was presented to the mother colony of retaining the lead it had taken in this matter was lost. Now we can only follow the lead of others, and this circumstance makes it of interest to observe what the Victorian Government purposes doing in this matter. Those of our New South Wales chauvinists who accustom themselves to speak as though the world were divided into two parts, this colony and the rest of the universe, may be beneficially reminded that a third of the population of Australia interested in federation dwell in Victoria. Considerable importance therefore attaches to the course which that colony will adopt in dealing with this subject. On this point the announcement of the policy of the Ministry is not very explicit. The inability of the Victorian delegates to the Convention to agree as to the best course to pursue, seems to have resulted in the matter being wholly left to the unaided judgment of Parliament. It is only in this way that we can interpret the statement that the Constitution is to be submitted to Parliament for approval, and that Parliament will be "asked to determine the best means of ascertaining the people's view on its purpose and provisions." We think that the course proposed to be adopted in this colony of submitting the bill to Parliament for revision, referring it with any suggested amendments to another convention, and then bringing it again before Parliament for adoption or rejection, and finally submitting it to the decision of the people, is one which bids fair to bring out more satisfactory results than that which seems to be suggested by the Munro Ministry, of beginning the consideration by discussing how the bill is to be submitted to the people. But it is possible that the result of the discussion may be the adoption of some course similar to that contemplated in this colony.

If the members of an incoming Government were to be held bound by the criticisms and charges they had urged while in opposition, the present position of the Munro Ministry in regard to the finances of the country would perhaps be rather an awkward one. Happily politicians have short memories, and have, moreover, a sublime trust that the memory of the public is equally unretentive. Apart from these merely personal considerations, it remains the case that, in the present state of Victorian finance, a heavy and painful responsibility of providing for largely increased taxation devolves upon Mr. Munro. The period of the imaginary surpluses and the real extravagance which many people looked upon as prosperity, has entailed serious obligations on those who have succeeded to the management of Victorian finance, and Mr. Munro in dealing with these will have a fair claim on the sympathy and assistance of the House and the public. The speech naturally has little to say beyond vague formula upon this matter. One announcement, however, embodies a proposal the result of which will be watched with attention in the other colonies. This is a proposal to create a Committee of Public Accounts, with a view to Parliament "having a more careful supervision and accurate knowledge of the finances." The idea is probably to form a standing committee, capable of doing for finance something the same as our existing standing committee does for works of railway construction. At any rate, if it only aided towards giving "a more careful supervision and accurate knowledge of the finances," such a committee might have the salutary effect of preventing an unscrupulous Opposition from trying to fight its way to power by disparaging and defaming the financial position of the colony.

A subject which the course of events and the criticisms of some of the Ministers when they were in opposition have forced on attention is the question of railway administration. It is generally admitted that this has failed to give satisfaction to the colony in its present form, or rather in its present results, though opinions are divided whether the remedy lies in helping to secure a free and independent sphere of action to the Commissioners, or in restricting the authority they now possess. The danger of the latter course is that it would almost inevitably issue in restoring the old bad, corrupt, and wasteful system of political management which many in Victoria, as in this colony, for their own purposes desire to bring back. What the Government promises on the matter is the introduction of a bill to amend the existing Act, and much will depend on the question whether the object of the amending measure is to more fully carry out the purposes of the great reform effected by Mr. Service, or to undo it by bringing back the old state of things, from which that measure with almost universal approval relieved the country. General concurrence will probably be given to the principle of the proposal that the railway accounts should be presented separately from the accounts of the ordinary revenue and expenditure. The same rule, as we have often argued, should be applied to the accounts of all the services in which the State merely acts as a great trading corporation. The necessities of the times lead the Ministry to promise the introduction of a measure to do away with plural voting—another instance of the way in which the same question is apt to simultaneously present itself to several of the colonies. In his proposals of electoral reform Mr. Munro includes one for conferring the franchise upon women; a matter which, having fulfilled its purpose by its appearance in the vice-regal speech, will probably be now allowed to drop. We are reminded of the way in which Victoria has managed to get ahead of this colony in many matters of practical legislation by the mention of a bill to liberalise and improve the excellent system of local government existing in that colony, a system which in this colony still remains in the region of sanguine aspiration. Then we hear of a bill making improvements in the law regarding water conservation and irrigation—another matter which is far more advanced in Victoria than with us. A scheme is adverted to for providing water supply for the north-western mallee country, "which a few years ago was a desolate waste, but is now a splendid wheat-growing country, settled by a thrifty agricultural population." This at once reminds us how far we yet are in this colony from having to resort to such classes of land for the extension of agriculture, and also what reserves of capability we possess when such a necessity arises. And it is instructive to reflect, with regard to many of the measures of past progress and practical legislation we have referred to—such as putting the railways in commission, water conservation, irrigation and utilisation of the mallee country—that they were the results of a few working sessions, free from party strife, and following upon a series of barren years given up to sterile faction-fighting; and that the condition which made all this possible in Victoria was the formation of a timely coalition between the two parties into which the political life of the colony was divided.

The political condition of New Zealand at this hour presents some phases that have a special interest for New South Wales. In the Parliament which we are now in process of electing, the return of a considerable number of labour delegates has given rise to speculation as to the direction in which this new element in Parliamentary life will tend. In this respect New Zealand has anticipated us by a little time, during which this particular phase of political life has been developing itself. The last election in that colony sent a considerable contingent of labour representatives to Parliament; and the retirement of the then existing Ministry placed in power a Government which, at least, bears a strong impress of the labour influence, and its programme appears to be giving largely a realisation of the labour party policy. The Parliament is now in session, and from the Governor's speech at the opening of Parliament, and the Budget speech which has since been delivered, as well as from the recent addresses of Ministers in various places, delivered expressly as official interpretations of the Ministerial policy, we gather a general outline of what may be regarded as legislation at the hands of a labour party.

One of the most characteristic departures is the intended formation of a Department of Industry with a Minister at the head of it, and with a system of Labour bureaus as an integral part of the Civil Service, spread throughout the colony. These bureaus are intended to procure, from a variety of specific sources, information as to the requirements of all districts in respect to labour, and to bring together those in quest of employment and those in quest of work. All public works are to be carried on by co-operation, contractors are to be done away with, and the Minister for Defence and Public Works has declared that so long as he is in office all works shall be conducted in this way, the work being "let direct to small bodies of men who will share equally in the payment, so that the strong shall assist the weak." The important question of rent is intended to be treated in the same drastic fashion, and a "Fair Rent Bill" is promised which shall provide for the constitution of a Court to adjust, every five years, the rentals to be paid by all lessees, whether holding from Government, corporation, or private landlords. That this will be generally satisfactory to tenants goes without saying; how it will be regarded by landlords is probably not taken into account in the arrangements; although it is considerately provided that the Courts shall have powers to increase rentals as well as lower them, a provision intended no doubt to soften the impact of the blow and reconcile the owners of property to this peculiar intrusion into the arrangement of their affairs. One of the foremost principles in the policy of the Government is the imposition of a graduated land tax, of from a penny to a penny and five-eighths in the pound, with exemptions on such a scale that a person with moderate means can have a holding without paying any tax at all. This tax is intended as a substitute for the property tax heretofore existing in that colony, and is expected to realise about an equal amount of revenue; but its unconcealed object is to make the holding of land beyond a limited area unprofitable, and in larger areas impossible. Collateral with this is another measure to provide for the repurchasing of large landed estates from the owners, in order that their land may be available for popular settlement. There is a gruesome aspect of considerateness in this proposal for facilitating the resale to the State of land which the State makes it difficult for the owner to hold, by special taxation; and in given circumstances one can understand how it might come as a welcome deliverance. Besides the land tax, there is in the Ministerial programme of New Zealand an income tax, graduated as to its source. If from wages or salary, the tax is a small one; if from other sources it is four times as great, always provided that an income or salary of £300 a-year or under pays no income tax at all. In such exemptions as these of the land and the income tax, there is no apparent attempt at disguise in the character of the class legislation, and they are sure of a cordial support from that large portion of the community which will have the pleasure of seeing the chief burthens of State resting on the shoulders of others. A tax on the totalisator, and an intercolonial penny postage, may be regarded, perhaps, as indistinctive features of a policy that has an individuality of a very marked kind.

But that this scheme, liberal though it seems, is not regarded as covering the whole field of political reform, is apparent in the fact that an Association has been formed, under the auspices of a Minister of the Crown, which embraces in its programme, in addition to the foregoing, adult suffrage—implying that of women; the employment by the State of all who want work; the State ownership of land, mines, railways, and coastal marine service; the statutory limitation of legal rent and interest; a State Bank; no second Chamber, and an elected Governor. These are kept judiciously in abeyance, the Ministerial programme being considered sufficient for present requirements. The Electoral Bill, which is intended as the permanent basis for this remarkable superstructure, has been already circulated; and it not only re-enacts the single vote, but makes it applicable to by-elections. The voter is permitted to select in what particular one of the districts in which he may have qualification he may wish to register; but he is only allowed to register in one district. It is needless to say that a policy of such a character has never been presented by any responsible Ministry to any Parliament in the British dominions before. It does not include all the planks of the labour platform as we know them, but it contains quite enough to make us watch with considerable interest in what way the people of New Zealand will accept, when presented to them, a scheme of reform of such a revolutionary character.

Mr. Tennent-Donaldson, who writes as the "Secretary National Protection Party," by which we believe is meant the party of provincial protection, has, it would seem, from a letter of his in another column, discovered that some locomotives are being constructed in America for the New South Wales railways and tramways. He appears to think that there is a good deal of political significance in this fact. If so, we should be glad to know what it is. If we have railways and tramways we must have locomotives. Even a secretary of a National Provincial protection party must admit this. But what he infers appears to be that they ought to be constructed here. With certain qualifications we all concur in this proposition. Indeed, the Government accepted it as a policy, and developed a liberal scheme for securing the establishment here of great locomotive, building works on the basis of a contract extending over some years. All this is within the memory of our readers, and also the fact that the attempt miscarried by the English firm failing to comply with the generous conditions offered by the Government. Other attempts have been made to compass the end by calling for tenders here when it was known that the Government was prepared to pay a large percentage in excess of the English delivery price for the sake of establishing the manufacture in the colony. Those attempts also have failed in meeting the requirements of our railways. Whatmore does Mr. Tennent-Donaldson desire the Government to do? To have the locomotives made here regardless of the cost, though it may be two or three or five times that for which they can be bought elsewhere? If these are the official opinions of the "National Protection Party" they ought to be plainly stated, not covertly insinuated at an election time just as the party is awaking to the importance of the labour vote, and that this is largely against it. If this is a tenet of the party, that every traveller by tram or rail, and every farmer who sends his produce by train, should be taxed in the shape of unduly high fares that a few locomotive manufacturers might make fortunes by aid of a State-subsidised industry which the whole community would be taxed to support, it would be well to say this right out. Probably we shall have many more sudden awakenings on the part of the "National [and Provincial] Protection Party" in the time immediately before us, and if so it is to be hoped that they will take the form, not of insinuations of policy, but of its outspoken and straightforward declaration.

The Royal Speech at the opening of the Parliament in Tonga is a model of lucidity, and in many another particular it might be taken as a pattern for such official manifestos. As a rule, it may be said of them, more than of any other utterances, that language was given to conceal thought. But the Tongan King has nothing to conceal, and he unburdens himself with a frankness that would disarm an Opposition, if there is anything of the nature of such an institution in the constitutional polity of Tonga. The piety and pathos in the opening words are touching; indeed the moral elevation of the whole address is what chiefly commends it to the imitation of all politicians. "You all know," he says, "that my Government was heavily indebted to foreign countries, and we should return thanks to God that we have discharged these debts." It would be a phenomenon to find Australian statesmen joining in such ascriptions of praise for the payment of our debts, or, for the matter of that, recognising that there is any room for the existence of a pious spirit in connection with our State obligations at all. In fact, the gratitude of colonial statesmen is evoked rather by success in increasing the public debt. But what frankness there is in the way of introducing a proposal for Civil Service reform: "It appears to me that there are too many public servants," says the honest old King, "but it rests with you to arrange a means for reducing their number." What a fluttering would there be in the dovecots of official life with us, if a Governor's speech came out with such a blunt directness. Reduction of taxes, alteration of the incidence of taxation, land settlement, codification of laws, and a system of public education constitute a considerable and respectable programme for the session, showing the little kingdom as it emerges from barbarism to be wrestling with very much the same class of questions as those which engage the political attention of the more advanced races; while a quaint illustration of the love of the grandiose and of the imitative faculty is seen in such references as that to the King's Privy Council and his friendly relations with all the Great Powers.

The Countess of Jersey held the third of a series of "At Homes" at Government House last evening, at which there were upwards of 250 guests. Lady Jersey was joined by his Excellency the Governor in the entertainment of her friends, and assisted by Captain the Hon. Rupert Leigh, Captain Cholmondeley, Lord Ancram, As.D.C., and Mr. Goschen, private secretary. The "At Home" partook of the nature of a musical evening, the programme for which was as follows:—Piano solo, Madame Summerhayes; whistling solo, Mr. Eille Norwood; song, "The Last Dream" (Cowen), Miss Colley; song, "Thine eyes so blue" (Lassen), Mrs. Vandeveer Green; piano solo, "Ballade in G minor" (Chopin), Mr. Ernest Hutcheson; song, "Ask me no more" (Tosti), Miss Dibbs; song, the waltz song from "Romeo and Giulietta" (Gounod), Mrs. C. J. Phillips; piano solo, "Rhapsody" (Liszt), Mr. Ernest Hutcheson; song, "The Three Fishers" (Hullah), Mrs. Vandeveer Green; song, "The Requital" (Blumenthal), Mr. A. W. Nathan; duet, "Maying" (A. M. Smith), Mrs. Vandeveer Green and Mr. A. W. Nathan. Mr. Charles Huenerbein acted as accompanist, and contributed materially to the pleasure of the gathering.

A meeting of the Executive Council was held yesterday, but owing to the absence of most of the Ministers from town the attendance was not large, neither was the business transacted anything beyond the merest routine. A meeting will be held on Friday, after the Premier has returned from his visit to the Southern border districts.

Sir Henry Parkes is expected to arrive at Redfern by the midday express to-morrow.

The Minister for Justice is away in the Gloucester electorate, where, at Raymond Terrace and Stroud, he will speak on behalf of the Ministerial candidate. He will return to town on Saturday. The Minister for Lands is in attendance at his office daily, and he is also transacting the Ministerial business at the General Post Office during the absence of the Postmaster-General. The Minister for Mines and Agriculture attended his office yesterday for the first time since his re-election for East Macquarie. He dealt with a large accumulation of departmental work, and in the evening left for Wollongong to help the Ministerial candidates. Mr. Sydney Smith will return to official duties in the course of to-day.

Mr. Percy Scarr, an examiner of public works proposals, has reported to the Minister for Works on the proposed railway from Galong to Burrowa. After dealing with numerous details, Mr. Scarr adds the following summary and conclusions:—"The whole question of the prospect of the proposed line proving a financially successful undertaking must depend upon how far it would have the effect of improving the industries of the district to be tapped. It has been shown that at present the land is held in large estates which are used as grazing farms, and that little agricultural produce is at present available for export. No other industries exist on a scale worth bringing into consideration. Therefore the chief product is wool; and as the land is already stocked up to, or nearly up to, its full carrying capacity, little or no increase can be expected in the quantity of wool to be produced. To the increase in agricultural operations, then, must be looked for such an increase in freight as will afford remunerative employment for the railway, unless the mines of the district are so developed in the future as to provide a means of living for a population to come in from outside. This last probability is so uncertain as to make it unwise to at present take it into consideration. The question then presents itself: Is there such a prospect of the district being so devoted to the pursuit of agriculture as a result of the construction of the railway that a payable traffic will arise from that source? From no other source does it appear at present is such a traffic likely to be obtained. The result of my inquiry leads me to the conclusion that this is not likely to come to pass. After careful consideration, and being guided by the experience of what has taken place in other parts of the colony, I arrived at the following conclusions:—1. That the present traffic is altogether insufficient to provide even for working expenses. 2. That the traffic would not increase sufficiently within a reasonable time to return working expenses and interest upon the cost. 3. Therefore that for years the line, if constructed, must be run at a heavy loss, even if it should ever become payable, which, from the small area to be drained by it, is very doubtful. 4. Consequently, looking at the question from a commercial point of view, the railway should not be carried out."

A question frequently asked just now is—When will the new Parliament assemble? According to the Electoral Act, assented to in 1880, the writs must in every case be made returnable on a day not later than the thirty-fifth clear day after the date of the issue thereof. The day to be fixed for the meeting of Parliament, after the return of the writs for general elections, must not be later than the seventh clear day after the date on which such writs shall have been made returnable. Parliament was dissolved on June 6, the proclamation was gazetted two days' later, hence the intervening 42 days which comprise the limit of time will expire on July 20. The last elections will take place on July 3, and it is therefore possible that the new Parliament will meet on or about Tuesday, July 14.

The weekly meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board was held at the offices of the board, Pitt-street, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Rowe presided. It was shown that the cash receipts for the week ended June 20 amounted to £3885 13s 6d, whilst the receipts from the beginning of the year totalled £80,555 10s 1d. The progress report showed that during the week 736 yards 1ft. 8in. of pipes had been laid, making a total of 44 miles [illegible] yards since January 1. 55 mains were lowered during the week, and 2116 yards of piping cleared. 141 hydrants had been fixed by the board's operatives, and 12 by contractors, for main laying. A minute was read with regard to the water supply at the recent fire at M'Lean Bros., Rigg, and Co., stating that there was an excellent pressure, and Superintendent Bear was very pleased with the supply generally. A minute was read regarding the damage caused by the late storm, stating that very little loss had been sustained in the city. It was recommended to the board that branch sewers should be laid in certain lanes on the new subdivision of the Baptist Estate, in the Borough of Redfern, at an estimated cost of £728.

In the case of Connors v. Kelly, which was tried last week in the No. 3 Jury Court, Mr. Justice Innes reserved the question of costs. The action, it may be remembered, was one for a common assault charged against defendant, a dairyman at Bega, by a female apprentice, and the jury returned a verdict with damages £25, which was below the limit carrying costs. His Honor yesterday refused a certificate, being of opinion that there were no serious or complicated questions of fact involved which justified an appeal to the Supreme Court, and that the case might fairly have been tried at the District Court, Bega. His Honor added that—while he trusted they should never again hear of a master lifting his hand in the way of corporal chastisement upon a female apprentice or servant, a proceeding not to be tolerated in these days—in his opinion the defendant stood altogether exonerated from the graver charge of misconduct brought against him of taking advantage of his position to corrupt a young woman placed under his charge.

In consequence of the serious illness of one of the jurors engaged in the case of Nunn v. the Borough of Redfern, the hearing yesterday could not be proceeded with, and an adjournment was granted until Monday. As the services of the rest of the jurymen had previously been dispensed with until to-day no other cause could be taken, and the Court adjourned until this morning. His Honor the Chief Justice expressed his regret at this loss of time, seeing that owing to several causes having been unusually protracted, the work in all the courts was in arrear. During the day it was officially announced that next week a fourth court would be held at Darlinghurst, and that as the Judges had decided to extend the sittings for a week, four courts would be kept going from next Monday for a fortnight. Under ordinary circumstances the vacation would have commenced on the 3rd of July.

Amongst the bankrupts who came before Mr. Registrar Henry for examination yesterday was a man who had carried on business, and whose estate had been sequestrated, in the name of "George Bruce." Bruce's attendance at the court yesterday was not altogether voluntary. It seemed that he had failed to attend the court on the date originally fixed for his public examination, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. This warrant was duly executed, and the result was the appearance of "Bruce" before the Registrar yesterday. Although "Bruce" evinced an unwillingness to answer some of the questions put to him, some interesting facts connected with his career were nevertheless elicited. His real name was, he said, not "George Bruce," but Edward Brown. He had kept various hotels in London, where he became bankrupt, but never obtained a certificate of discharge. The attention of the Registrar having been directed to the fact that the evidence of the bankrupt was not altogether satisfactory, Mr. Henry said that he was virtually powerless in the matter. Undoubtedly the bankrupt was guilty of evasion, but as the examination was a public examination, and was not one held under section 30, all he could do was to adjourn it sine die. If the matter had been brought before him under section 30 of the Act he could have committed the bankrupt to prison.

The Attorney-General has declined to further prosecute in the cases of Sarah Crawford, who was committed at Cooma, and Alberta D'Berthier, committed at Hay on charges of false pretences.

The annual meeting of the ladies' committee of the Boys' Brigade was held yesterday afternoon in the Town Hall. The Countess of Jersey presided. There was a large attendance of members and ladies interested in the work of the home. The annual report, presented by Mrs. Thow, gave an encouraging account of the year's proceedings. It was unanimously adopted. Mrs. Ellis was appointed vice-president. Mrs. Thow was re-elected hon. secretary, Mrs. Warren assistant secretary, and Mrs. Rosenthal hon. treasurer.

We regret to have to announce that Mr. Thomas C. O'Mara, the well-known barrister, died at his residence, Burwood, yesterday morning, after a lingering illness. About six months ago the deceased gentleman had a severe attack of influenza, which left him in a very prostrate condition, and unfortunately consumption supervened. Some time afterwards Mr. O'Mara visited Queensland in the hope that by change of air he would succeed in shaking off the disease before it obtained too firm a hold upon his system; and he subsequently went to Wagga Wagga, with the same object in view. The change, however, had little or no beneficial effect; and so rapid was the progress of the disease that a few weeks ago all hope was abandoned. Mr. O'Mara, as a member of the Bar, displayed considerable talent, and in private life he was extremely popular. The deceased gentleman was at one time well known in politics, and represented at different periods the electorates of Monaro and Gundagai. Very general sorrow was expressed by the members of the Bar when the news of Mr. O'Mara's demise reached town.

Touching the report of the Royal Commission on Strikes the president of the Victorian Chamber of Manufactures, to whom a copy was sent, has written to say that the document was of so important a character he would be glad if a number of copies could be forwarded, in order that the members of the chamber might have the opportunity of studying the report at their leisure. The report has also met with the warm approval of the executive council of the Australasian Institute of Marine Engineers, which recently passed a resolution to the effect that the members were deeply impressed with the practicability of the remedial measures recommended, and they trusted that a bill embodying them would become law at an early date.

The annual report of the Chief Inspector of Stock is now being printed at the Government Printing Office. It is understood that Mr. Bruce will show an increase of over five millions of sheep in New South Wales during the past year. This is the largest increase since the year 1887. An excellent season, an abundance of feed, and an absence of disease have conduced to a considerable increase in the production of all kinds of stock.

Mr. George Hill has been elected a vice-president of the Royal Agricultural Society of New South Wales, in place of the late Mr. G. S. Yeo.

The following translation of the speech of the King of Tonga at the opening of Parliament on the 8th June, 1891, has been sent us by Mr. J. C. Smith, Agent for the Government of Tonga:—I thank God for sparing us to take part in the opening of our Parliament this year. It is true that some of the chiefs who were with us at the opening of the last meeting are gone, and their places are to-day empty. But I will not speak of this, lest sorrows should be awaked. Only let us remember that it is the way decreed for us to follow, and return thanks to God that we can take part in this meeting. I rejoice that the representatives of the Powers are well, and that the work they are doing in Tonga is good, and tending to establish and ensure peace and friendship in our various public relations. You all know that the Governor of Fiji favoured me by sending a gentleman to assist in modelling my Government upon a better system. The help thus given to my Government has been excellent; and I ordered that an audit of the finances, and a report upon the revenue system should at once be made. The report of this audit has been printed in the Government Gazette. After considering this report I ordered, in my Privy Council, that future expenditure should always be controlled by a yearly estimate of revenue and expenditure, so that every person should easily know the system and condition of the public finances. You also know that my Government was heavily indebted in foreign countries, and we should return thanks to God that we have discharged these debts. It is true, however, that we are still indebted to our own public officers. To turn to another matter. It appears to me that there are too many public servants, but it rests with you to arrange a means for reducing their number, while carrying on the public business with efficiency. It seems to me possible to effect some reduction in taxation, so that the revenue may more nearly correspond with the salaries of officers, and other public expenses. But you must remember always that no indiscriminate reduction should be made, and that the greatest care should be exercised lest the Government should be again embarrassed owing to unforeseen circumstances. You will also consider the form of taxation, with a view to improvement. My own desire upon this point is that every Tongan male shall have an hereditary plot of tax land, and that charges for interest upon taxes overdue should be abolished. As regards the laws, I have commanded that the existing codes should be rearranged and amended, and that new laws should be added; and I shall lay these before you for consideration, and for providing the necessary sum for their publication. I know that it is the way of the world that people of every country wish to serve their Government, that it may be good and strong. But how can it be strong if its servants do not understand their various duties? And I say that the shortest path towards understanding is education. I have, therefore, appointed a European gentleman, Mr. Hamilton, to teach in Tonga; that the children of chiefs and people may be educated, and this education will be especially in the direction of foreign languages, since it appears to me the work of Government cannot be properly carried on or extended information be acquired, unless the languages of the countries with which we have intercourse, and are most brought into contact, are first learned. I am in friendly relations with all the Great Powers, and the help they have afforded my Government is excellent. I give thanks that all is well to-day. May God be with your deliberations, and govern your thoughts, so that they may always be directed towards that which will bring good to the country, and continued friendship between the chiefs, as is the law of God. And upon no account let there again arise dissensions between the Churches.

Though several of the steamers for whose safety anxiety was felt on Monday have arrived at their destinations, there remain two well-known intercolonial passenger vessels to be accounted for, namely, the Huddart-Parker liner Wendouree and the A. U. S. N. Company's steamer Maranoa. The Wendouree left Hobart last Friday night for Sydney, and passed Green Cape at 1.15 p.m. on Sunday last. In the weather then prevailing the steamer should have reached here during Monday, and the fact that she is yet to arrive is causing a great deal of criticism, though she is not long enough overdue to create a feeling of serious alarm. It is believed that she has sought shelter in Jervis Bay. It so unfortunately happens that the bay in question is one of those parts of the southern coast, which cannot be communicated with in consequence of the telegraph lines being down. The Maranoa left Sydney for Melbourne last Saturday, and among her passengers are several leading members of the Brough and Boucicault Theatrical Company, who were to have opened last night in Melbourne. The steamer is stated to have been passed on Sunday evening near Gabo by the Elingamite, and she should at latest have arrived at Melbourne yesterday with the steamers Burrumbeet from Sydney and Era from Newcastle, in whose company the Maranoa is reported to have passed Gabo. The Era and Burrumbeet arrived at Melbourne yesterday, and it would therefore seem that either the Maranoa has hove-to in Bass's Strait during the heavy gales, or has met with an accident, and if the latter be the case she will probably be picked up under canvas.

The steamer Taiyuan, from Kobe (Japan) brought word that strenuous efforts are being put forth to establish a comprehensive emigration scheme aided by the Japanese Government. Honolulu has, so far, absorbed the chief attention of the emigrants, and several shiploads have left Japan for the Sandwich group. The persons to be provided with free passages are said to be such as are reduced to the lowest ebb of poverty and distress, and they are urged to accept Government assistance on the assurance that in foreign lands they can live in comfort and plenty. In Tokio there is also a numerous "larrikin" element, and it being the opinion that as it is hopeless to expect those persons to turn their attention to industrial pursuits, the emigration gates should be opened wide for them to make their exit from the country.

The School of Arts Debating Club held its meeting on Monday evening. The vice-president, Mr. C. F. Garvan, was in the chair. There was a large attendance of members. The following motion was discussed: "That no scheme of federation should be accepted by Australia which does not give Australians the right of electing their own president." After several members had spoken the debate was adjourned.

A meeting of the University Women's Society was held on June 17, at the University. Lady Jersey presided. There were 24 members present including Lady Manning, president, Mrs. C. B. Fairfax, Mrs. MacCallum, Miss Tierney, and Miss Phillips, vice-presidents. Some preliminary business having been dealt with, the meeting proceeded to consider the report of the inquiries made by the committee as to the best fields for the work of the society. Several of the objects contained in the report were adopted, and the committee was authorised to receive offers from volunteers for work, to arrange a plan, and see that it is acted upon as soon as possible. The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to Lady Jersey for presiding.

A meeting of the Paddington Single Tax League was held on Monday night. The secretary announced that upwards of 8000 Single Tax leaflets had been distributed in Paddington during the election, and that the newly-elected members of Parliament in, reply to questions, had all promised to do their best to lessen the amount of taxation derived from the Custom-House, and substitute a tax on land values, irrespective of improvements.

At a meeting of the delegates from the Parramatta and Granville Fire Brigades and the Parramatta Bands, held on Monday evening, it was decided to hold a torchlight procession and collection in aid of the funds of the Parramatta District Hospital.

The Parramatta Borough Council on Monday evening resolved that all resolutions bearing upon the subject of the adoption of the report and plan prepared by the Government for remedying the pollution of the river, be rescinded. Alderman Airy said that the Government had admitted its liability to altogether remove the nuisance, and he considered the action of the Department was an endeavour to throw the responsibility on to the council. Alderman Ritchie said the adoption of the report would throw the responsibility on the shoulders of the council. He suggested that strong pressure be brought on the Government by the people of Parramatta to have the river deepened as far as Newland's bridge. Unless the river is so deepened it will be impossible to cleanse the river of the matter emptied into it from the various Government asylums. Alderman Gallagher said it was the Mayor's duty to have the nuisance stopped. The Mayor pointed out that he was prepared to act on the resolution of the council. It was further resolved, on the motion of Alderman Airey, that the Mayor write to the Department of Works, stating that the council would have nothing to do with the plans submitted for carrying down the river the nuisance from Government institutions, at present delivered at Lennox Bridge, Borough of Parramatta, for which the council is in no way responsible, and that the Government be further informed that if the nuisance be not abated the Mayor will apply to the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain the Government from perpetuating the nuisance.

Sir Charles and Lady Hallé, accompanied by Mdlle. Fillunger, will arrive from Melbourne by this morning's express. In the afternoon Lady Hallé will hold a reception at the Hôtel Métropole, for which numerous invitations have been issued. To-morrow evening the talented visitors will make their re-appearance in Sydney at the Centennial Hall. From the programme, which is published in another column, it will be seen that varied tastes have been considered. Besides their respective solos, Sir Charles Hallé and Madame Neruda will appear together in Grieg's famous Sonata in C minor. For her first appearance before a Sydney audience Mdlle. Fillunger has chosen "Die junge Nonne," by Schubert, in which the Austrian prima donna achieved great success in Melbourne. She will also sing "Orpheus with his lute" (Sir A. Sullivan), and the "Dedication," by Schumann. Madame Burton will be heard in "Caro mio ben," and in Blumenthal's ballad, "Sunshine and Rain." The second concert will be given on Saturday evening, for which the plan will be open this morning. We are requested to mention that the tickets of season ticket purchasers will be ready this morning.

"The Gondoliers" at the Theatre Royal is now in its fourth week, and the audiences continue phenomenal, notwithstanding the competing attractions. The Gondoliers—monarchs of republican tendencies—the Grand Inquisitor, the ducal drummer, and the impecunious Duke of Plaza-Toro maintain their interest for the theatre-going public, and Miss Graupner, Miss Young, Miss Elsie Cameron, and Miss Violet Varley continue to delight the audiences with their tuneful vocalisation. "The Gondoliers" will run until July 3, when the Messrs. Rignold will open a season of 19 nights at this theatre, during the occupancy by Madame Bernhardt of Her Majesty's.

"The County Fair," at Her Majesty's, continues to attract appreciative audiences. The part of Taggs during the week has been taken with considerable success by Miss Madge Seymour, who quite maintains the character of the part by the vivacity of her dancing and acting generally. The approaching visit of Madame Bernhardt has caused a disturbance in the local theatrical world, however, from which this popular play is likely to suffer. Arrangements already entered into necessitate a change of bill on Saturday next, when Mr. William Rignold will open in "The Lyons Mail," a Lyceum (London) success, in which this popular actor will make a welcome reappearance after his trip to England. It is announced that Madame Bernhardt will begin a season here, instead of at the Theatre Royal, as at first intended, on July 8. The ample accommodation both on the stage and in the auditorium in this spacious theatre will be a distinct advantage both to actress and audiences, and the change is decidedly a step taken in the public interest.

Miss Achurch has maintained the striking success of Saturday night's representation of Adrienne Lecouvreur at the Garrick. This attractive little theatre, with its able performances by the Achurch-Charrington company, has suffered somewhat from the bad weather and the elections of late, and it was therefore particularly gratifying to lovers of conscientious acting and a fine performance to see good audiences during the present week. Miss Achurch's capable rendering of the part of Adrienne has been the theme of unanimous praise since the piece was staged. The scene with the Comte de Save in the greenroom of the Theatre Français, the encounter with the Princess de Bouillon, the Phèdre recitation, and the death scene are all finely rendered, and Miss Achurch received quite a gratifying and well-deserved ovation at the end of the fourth act last night. "A Doll's House" is announced for to-night and to-morrow night; and we learn that it is intended to offer a benefit to Miss Achurch on Friday evening, when "Adrienne Lecouvreur" will be reproduced. Every well-wisher of the drama will sincerely wish success to this benefit, closing as it does a series of high-class performances, in which the beneficiaire has shown remarkable artistic powers under circumstances of peculiar difficulty.

At the Criterion the success of "Evangeline" on Saturday night has been continued to large audiences. Mr. Fortescue as Catherine, Mr. Gourlay as Le Blanc, Miss Earl as Gabriel, Mr. Harris as the Lone Fisherman, Mr. Leston as Captain Dietrich, and Miss Liddiard as Evangeline, have made immense headway in popular favour during the run of the piece so far; and the brilliant scenery, gorgeous ballets and marches, and the light and characteristic music, seem destined to ensure an occupancy of the Criterion boards for this piece for some considerable time to come.

On the Dailler, Richmond Downs station, Queensland, a large supply of fresh water has been struck at a depth of 600ft. The supply is said to be increasing.

A lecture on "Woman and Womanhood Suffrage" was delivered in the Unitarian Church, Liverpool-street, last evening, by Mr. H. J. Akerman. The lecturer traced the progress of the woman suffrage movement in the different countries of the world, showing that women already enjoyed the franchise in the Isle of Man and in the territory of Wyoming in the United States. The lecturer also reviewed the various arguments for and against the franchise for women, and expressed his opinion that it would be for the good of humanity and in the interests of social reform that it should be brought into practice. Notice was taken of the labour representatives returned to the coming Parliament, and an opinion was expressed that we should soon have one man one vote here, to be followed very shortly by one woman one vote. Several ladies were in attendance to take names for membership of the Womanhood Suffrage League, and for a petition to Parliament to grant voting power to women. Mr. Maxwell occupied the chair, and a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Akerman for his lecture.

On Thursday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. Stanger-Leathes threw open the spacious rooms of The Laythes, Randwick, for the purpose of an æsthetic entertainment arranged by the Rev. Joseph Campbell, M.A., in aid of the reduction of the debt on St. Nicholas Church, Coogee. The entertainment consisted of a few musical selections and songs by amateur artistes, and an exhibition of limelight views, the gems of the collections of the Rev. J. Campbell and Mr. W. P. Faithfull, who respectively described the scenes and statuary as they were presented on the canvas. During the half-time interval the visitors, at the invitation of the hostess, partook of light refreshments in the billiard-room, which was tastefully arranged for the purpose, and a pleasant evening was spent. Admission was by an æsthetic card, for which the holder paid 5s. As the guests arrived, they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Stanger-Leathes, to whom they were presented by the Rev. Wm. Hough, of St. Jude's, Randwick. The entertainment realised £22.

The Rev. Joshua Hargraves, of St. David's Church, Surry Hills, delivered a lecture last evening in the schoolroom of St. Paul's Church, Redfern. The subject of the lecture was "Wanderings in Italy." It was in aid of the Mission Hall in Eveleigh-street, which is under the charge of the Rev. Stanley Wilkinson. The lecturer, who was supported by the Revs. F. B. Boyce and S. Wilkinson was patiently listened to, and at the conclusion received a vote of thanks carried by acclamation.

A concert in aid of the building fund of St. Stephen's Church, Edgecliff-road, Waverley, was held last evening in the Athenæum Hall, Ebley-street, Waverley. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Vickers Jacob, Misses Peters, Campbell, and Taylor, Messrs. Taylor, O'Rourke, and Browne, and a duet by the Misses Saxton. Mr. W. and Mrs. T. Bullock performed on the piano, and recitations were given by Mr. Stanley Adam.

The weekly meeting of St. Andrew's Literary Institute was held in the lower schoolroom, Kent-street, on Monday evening. The president, Rev. A. Miller, M.A., occupied the chair. Two essays were read, one on "The Signs of the Times," by Mr. G. Miller; and the other entitled "How Shall I Spend My Millions?" by Mr. J. Stinson.

About 400 people attended a concert recently given by the scholars of St. Barnabas' Sunday School, under the conductorship of Mr. Barton, choir-master at the abovenamed church. Solos were given by Misses Brissett, Hall, Ethel Hall, and Master Victor Hart. Instrumental selections were rendered by Misses Johnson, Outten, and Messrs. J. and G. Vaughan, and E. and H. M'Gee. The dialogues by Masters Thomas, Carter and Austin, and recitations by Misses Bullow and Brissett proved interesting. Several part songs were rendered by the choir.

An inquest on the body of the young man, James Francis Pride, who in Hanover-street, Waterloo, on Monday, shot at two women, injuring one, and afterwards shot himself through the heart, was held at the George Hotel, Elizabeth-street, Waterloo, yesterday. A letter was read in which Pride stated his intention of killing himself after he had killed Mrs. Wenman and Mrs. "Bawn" (Vaughan). A verdict of death from injuries self-inflicted while temporarily insane, was recorded.

The body of a newly-born male child was found last night wrapped in a cloth in Henderson-road, Alexandria.

An advertisement in another column announces that a festival will be held in St. John's Church, Milson's Point, this evening.

We have received from Messrs. Donaldson and Co., of Melbourne, a copy of a well-executed plan of the Broken Hill silver-field, published in connection with the Investor's Guide.

The Permanent Artillery Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Devery, will perform in the Botanic Gardens this afternoon, weather permitting.

DISCOVERY OF A BODY IN THE MURRUMBIDGEE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

WAGGA, Tuesday.

Yesterday afternoon the body of a man of the labouring class was found floating in the Murrumbidgee, at Wagga, about a quarter of a mile below the company's bridge. The right jaw was fractured, and the body appeared to have been in the water about a week. The deceased has not been identified at present. He was about 50 years of age, and of medium height. On the body were a small sum of money and a receipt for a watch and chain which had been purchased of Mr. Webster, jeweller, Bourke-street, Melbourne, on January 3rd, 1885.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

SINGLETON, Tuesday.

The Quarter Sessions were concluded to-day. The jury, in the case of Thomas V. Evans, for assault, disagreed, and the defendant was bound over to appear at the next sessions here in September. John Monahan was found guilty of stealing from a dwelling at Muswellbrook, and was sentenced to 12 months in Maitland Gaol. Walter Gibbons, on two charges of stealing from a dwelling, was sentenced to two years in Maitland Gaol on each charge, the sentences to be concurrent.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Sir Matthew Davies, Speaker, gave his official dinner last night at Parliament House. The Governor was present, besides a large number of guests.

When the Assembly met to-day it was seen that no material alteration had taken place in the position of parties. Excluding the Speaker, there are 94 members, who may be divided roughly as follows:—57 Ministerialists and 37 Opposition.

Amongst the spectators at the opening of Parliament was Sarah Bernhardt, who appeared deeply interested in the proceedings.

Henry Willmore, who was found guilty of bigamy on Friday last and remanded for sentence, died in the Melbourne Gaol to-night from natural causes. He was at one time a well-known hotel-keeper in this city.

The jury to-day, after six hours' absence, were unable to agree in the case of Edward Mirams, charged with embezzlement. The prisoner was remanded till the July sittings, in the same bail as previously.

Charles James Barber, formerly city missionary, commenced an action in the County Court against the members of the executive committee of the Melbourne and Suburban City Mission, claiming £600 for wrongful dismissal. The gist of the proceedings lies in Barber's efforts to refute certain reflections on his character, which it is suggested induced the committee to dispense with his services.

The hearing of the charges against R. J. W. Pound of stealing a quantity of platinum, belonging to the Otway Ranges Proprietary Company, was adjourned till the August sittings of the Criminal Court, owing to the absence of four witnesses.

Inquiries show that 11 widows and 22 children have been left destitute by the loss of the Taramung.

John Brown and John James were buried this morning by a fall of earth and stone in No. 2 Tribute Imperial Company, Buninyong. Brown was dug out in a short time, having only received a few scratches. The dead body of James was recovered at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The directors of the Opera House Proprietary Company, Limited, some months since invited competitive designs for a new opera house on the site of the present one. The first prize was awarded to William Pitt, F.R.V.I.A., of Collins-street.

As James Downey, in the employ of the Railway Department, was crossing the line at Braybrook Junction to-day, he was struck by the buffer of an engine, and thrown several yards into a pool of water, which broke his fall and saved him from severe injuries.

Frederick Caffyn, a labourer, to-day obtained a verdict of £468, being three years' wages, from Howard Smith and Sons, Limited, for injuries sustained by him through the alleged carelessness of a foreman of the defendants. The plaintiff was thrown to the lower hold of the Era through the slipping of a rope, and sustained serious injuries.

The Misses Albu made their first appearance at Ballarat to-night, and had a splendid reception.

A large party, including the Governor and members of Parliament, attended a concert at the Town Hall to-night on the invitation of Sir James M'Bain, President of the Legislative Council.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

From answers to circulars issued by the Register respecting the vintage of 1891, on the whole the growers and winemakers have reason to be satisfied. The old vineyards have yielded considerably less than last year, owing to the wet and cold weather. The young vines coming into bearing kept up the average. The currant crop is good. The growers had to contend against the unusual prevalence of oidium. Sulphur proved beneficial.

At the inquest on the jockey Parker, who was killed at the Holiday Race Meeting yesterday through Vagary crossing her legs and shooting him over her head, the jury censured the lessees of the Morphettville course for not having it fenced on the inside.

The Governor has presented to Parliament a long memorandum prepared for Ministers, in reference to his visit to the Northern Territory, and his trip through the continent. The document contains detailed comments upon the different institutions at Port Darwin and the various industries of the country generally, and is supplemented by suggested alterations and improvements.

THURSDAY ISLAND, Tuesday.

The cable ship Recorder struck on Saturday on a sand patch in the middle of the passage between the Horn and Wednesday Islands. This passage is generally used by all vessels drawing under 17ft., and has hitherto been considered quite safe. Careful soundings revealed that the patch was a very small one, and that the ship was only touching amidships, while there was plenty of water fore and aft, and on one side. The Recorder came off with Saturday night's tide, undamaged, and proceeded on her voyage yesterday.

THE DORA DORA MURDER.

ONE OF THE FUGITIVE BLACKS SIGHTED.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

BOWRAL, Tuesday.

On Saturday afternoon Senior-sergeant Fowler and Constable Gallagher started for Bullio in pursuit of the two blacks charged with the murder at Dora Dora, and who were reported to be thereabouts. The police arrived at Bullio at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning. On arrival they saw a fire in the bush about a mile distant, but to get to it they would have to go 15 miles round on account of very rough country. They were joined by two men named Goodfellow and Hilton. Goodfellow and Constable Gallagher were sent in front, whilst Senior-sergeant Fowler and Hilton followed. Suddenly the two former sighted one of the blacks, who was coming quietly towards Gallagher and Goodfellow. The latter saw the black, and shouted to the sergeant, "Here he is"; whereupon the black jumped from a rock 10ft. above into the river, and swam across. Gallagher and Hilton rushed their horses into the river lower down to cross, but both riders were thrown in the river. They hung to their horses' bridles, and got across, but owing to the dense pine scrub they lost sight of the blackfellow. Sergeant Fowler, however, sighted him about 500 yards away, and fired twice with his rifle, but without effect. Subsequently tracks were found where he had evidently recrossed the river at another point. He was pursued so closely that he threw off a cardigan jacket and his hat and pipe, which the police have. The blacks have been at Bullio a couple of days and robbed Goodfellow's hut, and made some damper there whilst Goodfellow was away. The police have hopes of catching them soon, but owing to the flooded state of the river and the very rough country and wet weather the chances are against them.

THE WEATHER.

YESTERDAY'S FAVOURABLE CHANGE.

RIVERS IN FLOOD.

THE RAINFALL IN THE COUNTRY.

OVERDUE INTERCOLONIAL STEAMERS.

A marked change took place in the weather early yesterday, and although throughout the day there was a threatening sky, no rain of any consequence fell. The rainfall registered in Sydney from 9 a.m. Saturday morning to 9 a.m. yesterday morning showed a total for the three days of no less than 5in. 17 points. The rainfall reported yesterday morning was not so heavy as that on Monday morning, but it was still heavy at certain parts on the coast, particularly south of Sydney. Wollongong reported 2·75in., Teralga 2·42, Mossvale 2·10, Bodalla 1·86, Bombala 1·90, and Bowral 1·93.

A heavy easterly gale and sea was reported at Eden and Moruya, and it was still raining on the southern part of the coast. The Observer at Eden reported yesterday that there was a heavy gale blowing on Monday night from the east, with a very heavy sea. The force of the gale blew the thermometers out of their position and broke them. The rain was very heavy, the creeks flooded, and the coaches stopped. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the wind was still blowing from the eastward, with a heavy sea and every appearance of more rain.

At the same time at Moruya a strong south-east gale was prevailing, with a heavy sea.

At Camden another 1·44in. of rain was registered, and the river was reported to have been 8ft. over the bridge, but stationary. At Bega 3·15in. of rain were recorded.

Speaking generally, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon it was fine north of Sydney; cloudy from Sydney southwards, and below Cape St. George there was a heavy gale from the eastward with a heavy sea and still raining. Rain was falling at places on the mountains and especially in the Goulburn district.

From a letter received by the Government Astronomer yesterday from Mr. R. D. Fitzgerald, late Deputy Surveyor-General, it would appear that the rainfall at Hunter's Hill was very much in excess of that in Sydney. The record is as follows:—19th instant, 1·57in.; 21st, 3·33in.; 22nd, 6·30in.; and 23rd, 1·31in. A total for the five days of 12·53in.

To the northward of Sydney the sea had greatly moderated yesterday morning, and the steamers trading to the Northern rivers were enabled to proceed on their voyages. To the southward an easterly gale was prevailing, though several steamers were not deterred from leaving port. Both the Birksgate and Konoowarra from this port left last night for Melbourne, and from Newcastle the Ouraka, bound to the southward, and the steamer Duckenfield, with a hulk named the Gem in tow, left. At the Northern ports, the Rosedale got away from the Manning for Sydney, and the Scout left Port Macquarie. From the Clarence, the steamer Australian, for this port, is reported to have sailed. A number of steamers also left Newcastle, bound north; and coastal traffic generally may be said to have been restored yesterday.

With regard to overdue steamers, the news of the arrival of the steamers Burrumbeet and Era, trading to Melbourne, was received early in the day, but there was no word of the Maranoa, from Sydney. She left for Melbourne on Saturday last, and, according to the report of the Elingamite, was sighted off Gabo on Sunday evening at about 6 o'clock in company with the Burrumbeet and a steamer which is believed to have been the Era. Captain Armstrong, in command, is known to be an extremely cautious master, and it is quite possible that he has hove the vessel to after getting in the Straits and meeting with the heavy easterly sea instead of driving her against it. So that although the steamer is considerably behind, it is not thought that there is any cause for any serious alarm. The steamer Wendouree, which left Hobart for Sydney with a good many passengers on Friday night last, should have arrived here during Monday. Many inquiries were made yesterday at the offices of the owners, Messrs. Huddart, Parker, and Co., but no tidings of the vessel had reached there. It has been ascertained that the Wendouree passed Green Cape at 1 o'clock on Sunday, so that it will be seen that with a southerly gale behind her she should have been in here as stated, on Monday at latest. The opinion is held that the Wendouree has from some cause put in at Jervis Bay, and there being no communication by wire with the bay owing to the lines being interrupted, no information can be obtained. The steamer Allowrie arrived safely at Eden.

At the Exchange and General Post Office reports were received from Windsor to the effect that the river still continues to rise, and was breaking over the banks in several places. At the Richmond it was 21ft. over the bridge, and still rising. At Camden it was 8ft. over the bridge, but receding. At Penrith the river was reported to have been falling, after having reached 15ft. At Goulburn the river was reported to be higher than for several years past.

Last night there was a rough sea at Barranjoey, the Bellinger, Clarence, Macleay, Port Stephens, and Seal Rocks. Brunswick, Byron Bay, and Cape Hawke reported the sea to be smooth along the coast. Telegraphic communication was necessarily affected, and information from several parts of the coast could not be obtained.

The suburban railway and tramway traffic was not in any way affected yesterday, and the double lines on that portion of the Newtown tram line which could not be used on Monday, owing to a land-slip near the railway bridge, were utilised from noon.

It may be mentioned as showing the state of the weather off the port of Newcastle that the crew of the Newcastle lifeboat and the members of the Rocket Brigade have been on duty since last Saturday evening, with everything in readiness to render assistance to vessels that might be in distress. The weather has been extremely boisterous during the past few days, causing considerable anxiety to the owners of small vessels in the Newcastle trade.

BATHURST, Tuesday.

The rain continues at intervals, and the weather is most inclement. The Macquarie River and its tributaries are considerably above the ordinary level.

BERRY, Tuesday.

The favourable change in the weather last evening was delusive. Heavy rain fell during the night and to-day till 9 o'clock a.m. 690 points have fallen. It is still unsettled.

BRAIDWOOD, Tuesday.

Rain is still coming down in torrents. Up to 9 o'clock this morning 5in. had fallen, and upwards of 3in. have fallen since. The creeks are higher than has been known for years. All business and works of every kind are at a standstill.

BULLI, Tuesday.

Heavy rain fell all night. The wind has gone down, but the sea is still too heavy for colliers to load. The weather continues showery.

BURROWA, Tuesday.

Steady rain is falling.

CAMDEN, Tuesday.

The water rose just sufficiently to float a boat from near the Camden tweed factory along the line to the river, it is now slowly receding. Rain is threatening again.

CLIFTON, Tuesday.

There is a heavy easterly sea, with much rain. Four steam colliers returned to Sydney empty during the day, consequently all the southern coal mines are idle. The railway line cuttings are slipping at Clifton and close to Austinmer. The trains have to go slow over the dangerous places. The line is otherwise safe.

COWRA, Tuesday.

It has been raining for the past two days. The river is over the banks at Jerula, 2 miles from Cowra, but has not broken over here as yet. The Abercrombie River, which falls into the Lachlan, 30 miles up, is reported a banker. The rise is caused by the snow water. The latest intelligence from Tuena is that the Abercrombie is still rising.

GILGANDRA, Tuesday.

Seven points of rain have fallen here.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

Heavy rain fell to-day. The Mulwarree is over its banks. The low-lying portion of Eastgrove is submerged. The downpour has been phenomenal, and if it continues disastrous floods will result.

GUNDAGAI, Tuesday.

The weather during the past few days has been showery, but very little rain has fallen. Grass is plentiful.

HARDEN, Tuesday.

Steady rain is falling, with every appearance of a continuance.

MOSS VALE, Tuesday.

It is still raining hard. There were two or three hours' cessation last night, but to-day the rain has been heavier than before. The Wingecarribee River is overflowing the Bong Bong bridge, rendering the road to Moss Vale and Bowral impassable. The lower portion of the town is submerged. At midday the wind ceased in violence.

MOUNT VICTORIA, Tuesday.

Three hundred and fifty-eight points of rain fell since Sunday. It is fine now.

NOWRA, Tuesday.

A lot of rain fell last night. The river has been over the wharfs for some hours, but is now falling.

ROBERTSON, Tuesday.

Heavy rain has been falling here since Saturday morning, at times being exceptionally heavy, and completely flooding the streets. The mail coach from here to Moss Vale had to return to Robertson last night, being unable to pass some of the creeks, which had risen over the top rails of the fence. Since Saturday over 17 inches have fallen, and the roads are in a terrible state. There seems to be no prospect of its clearing up.

TERARA, Tuesday.

The river is again rising rapidly, and is now 2ft. over the Nowra and Terara wharfs.

WALCHA, Tuesday.

Snow fell in the district on Sunday. It is now fine, with frosts and thick ice.

WINDSOR, Tuesday.

The river has been rising steadily since last night, and is now about 16ft. over the Windsor bridge, and the water is spreading over the flat country. Towards evening the waters remained at a standstill, but judging from the news just received from Goulburn there will be a rush of water during the night. The highest flood known for years is recorded from Goulburn. The roadway between Windsor and M'Grath's Hill is one sheet of water, and communication between Windsor and Wilberforce, and Pitt Town is practically cut off except by boat. The steamer St. Albans has been lying at Windsor for some days with a cargo of maize. A large number of farmers had their maize all pulled, but the flood came down before they could remove it. Had there been a high-level bridge over the Hawkesbury instead of the one now there a deal of the losses which must be experienced if the water continues rising would be saved. Long before the roads leading to it are submerged the bridge is 20ft. under water, and communication with the high grounds round Windsor is completely cut off.

THE SHEARING DIFFICULTY.

RETURN OF THE TROOPS TO HEAD-QUARTERS.

STATE OF THE CAMPS.

APPLICATIONS FOR EMPLOYMENT.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondents.)

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Further official information from Charleville reports that the unionists still continue to leave the camp, and that on Sunday evening only 30 men remained there.

Barcaldine reports that, judging from the excellent temper displayed by a large majority of the men in the camps in the Central and Northern districts, there no longer exists any danger of assaults being committed on free labourers. It is therefore considered that the presence of the military is no longer necessary, and an order has been issued that all troops now on service shall return to the head-quarters at Barcaldine and Hughenden respectively, with a view to having them dismissed to their homes. The police will be disposed at the various stations where shearing is being continued until the officers in charge of the districts consider it absolutely safe to withdraw them.

The extraordinary rapidity of the men in dispersing and their change of demeanour since the arrest of the leader, Casey, have enabled this intimation to be made many days earlier than was expected last week. Fifteen mounted infantry went home from Clermont to-day, and 45 infantry from Barcaldine.

CLERMONT, Monday.

The camps here are nearly broken up, and there are now only about a dozen men left in the Sandy Creek camp. All who had horses have left since Saturday and proceeded West. The Wolfang Creek camp numbers nearly 50. More than 150 men have left there since Saturday; some went to the diggings, but the majority have also gone West.

On Saturday, applications in large numbers were made to the local pastoralists' agent for employment on western stations by unionists who said they had heard that men were wanted for shearing in the Charleville district. The pastoralists' executive expressed its willingness to take 100 men if they went to the Charleville district, but declined to pay their passages. Those who had horses left, and the footmen to-day applied for free passes on the railway to Alpha, whence they would tramp to the Charleville district, a distance of several hundred miles. It is understood that the Government has been communicated with and asked to grant railway passes to 50 men who are willing to go to enable them to reach work. To-day nine men from the Sandy Creek camp made application to receive from the police magistrate one week's rations.

In connection with the Ebor Creek Bridge outrage, a witness named Graham has corroborated the narrative given by M'Donald. He also states:—"I remember about the 24th of March, when the men were arrested at Capella Camp for the Peak Downs riots; that afternoon I saw both prisoners in Riley's tent holding a conversation, and heard M'Kenzie say to Riley, 'We had better clear out, as they will be making more arrests, and they may find out about the bridge;' M'Kenzie then said, 'We made a —— mess of it; we should have cut it slanting; then the —— thing would have come down.'"

A detachment of Mount Morgan and Rockhampton mounted infantry returned home to-day: only Captain Thompson and eight men are left here now.

At noon to-day, Albert Tubb, a well-known and respected non-union carrier, shot himself at Kilcummin. Tubb, who was suffering from the effects of excessive drinking, took a double-barrelled gun to one of the huts, lay down on a bed, placed the gun to his head and pulled the trigger, blowing his brains out.

BRISBANE, Monday.

Shearing commenced at Northampton Downs on Thursday, and everything was working smoothly at the end of the week.

Very few unionists remain in Blackall. Nearly all have proceeded into the country in search of work.

Winton reports that the camp is breaking up fast, and troops may now safely return home.

Charleville reports that troops may be considerably reduced during the present week.

Hughenden advises that out of 1000 men camped in that neighbourhood about 50 only have yet applied for railway passes to the coast to assist them in getting work on the sugar plantations. These men seemed anxious to work, and originally came from the coast districts.

Barcaldine hopes that it will be possible to considerably reduce the military, as no further organised trouble is anticipated, and men are leaving in different directions in search of work.

Charleville reports that there are about 150 men in the union camp there, 100 at Angathella, and 50 at Caroline Crossing. The camps in Cunnamulla and Adavale sub-districts have begun to disperse. It is proposed to send home to-morrow all infantry at present in Charleville. Mounted men, however, will be retained a little longer.

News reached Adavale on Sunday night that part of the wool store at Pinkilla station had been destroyed by fire, which is supposed to have occurred about the 12th instant. Pinkilla is about 100 miles from Adavale, and the store and shed are about 18 miles from the head station. The store was in two parts, one containing 165 bales of wool and press, and the other containing 200 bales wool. Only the former part has been destroyed. The fire was discovered on the 16th instant by J. D. Hardwick, employed on the station. The place had been left without protection for some weeks, though there were about 12 hands on the station, all of whom are specials. Pinkilla was one of the stations which offered to work under union rules. It is considered remarkable that the fire was not reported for five days. The fire is supposed not to have been the work of unionists, but an act of private malice.

[The above telegrams were delayed by the interruption of the lines.]

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The Rockhampton and Mount Morgan Companies of the Defence Force, and also some men of the other corps, who have been on duty in the west, returned to Rockhampton by train last evening. They were cheered and hooted as they passed out of the station gates. Thirteen of the Lorne prisoners also arrived by the train. They were cheered as they drove away under police escort.

Several stations in the Adavale district had decided to go on with shearing, but as the men from the strike camps still refuse to sign the agreements the pastoralists have had to delay work, and possibly more free shearers will have to be sent to that district. The order for the return of the infantry from Charleville was countermanded last night.

The following official news has been received:—Charleville advises that a report has been received there that the Murweh woolshed was burned down yesterday. A patrol of eight mounted infantry is starting at once, under Lieutenant White. One constable and two mounted infantry were stationed at Murweh. Inspector Ahern reports that he has been through the unionist camp at Barcaldine, and the men are leaving every hour. He reckons that the main camp will be reduced to 50 on Wednesday. All stations state that there is no trouble.

CLERMONT, Tuesday.

The Government having signified their intention of granting railway passes to enable the unionists here to go to Alpha so as to seek work in the Charleville district, the men who yesterday were willing to go were so informed. About 35 waited on the secretary of the local pastoralists' association, and informed him that they would not sign any pastoralists' agreement. Their leaders, in declaring the strike off, stated that they could act as they wished individually, but advised them not to concede freedom of contract; therefore, they would not do any work involving the concession of the principle of freedom of contract, and would not go to Charleville. Later on the secretary posted notices stating that there were vacancies for shearers at Malvern Hills if the men liked to sign the agreement.

Wolfang Creek camp broke up to-day, and very few men are left there now. Several of those who refused to take an offer of work in the south-western districts stated that as long as the Government supplied them with rations they would hang on here until work was obtainable in this district. The Police Magistrate to-day distributed rations to five other unionists, who stated that they were going on the road looking for work.

OPENING OF THE VICTORIAN PARLIAMENT.

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The third and last session of the fourteenth Parliament of Victoria was opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the usual ceremony, in the presence of a brilliant assemblage. The Usher of the Black Rod announced the approach of the Governor, and the members of the Assembly were summoned to the Council Chamber. The Governor delivered the following speech:—

Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I am deeply gratified to be able to announce to you that the National Australasian Convention, held in Sydney in March last, has happily concluded its labours by framing a Federal Constitution, the result of the practical experience, earnest deliberation, and mutual concession of many of the foremost public men of Australia. This constitution will, in accordance with the resolutions appointing the delegates, be forthwith submitted for your approval, and you will be asked to determine the best means of ascertaining the people's views on its purpose and its provisions. A session of the Federal Council has been held at Hobart, at which delegates of Victoria attended, and submitted the resolutions passed by Parliament last session dealing with the question of titles to land and trade in the New Hebrides. An address to the Queen on these subjects was adopted by the Council, which I trust will lead to an improvement in the position of English settlers and traders in those islands. A Postal Conference assembled at Sydney, attended for the first time by Ministers from all the colonies of Australia and from New Zealand, at which, amongst other matters, it was decided that the various colonies of Australasia should join the Postal Union, and an agreement with the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company was entered into by the colonies almost unanimously whereby the price of cablegrams to Europe was reduced by one-half. The Parliamentary Standing Committee on Railways has fully justified your action in making the appointment by the energy and ability it has shown in carrying out its functions. The first general report of its proceedings, which it has furnished to me in accordance with law, will be immediately laid before you, and will, I trust, result in beneficial legislation. The Metropolitan Board of Works, brought into existence during the recess, has commenced operations under favourable auspices, and I confidently look forward to the vast improvements in the sanitation and comfort of the city and suburbs which it will be able to effect. A census of the colony has been taken under the provisions of an Act passed by you last session, and has shown, I am rejoiced to find, that a material and continuous increase of population and resources has been steadily taking place in Victoria during the last decade.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

You will be asked to consider Supplementary Estimates for the year 1890-91. The Estimates for 1891-92 will shortly be laid before you. While providing efficiently for the requirements of the Public Service, they will be framed with the utmost regard to economy. My advisers will submit to you a proposal for the creation of a Committee of Public Accounts with a view to your having a more careful supervision and accurate knowledge of the finances.

Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

In accordance with the promise made at the close of last session, a bill will be submitted to you without delay to amend the Railways Commissioners Act. Experience has disclosed in the Act itself some serious defects which need a remedy, and its working has signally failed in many important directions to satisfy public expectations. It has long been felt that it would be advisable that the railway accounts, which show the financial condition of a great trading enterprise carried on by the State, should be presented separately from the accounts of the ordinary revenue and expenditure of the country. My advisers will, as early as practicable, arrange that this shall be carried into effect. Your approval will be invited at an early date to a bill to amend the Electoral Law. In its provision will be made for remedying the system whereby a plurality of votes for the Legislative Assembly is conferred on certain ratepayers, and for conferring the franchise upon women. Bills will also be submitted to you with the object of purging the electoral rolls of voters' names improperly appearing thereon, and of limiting the cost of elections, so as to minimise to the utmost the undue advantage possessed by wealth in securing seats in the Legislature. You will also be invited to consider a bill dealing comprehensively with the question of Local Government, liberalising many of the provisions of the present law, remedying defects which have been found to hamper its operation, and making provision for the more equitable distribution of the generous sum allotted by you for municipal endowment. As an instalment of the proposed codification of our laws, you will be asked to deal with a bill relating to partnership, which will contain a code of a portion of our law of special importance to the industrial and mercantile community. A bill will be submitted to you making a permanent endowment of certain lands for the benefit of the State system of education. You will further be asked to consider a bill to abolish the system of payment by results, and provide a more satisfactory method of remuneration for the teachers. Your consideration will be invited to a measure to amend the Criminal Law, one of the principal objects of which will be to provide more effective machinery for the punishment of crimes against young girls and women generally. Several bills relating to mining will be brought under your consideration in order to further this great industry, which has done so much in the past to establish the credit and hasten the development of the colony. A bill will be submitted to you making such changes in regard to water conservation and irrigation as experience has shown to be necessary. My advisers are carefully considering the question of providing an adequate water supply for the north-western mallee country which, a few years ago, was a desolate waste, but is now a splendid wheat-growing country, settled by a thrifty agricultural population. A bill relating to medical practitioners will be again submitted to you. You will also be asked to consider bills to effect necessary amendments of the Public Service Act, of the Land Act, of the Defences and Discipline Act, of the Health Act, of the Post Office Act, and of the law relating to apprentices. Several other measures will be brought before you, designed to meet the further requirements of the community for liberal and practical legislation on sound lines. These measures will include bills relating to bailiwicks, military reserves, registration of firms, police offences, thistles, religious and charitable trusts, insects, life assurance companies, carriers, fences, factories and shops, boilers, and cemeteries. I congratulate you on the spirit shown by the people whilst passing through a trying time, and on the marvellous recuperative resources of the country. I hope and believe that a more prosperous era is about to set in. I trust that your deliberations may, under Divine Providence, conduce to this end and to the advancement of the happiness and welfare of the community.

The members of the Assembly then withdrew, the Governor and suite also taking their departure.

In the Legislative Council the President took the chair at 3 o'clock. Several bills were read the first time. Mr. Cuthbert presented a report from himself and Mr. Fitzgerald, the delegates, on the proceedings of the Federation Convention, and expressed the hope that the results would receive the cordial sanction of the Council. A motion recording the high approval of the past services of Mr. Barker, Clerk of Parliaments, who retired from the position owing to an accident, was unanimously adopted.

The Address in Reply was moved by Mr. Sternberg and seconded by Mr. Pratt, both expressing approval of the proposals contained in the Address.

The debate was adjourned.

At the request of Sir F. P. Sargood, Mr. Cuthbert and Mr. Fitzgerald consented to submit the federation resolutions to the Council, and at 5.15 the House adjourned till the following day.

The Legislative Assembly met later. Mr. Hancock, the new labour representative, moved the Address in Reply. He generally approved of the Government proposals, but thought the Commonwealth Bill would really provide for a commonwealth of conservatism. He regretted that the Government did not propose to legalise the eight-hours principle, and while approving of a bill to abolish plural voting, condemned the proposal to give the franchise to women.

Mr. Parfitt seconded the motion, and, at the suggestion of Sir Bryan O'Loghlen, the debate was adjourned till to-morrow.

Mr. Gillies, on behalf of the Opposition, said that members would only debate the subjects referred to by the speech when they were laid before the Chamber in detail.

Mr. Munro gave notice that he would move the federation resolutions to-morrow.

The House then adjourned.

The Address in Reply to the Governor's speech to-day, instead of following the old practice of re-echoing every line in the speech, merely thanked his Excellency in accordance with the custom of the House of Commons.

A caucus of the Opposition members was held to-day after the Governor's speech was circulated. It was thought wise not to waste time debating the speech, though there are several points upon which the Government should be challenged. It was considered that the better course would be to await the presentation of the various measures. A strong determination was shown to resist any attempt on the part of the Government to disturb the principles of the Railway Management Act, and there are indications that the enfranchisement of women will be firmly and successfully opposed. In a general way it was agreed that the Government should not be harassed. It was felt that the disturbing elements to be found in the Ministerial "corner" would be so active as to render it unnecessary for the direct Opposition to exert itself to make the Government uncomfortable.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

The members of the Legislative Council waited on the Governor with the Address in Reply, and afterwards passed the second reading of the Partnerships Bill, taking the measure through Committee without amendment. A motion of thanks was unanimously carried to the South Australian delegates at the Federal Convention. The second reading of the bill for the establishment of a Pharmacy Board was carried, the bill being taken into committee. The House then adjourned for a week.

In the Assembly, Sir J. C. Bray introduced a bill regulating the hours of labour in factories, and dealing with the employment therein of women and children, and providing for the early closing of the shops. The debate on the Free Education Bill (second reading) was continued, and Sir John Downer moved an amendment,—"That in view the recent failure of the floating of Australian loans, no bill or resolution should be passed which might involve a loan or charge on the revenue until the Treasurer's financial statement had been submitted and considered." The debate was further adjourned. The second reading of the Land Values Assessment Bill was carried by 28 to 15. The Government gave notice of a bill for making loans to block-holders, and for repurchasing certain lands for working-men's blocks. The House rose at 6.20 p.m.

Mr. Playford said that the Government propose to introduce a bill providing for the division of large landed estates on the death of the owners, and extending the provision of clause 43 of the Crown Lands Amendment Act to the re-purchase of the estates for subdivision, and to discourage the further accumulation of large estates by the imposition of a special tax on estates over 5000 acres and of £15,000 in value, acquired after a date to be fixed.

SIR HENRY PARKES ON TOUR.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our special reporter.)

JERILDERIE, Tuesday.

Sir Henry Parkes left Deniliquin at 11 o'clock this morning. He was driven to Jerilderie in a buggy with four horses, supplied by Cobb and Co., and handled by Mr. Alexander Watson. The roads were in a frightful condition, being for the greater part of the distance a foot deep in water. The Premier was pleased with the rapidity of the journey, although on arriving at Jerilderie the travellers were covered with mud from head to foot. The Mayor (Mr. Thomas Wise) welcomed the Premier at the Town Hall, where a number of citizens assembled. Sir Henry Parkes's health was drunk, and in reply he stated he took a great interest in all the border towns during his travels. He had met with a hearty welcome from the people in Victoria as well as from the citizens of New South Wales. At Castlemaine, Sandhurst, and Echuca they gave him a most cordial greeting, and notwithstanding the conflict of opinion which always arose at a time of general election, he had had capital receptions at the towns he had visited. He promised he would always endeavour to serve these districts whenever he could do so consistently with his duty to the country. The Mayor afterwards presided at a public meeting, which was well attended, and Sir Henry Parkes received a patient hearing. He commenced by making reference to the proposed line between Jerilderie and Deniliquin, and stated that whilst he would have to consult his colleagues on the matter he was personally highly favourable to making the line. After pointing out the peculiarity of the action taken by Mr. Dibbs, who was by courtesy called the leader of the Opposition, but who was really led by the Opposition, Sir Henry Parkes proceeded to charge the members of the district with assisting to block the business of the country. Nevertheless, every useful work in the electorate had been done by the Government when he was a member. Those opposed to him in Parliament had done nothing for the place. Their late members asked to be returned to upset his Ministry, but it seemed to him from the course the Government had taken, they were entitled to some consideration. It was not protection that was asked for by the Opposition, but retaliation. Yet retaliation was a word which should not be admitted into the vocabulary of the English-speaking people of the nineteenth century. That was not the way to govern large States. If the Federal Government came into existence the fiscal question as between the colonies would be done away with. The statement that protection had been the handmaiden of arbitrary power for ages was met with cries of "No, no," and in reply Sir Henry Parkes referred his hearers to English history. The federal question was explained at length, and considerable interest appeared to be taken in the matter. The remark that in America, from one end to the other, there was no such thing as a Custom-house officer was received with cheers. But the fiscal question altogether was to him a small one compared with the union of these great colonies and the building of them up into one great, free, independent nation. One or two interruptions came from persons at the back of the stalls, but Sir Henry met them with pertinent answers. Replying to one observation, he quoted authorities in favour of freetrade and then entered into the reason for our maintenance of such a course. The policy of protection to be effective must, he asserted, raise the price of commodities, and thus the purchasing value of workmen's wages was reduced. To compel a man to go to a certain market for goods was to interfere with individual liberty. Every unit of population ought to be as free as any other unit. With this observation the audience agreed by applauding, after which Sir Henry proceeded to deal with the principle of protection. He pointed out that in America where for a time people ran mad over protection, a revolution was now taking place, and at the next presidential election we might see a free-trader elected as chief magistrate. Alluding to the progress of the country, he denied the remark made by one of the audience that the land had all been given to the squatters. That land must finally come back to the Government, and would then be at their disposal for the use of future generations. Coming to local election matters, Sir Henry Parkes said that he did not see any merit in their late members, Messrs. Chanter and Barbour. They would only be cyphers in the next Parliament, as although they voted against him they would be out-voted on every conceivable occasion. Replying to an observation about the labour candidates, Sir Henry said that he did not fear them, and was willing to admit they might be of service to the country. He thought he would get more of their votes of sympathy than opposition, and in conclusion stated it would always be his endeavour to keep New South Wales in the van of the Australian colonies. The proceedings were concluded with a vote of thanks to Sir Henry Parkes, on the motion of Dr. Robinson which was carried by acclamation. The Premier leaves early to-morrow morning for Narrandera, and expects to arrive in Sydney on Thursday.

THE BATHURST GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

BATHURST, Tuesday.

The annual distribution of prizes and calisthenic display in connection with the Girls' High School last night was attended by a large audience, who watched with interest the exercises of the children, about 60 of whom were present. The programme embraced dumbbell and Indian club exercises, manœuvres with ropes and single-sticks, marching and counter-marching, in all of which the girls acquitted themselves with great credit under the direction of Miss Jackson, teacher in calisthenics. An orchestra was in attendance, and played a waltz entitled "Elma," composed for the occasion by the leader, Mr. S. A. Thompson. The report read by the head mistress, Mrs. Hatley Boyd, gave an encouraging account of the progress made by the school during the past year. The number of scholars at the close of 1890 was 66, as against 56 in the previous year. In the annual examination the pupils had gained a good number of passes at the technical examinations, and in connection with the University had passed four juniors and three seniors, while for the first time in Bathurst the school passed a girl candidate for the University matriculation. In conclusion the report, which warmly acknowledged the assistance given by the teachers and different citizens who interested themselves in the school, Mrs. Boyd remarked, "I will say the High School has this year more than ever received the cordial support of the Department of Public Instruction. Amongst other things I may allude to the scholarships offered at our entrance examination. The three which formerly attached to the school have been merged in general competition and were practically available for Sydney candidates only. These have been restored, and two more have been added, and whether Mr. Carruthers continues in office or not, we shall always gratefully remember his term of office and the constant zeal of himself and his Under-Secretary to support and promote the interests of High Schools." The prizes, which consisted of books and gold and silver medals, were handed to the winners by the Hon. W. H. Suttor, Vice-President of the Executive Council, who had come to Bathurst for the purpose. He expressed the great pleasure it gave him to see the school progressing, and congratulated the head mistress and her staff on the satisfactory results of their labours, referring especially to Mr. Jose, who, he said, was a most painstaking and energetic coadjutor. Mr. Suttor also indicated that if the movement for the re-establishment of the Boys' High School were initiated, he would bring the matter under the notice of the Minister for Public Instruction, and do all he could to further the object. Addresses were delivered by the Hon. E. Webb and Mr. James Rutherford, and a vote of thanks concluded an admirable evening.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

A LULL IN THE PROCEEDINGS.

PARTY MOVEMENTS.

There was a general lull in the electoral proceedings yesterday. Neither election nor nomination took place, and consequently there were no sensational results to awaken public interest and keep party spirit alive. In spite of all this the workers on each side were as busy as ever providing for the contests which have yet to take place. Only 86 members have been elected, and there remain 55 to be chosen. 43 out of 74 electorates have given their decision, and of the remaining 31, 12 will to-day be afforded an opportunity of selecting their representatives. The other elections follow at short intervals, the last two being the Gwydir and Bourke, which do not poll until July 3. As Parliament must, according to the Electoral Act, be called together within seven days after the return of the last writ, the Legislative Assembly may probably be expected to meet for the first time on or about the second Tuesday in July, the 14th of the month. During to-day nominations will be held in the 13 remaining constituencies. These electorates return altogether 19 members, and when these are nominated the list of gentlemen who intend to try for Parliamentary honours will be complete.

The elections to be held to-day are in the following 12 districts:—Boorowa, Braidwood, Eden, Forbes, Illawarra, Northumberland, Queanbeyan, Richmond, Upper Hunter, Tamworth, Tumut, and Yass Plains. These constituencies return 21 members, and there are no less than 47 candidates of all shades of political opinion. The names and parties of these gentlemen will be found in our list of candidates nominated.

The Ministerial activity still continues unabated. Mr. Sydney Smith leaves to-night for Wollongong, and Mr. Gould is to speak at Raymond Terrace and Stroud. Mr. Carruthers is still in the Maitland district, and the Premier, after expending his eloquence on the residents of the border districts, is expected to return to Sydney to-morrow. In connection with the Canterbury election, a protest has been lodged by Mr. James Eve, who, it will be remembered, was defeated by but a few votes. Mr. Eve claims that the election should be declared invalid because there was a scarcity of voting papers, and some of those used were not properly initialled. With regard to the Opposition Mr. Crick has gone to assist his friends at Bourke, and Mr. Traill is off to the Junee district. The newly-created Labour party has been exchanging congratulatory cablegrams with Sir George Grey in New Zealand, and the venerable statesman seems greatly pleased at the turn which affairs have taken in this colony. Mr. Carruthers, who was returned at the head of the poll for Canterbury, publishes in another portion of this issue a circular thanking all those who aided his return, and replying to the numerous congratulations which he has received from various quarters.

PARTY MOVEMENTS

Mr. Carruthers, owing to illness, was unable to leave town yesterday morning, and has therefore to alter his arrangements for supporting the candidature of freetraders in some of the country electorates. He will speak to-night at Dungog and to-morrow night at Clarencetown, in support of Mr. H. H. Brown (Durham electorate), and on Monday he will deliver an address at Bombala in support of Mr. O'Connor's candidature for the representation of Monaro. Mr. Jas. Martin visits the Murrumbidgee electorate this week and will support the freetrade candidates by addressing a meeting at Wagga to-morrow, and one at Junee on Friday. On Monday Mr. Martin will speak at Adaminaby (Monaro electorate). Mr. M'Millan will probably address a meeting at Wagga to-night. Mr. Sydney Smith and Mr. G. W. Fuller (member for Kiama) left town yesterday for the purpose of addressing a meeting at Wollongong in the evening. Mr. Gould left yesterday for Raymond Terrace and Stroud (Gloucester electorate) to render assistance to the freetrade candidate, Mr. J. S. Hart. Mr. Brunker remains in town, and is doing duty for the Postmaster-General. Sir Henry Parkes is expected to reach Sydney to-morrow. It is improbable that either Mr. Abigail, Mr. Jacob Garrard, or Mr. Frank Smith will re-enter the present contest. Mr. Traill was in town yesterday, and left again in the evening to render assistance to his chief, Mr. Dibbs, at Murrumbidgee. Mr. Traill will address meetings at Whitton, Carrathool, and Hillston. Mr. J. W. Bowes (protectionist member for Morpeth) will speak to-night at Raymond Terrace in support of Mr. Price's candidature for the representation of Gloucester. Mr. Crick has also left town to render assistance to the protectionist "bunch" at Bourke.

POLLING.

HARTLEY.

LITHGOW, TUESDAY.

The formal declaration of the poll took place to-day at noon. The weather was wet and gloomy, and the attendance small. The speakers were very brief. Mr. Cook declared that his efforts in the House would be devoted to sweeping away all monopolies that oppress labour. Mr. Donald followed, and said he would strive to secure the recognition in our laws of the right of the community to the land.

Three of the unsuccessful candidates were not represented, and only one (Mr. Tabrett) was there to speak for himself. The proceedings were very unexciting, and closed with a vote of thanks to the returning officer and cheers for the Queen.

THE MACLEAY.

KEMPSEY, TUESDAY.

The election totals have been received. They are as follow:—

|---|---|
| Dangar | 1044 |
| Hogan | 761 |
| M'Laughlin | 721 |
| Rudder | 703 |
| Boshell | 581 |

The official declaration of the poll will be made on Thursday.

MUDGEE.

MUDGEE, TUESDAY.

The candidates being desirous of leaving to-night the returning officer, Mr. Henry Crossing, made an informal declaration of the poll this afternoon to a not very large attendance. The figures were

|---|---|
| Haynes | 1521 |
| Wall | 1343 |
| Jones | 1290 |
| Black | 1218 |
| Waldron | 1049 |
| Cook | 836 |

In returning thanks Mr. HAYNES said his success had been phenomenal, he having received double the votes polled when he first came as a stranger among them. He regarded this as a justification of the vote he gave which dissolved Parliament. He hoped in a few years to help to make Mudgee the agricultural and manufacturing centre of New South Wales.

Mr. WALL expressed the opinion that the new Parliament would command public confidence. There was need for a change of Government. Our credit was so bad that we dared not try to float any part of the seven million loan authorised by Parliament.

Mr. JONES, while thanking them heartily for the proud position in which they had placed him, objected to the condition of the public finances being described as desperate.

Mr. BLACK was received with hearty and sympathetic cheers. In thanking them for their cordial and generous support, he much regretted his defeat after being twice returned as their representative. His time, ability, and means had been placed during four and a-half years at the disposal of the electorate, and he had nothing to reproach himself with. He bade the electors a hearty and grateful farewell.

MR. WALDRON said he was not cast down by his failure. He was grateful for the support he received, and he hoped next time he would be successful.

MR. COOK, in a lengthy speech, said he was grateful for the hearty response made, although his visit was so short. He thought the constituency had disfranchised itself by the election of Mr. Haynes, who was acceptable neither to the Government, the Opposition, nor the labour party. He would come again and fight for labour fearlessly.

There is a feeling of deep regret throughout the community at the loss of Mr. Black as a member. Messrs. Haynes and Jones were drawn by a number of their supporters through the main street by torchlight last night.

THE HON. D. O'CONNOR, AT COOMA.

COOMA, TUESDAY.

The Hon. D. O'Connor addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting at the School of Arts last night. The weather was very wet, but the hall was packed to its utmost capacity. In his opening remarks, Mr. O'Connor spoke of the necessity of maintaining the imperishable right of free speech. In the course of a very eloquent address, he stated that he appeared as a candidate for their suffrages as a member of a Government which had rendered substantial and imperishable services to the colony. He sketched briefly, but lucidly, the condition of the colony during the time that the Dibbs party was in power, and drew a sombre picture of the incapacity of those men—the ruinous effects of which the colony staggered under for several years; but which, he said, was now changed by the patriotism, ability, and exertion of the present Government. He then spoke at considerable length of the proposals of the Government as foreshadowed in the Governor's Speech, and proved conclusively that there was ample time at the dissolution of Parliament for the passing into law of four or five measures of paramount importance, including the long-talked-of and much-expected Local Government Bill, the Coal Mines Bill, the Electoral Bill, and proposals that would involve the expenditure of tens of thousands of pounds in completion of great national works, which would absorb the surplus unemployed, which latter was a legacy left to the colony by the administration of Mr. Dibbs and party. Whilst the Government was endeavouring to carry these reforms Mr. Dibbs tabled a vote of censure, and paralysed legislation so urgently required. He severely criticised the Opposition for traducing the honour of the colony. It was the most eloquent speech ever delivered here, and had a marked effect. A vote of confidence was carried by an overwhelming majority, amidst a scene of great enthusiasm.

BALLINA, TUESDAY.

Mr. G. Martin's meeting was well attended. He spoke in favour of protection and other matters, and received a quiet hearing, but his chance of being elected is small. Messrs. Ewing, Nicoll, and Perry spoke last night to a large audience. At first they were rather roughly received, but subsequently they improved in favour. Mr. Ewing's return is certain, but the other two may be defeated. Mr. Nicoll has lost many supporters through bunching.

BEGA, TUESDAY.

The rain has taken up, but it is still cloudy and threatening. The rivers are over the banks, and it is impossible to get the ballot-papers out to two or three polling-places. It is probable that the polling day will have to be adjourned.

BRAIDWOOD, TUESDAY.

The rain interferes greatly with the elections, and the polling cannot take place either at Nerriga or Krawarree. The other polling booths will open, but a great many electors cannot avail themselves of their vote. Mr. Ryrie intended addressing the electors at Krawarree yesterday, Mr. Tompsitt at Nerriga, and Mr. Chapman at Mongarlowe, but owing to the floods they could not cross the rivers. The rain is the heaviest known here for years.

BULLI, TUESDAY.

A crowd, including ladies, assembled last night expecting to hear an address from the Hon. J. H. Carruthers. Mr. Carruthers did not arrive, and disappointment was expressed. A number of those present proceeded to Dickson's Hall, where Mr. Andrew Lysaght addressed a quiet meeting.

BURROWA, TUESDAY.

Mr. M. W. Burns is still a candidate for Burrowa.

Mr. M'Millan arrived here this morning. He will speak in support of Mr. Middleton and freetrade to-night. Mr. Middleton spoke, and was well received, at Binalong last night.

CLIFTON, TUESDAY.

Political matters are now assuming a lively tone, to-morrow being looked upon as the birthday to labour representation here. The freetraders, however, are determined not to be outdone under cover of the labour candidate, and will record votes in favour of Messrs. Campbell and Bissel. They consider that under a freetrade policy the coal export will enormously exceed that of a protective policy. The bad weather is interfering with the meetings, and none have been held since Saturday.

GUDAL, TUESDAY.

Con Lindsay, labour candidate, addressed the electors here last night, and was accompanied by Mr. E. Darnley, the newly-elected member for Balmain. Mr. R. Reid was chairman. Over 100 electors were present. Mr. Lindsay, who received a good hearing, explained the well-known platform of the Labour League, and spoke for more than an hour. Mr. E. Darnley also addressed the electors, and proposed a vote of confidence in Mr. Lindsay. Some hands were held up in his favour, but the majority abstained from voting. Mr. John Hurley will address the electors on Thursday next.

DUBBO, TUESDAY.

Mr. W. C. A'Beckett addressed a large meeting of the Bogan electors in the Masonic Hall on Monday night. The hall was crowded. Mr. Simeon Phillips, the Mayor, was in the chair. The meeting was very rowdy, and a great many interruptions occurred. Mr. A'Beckett dwelt upon the subjects now before the public. He was asked several questions, and answered them all satisfactorily. A vote of confidence, moved by Mr. John Mackay, sen., of Mullengudgery, and seconded by Mr. Donald Cameron, was declared carried. Messrs. Cass and Richardson address the electors to-night, and Mr. W. P. Crick, on Wednesday night, in favour of protection.

EMMAVILLE, TUESDAY.

Mr. C. Legh, protectionist, addressed the electors here last night. He declared that co-operation was a solution of all labour difficulties, and federation was a form of national co-operation. A vote of confidence was proposed and carried.

GILGANDRA, TUESDAY.

Mr. Morgan, the nominee of the Peak Hill Labour Electoral League, and Mr. Prince, the nominee of the Nyngan Labour Electoral League, addressed large and enthusiastic meetings here last night. Both candidates are entire strangers in this part of the electorate, but were received most favourably, the former especially. They both champion the principles inculcated in the labour league platform, and both favour moderate protection and federation in the future. Unanimous votes of confidence were carried.

GLOUCESTER, TUESDAY.

Mr. R. Atkinson Price addressed about 50 electors at Booral last night, Mr. George Cunnell presiding. A unanimous vote of confidence was carried in Mr. Price's favour, and a committee of 40 was formed. Mr. Price also addressed meetings at Wisemantles, Burleys, and Gloucester, where he met with a good reception, and unanimous votes of confidence were carried in each place.

GRENFELL, TUESDAY.

Mr. Vaughn addressed a large and orderly meeting here yesterday. The candidate reviewed the labour platform, subscribing to all its clauses, and pledged himself to sit on the cross-benches, but would accept a portfolio, if offered to him. A vote of confidence was carried.

GUNDAGAI, TUESDAY.

Political matters have been very quiet here for the past week, but as to-morrow is nomination-day, and Saturday next polling-day, they are expected to be lively during the remainder of the week. Each side seems determined to fight hard for the return of its candidate, and the contest is expected to be a close one. Mr. H. M. Deakin, the freetrade and labour candidate, held a number of meetings in various parts of the electorate during the past few days, and was well received. The usual vote of confidence was passed. Mr. J. F. Barnes, protectionist candidate, also addressed the electors at Jugiong, Muttama, and Coolac, and received a vote of confidence at each place.

HARDEN, TUESDAY.

Mr. J. J. Miller will have strong support throughout this portion of the electorate, both from the labourers and farmers.

LISMORE, TUESDAY.

The election to-morrow is now the all-engrossing subject throughout the electorate. The candidates have finished their canvass as far as time would permit, and all profess to be confident of getting a seat. The great contest will be between the three late members. Mr. Stocks seems certain of getting the fourth place. His friends go so far as to say that they believe he will run Mr. Ewing very close. There is no doubt last week gained him many votes. Messrs. Ewing, Perry, and Nicolls' weakest support will be down the river; but their friends have no cause to doubt the issue. The rough state of the poll will be declared at half-past 7 to-morrow evening, when it is fully expected that the returns sent in will show definitely who are the candidates elected.

MOAMA, TUESDAY.

Mr. Chandler, of Deniliquin, the freetrade candidate, addressed a crowded meeting here last evening. He said he was a thorough federationist. He thought the Convention bill a great work. Mr. Chandler was accorded a patient hearing. No vote of confidence was taken.

MOLONG, TUESDAY.

At the School of Arts Mr. John Hurley addressed one of the largest meetings ever held in Molong for some years. He received a splendid hearing. He touched upon federation, which he strongly advocated, local government, freetrade, electoral reform, local option. Dwelling at considerable length on the part he took in connection with the late strike, he strongly supported his action which, he believed, was the means of his defeat at Lithgow. He also touched upon the various labour bodies in Sydney. At the close of the meeting Mr. Hawken attempted to ask some questions, but he not being an elector was ruled down by the audience. Mr. M'Kilop, of the Wharf Labourers' Union, jumped on the platform and attempted to explain his views in opposition to Mr. Hurley's remarks re the Wharf Labourers' Union. He was strongly opposed by one elector, who claimed that Mr. M'Kilop was not an elector, and therefore had no right to ask questions or to address the meeting in preference to bona fide electors. The audience approved of the elector's action strongly, and Mr. M'Kilop left the platform. The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to Mr. J. Haslam, J.P., the chairman.

MORUYA, TUESDAY.

Mr. William Neilly addressed the electors here last night, and had a fair hearing. He said that in the present contest there were no clear issues before the country. He was a stanch freetrader and federationist, and believed in local option. He would oppose any local government bill which provided for unnecessary taxation, and would also strenuously oppose the new Divorce Bill. He approved of the proposed Electoral Bill, and believed in the principle of one man one vote, and would support any measure in the interest of the working class. At the conclusion the usual vote of confidence was proposed, and an amendment was moved that Mr. Neilly was not a proper person to represent the Eden electorate in Parliament. On a show of hands being taken the amendment was declared carried. A vote of no confidence was also carried against Mr. Neilly at Cobargo. Mr. Neilly said he was prepared to leave the issue to the ballot-box on Wednesday next. Mr. T. N. Grierson then addressed those present, urging them to return the present members, Messrs. Clarke and Garvan, and was loudly cheered.

Owing to the heavy rain the polling to-morrow will be much interfered with. The election is considered very open between Messrs. Clarke, Neilly, and Garvan.

MURRUMBURRAH, TUESDAY.

Mr. J. A. Mackinnon, the ex-junior member for Young, addressed a large and appreciative audience in the Assembly Hall last night. The chair was occupied by the Mayor (Mr. T. Allsopp), who, in introducing the candidate, spoke at some length of the many sterling qualities possessed by Mr. Mackinnon, and of his able representation of this electorate for a period of eight and a half years. He concluded by asking the electors to give Mr. Mackinnon one vote on the 27th instant. Mr. Mackinnon said he appeared before them for the fifth time as a candidate for their votes. They had shown their confidence in him by returning him as one of their members on four occasions, and after serving them in Parliament for eight and a half years his desire was to serve them still longer. He thought that his long experience in Parliament had qualified him to be of service not only to the electorate which placed him there but to the country as a whole. He was in favour of the principle of federation, but not of the Convention Bill, as we had not much to lose by federating with the sister colonies. We should be satisfied that we had also much to gain. He did not see how federation could be adopted until all the colonies had one common fiscal policy. He would not give away protection for federation. Let protection come first and federation afterwards. It should be borne in mind that the other colonies under protection had their manufactories and industries established, giving them an advantage over us by federating. At present we should not meet our neighbours on equal terms, and would undoubtedly lose in the transaction. We could not be too careful of the liberties and independence we now possess and must guard these jealously. No scheme of federation should be hurriedly adopted. There was plenty of time for this step, and so far the country had not asked for it. Plural voting he considered a wrong principle. It meant in such cases the ruling of the minority over the majority. It must be admitted that was not a desirable state of things, and was never intended by the framers of our Constitution. Under the existing law one man might have a vote in every electorate in the colony, giving him a vast power over his fellow-men. If returned he would endeavour to have plural voting abolished and the one man one vote principle substituted. He would also advocate single electorates, elections all on one day, and an elective Upper House. He was in favour of local option so far as the granting of new licenses were concerned, but not with regard to renewals unless with compensation. Publicans should have the same protection as every other person who had invested money in his business. In the matter of labour and capital he took a very deep interest. He had been an employer of labour for more than 20 years, and he had always entertained a genuine desire to see the workers of the land in a prosperous condition, for the settlement of the difficulty between capital and labour, and to bring these two great factors into a more happy footing as regards each other. He would establish boards of conciliation, who could confer together, and heal the differences which existed between their respective bodies. The Local Government Bill was a measure of the very greatest importance, and should have become law years ago. This should be one of the first measures dealt with by the coming Parliament. The passing of this bill would be a great boon, and the country was in favour of a property tax so long as it was not of an inquisitorial character. He would advocate an amending Mining Act, which would allow mining on private property.

Alderman Reid proposed that Mr. Mackinnon is a fit and proper person to represent the electorate of Young in the forthcoming Parliament. Alderman Gilroy seconded the motion. Mr. Andrews moved, and Mr. Mills seconded an amendment of want of confidence in the candidate. When put to the meeting there were only a few in favour of the amendment, whilst quite a forest of hands were held up for the motion.

MURRURUNDI, TUESDAY.

Mr. Fitzgerald addressed a large meeting here last night, and had a splendid hearing, and a unanimous vote of confidence. The result of to-morrow's contest is very uncertain. Mr. Fitzgerald is bunched with Mr. Williams, the labour candidate.

MURWILLUMBAH, TUESDAY.

Mr. George Martin, jun., addressed the electors in the School of Arts last night, Mr. W. Collins in the chair. He announced himself as the farmers' candidate, and a protectionist, opposed to federation for the present, in favour of single electorates, one man one vote, all elections on one day, opposed to local government, as the district was not ripe for it, favoured local option without compensation. He was afforded a patient hearing, and at the conclusion a number of questions were asked relative to federation. A vote of thanks for his address was carried. It is considered that he has no show here.

NARRANDERA, TUESDAY.

Political matters here are the topic of the day. Mr. G. R. Dibbs arrived at Narrandera to-day and addresses the electors to-night. The labour party here are working hard to secure a seat for their candidate, Mr. Rae. It is said here he will get a solid vote from the labour party. Mr. Frank Cotton, newly-elected member for Newtown, is addressing meetings in this electorate in support of Mr. Arthur Rae's candidature. Mr. Cotton passed through to-day for Whitton, where he speaks to-night and at Carrathool to-morrow. Mr. W. H. Traill, M.L.A., for South Sydney, is announced to address the electors on the political situation at Whitton on the 25th instant, and at Narrandera on the 26th instant. Mr. Thos. Rose, the newly-elected member for Argyle, is also announced to address a meeting in this electorate. He speaks at Carathool to-morrow and at Hillston on Saturday.

A wire was received here to-day from Sir Henry Parkes to the secretary of the Freetrade Association, stating that he will arrive at Narandera to-morrow at noon. Arrangements are being made by the special committee to give him a fitting reception.

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.

The excitement over the election for Northumberland is increasing in intensity. It is expected that two at least of the previous representatives will have to retire.

PAMBULA, TUESDAY.

Heavy rains have fallen, preventing the mails running for two days. Mr. Clarke had arranged to address the electors yesterday, and Mr. Crabb to-day, but neither has arrived, being unable to travel. It is still raining, and it will be very difficult to distribute the ballot-papers.

Mr. Garvan addressed the electors in the School of Arts on Saturday. Mr. Comman, J.P., was in the chair. The candidate said he had served the electorate for 11 years. They were now capable of judging whether he was worthy of support. What he had done was intended for the best. Never were issues of such importance to the national life of New South Wales as the present. When he was last before the electors the fiscal policy was the issue. He was still a protectionist, and considered this policy was obviously the best for the colony. He believed there should be a free interchange of commodities between the Australian colonies and protection against the outside world. There should be reciprocity, but the other colonies were protective, and we must retaliate. Protection must advance the social condition of the people, and tend to national development. Almost every intelligent nation adopted this policy. Although we had grown through our great natural resources, protection would tend to develop them immensely. When railways were first introduced we never thought of producing railway stock. Even the freetrade Ministry was now encouraging he production of these. A protectionist policy would do much towards placing us in a better position. In England, the home of wealth, thousands were on the verge of starvation, while the Almighty Power created the world, yielding food and clothing in abundance for all. Speaking upon federation, he asserted that this had never been a party question. We wanted a combination of the colonies to make us a great and prosperous nation. Great advantages to all would follow federation on sound lines. If ever we were called upon to defend the nation against an invasion the defence must be under a federal system of government. This alone was a sufficient argument in favour of federation. The Australian laws should not be diversive, but uniform throughout the colonies. The laws governing the monetary institutions and the civil and criminal laws should be similar. The Federal Parliament was required to deal with those matters. He maintained that although fault had been found with federal ideas, if federation means the protection against the outside world there was no inconsistency, as these two must go hand in hand. All the protectionist colonies favoured federation. The subject of one man one vote was brought forward several times in the last Parliament. He supported it on each occasion. He strongly advocated it. Migratory voters should not be disfranchised, and legislation for these was required immediately. He dealt at length on the finances of the colony, showing that these had not been advantageously used by the late Treasurer. He held that the financial statements were misleading. He denied the right of any Colonial Treasurer constructing works except from legitimate sources. He denied the statement of Mr. M'Millan that a surplus exists. There was actually a deficit. The colony had borrowed too lavishly, and had created a heavy strain on the public funds. He concluded by declaring himself in favour of the eight-hour system, a Local Government Bill, mining on private property under certain conditions, local government, and aid to prospecting. An almost unanimous vote of confidence was carried. The meeting was most enthusiastic.

Mr. Boot, another protectionist candidate, addressed the meeting. He advocated protection and federation as demanded by the people, and one man one vote. He had a good hearing, though some appeared to blame him for coming forward and splitting the protectionist vote. All the political meetings here have been very orderly, every candidate of whatever views getting a good hearing.

PEAK HILL, TUESDAY.

Mr. Robert Booth, freetrader, addressed a very large meeting here last night. The speaker was listened to with great interest. Although the majority here are protectionists, Mr. Booth will get many of their votes from personal favour.

QUEANBEYAN, TUESDAY.

The unprecedented rains and floods have interfered with to-morrow's polling, and the polling will have to be postponed at three polling-places west of the Murrumbidgee River, namely Brindabella, Uriarra, and Ledgerton. The appointed officers and poll-clerks have returned to town, the Murrumbidgee being too high for the punt to work. One person, in attempting to cross in a boat, was swept away, and would have been drowned but for catching the punt rope. It is feared that the Captain's Flat polling must also be postponed. A wire from there states that the town is under water and the inhabitants are taking refuge in Goggins's Hotel. The presiding officer is unable to reach his polling-place.

RAYMOND TERRACE, TUESDAY.

Mr. A. J. Gould, Minister for Justice, addressed a large meeting in the School of Arts to-night, presided over by the Mayor. Mr. Gould recapitulated the circumstances which led to the dissolution, and said that the Opposition would have to take the blame of preventing the passing of the Local Government Bill, the electoral reform, and other measures for which the country had been crying out so long. He dealt pretty exhaustively with the federation and fiscal questions, pointing out that those who supported protection were necessarily opposed to federation, as, unless intercolonial freetrade was established, federation was impossible. He defied any person to point to a single act of impropriety or unfair dealing in the administration of the affairs of the colony on the part of the Government in the past, and they were now before the country prepared to stand or fall by their policy. Their opponents came to the country without any policy at all, and asked the people to put them into power first and trust to what they should give them afterwards. Mr. Gould referred to the candidates who are seeking the votes of the electors of Gloucester, and asked them to return Mr. Hart, a local man whom they all knew, and who would support the Government, in preference to Mr. Price, the other candidate, who was put forward by the party that acknowledged Mr. Dibbs as leader. Mr. Gould was accorded a good hearing, and at intervals through his address, which occupied nearly two hours, was loudly applauded.

When the Minister for Justice had finished, Mr. S. A. Byrne, a delegate from the Sydney Labour Electoral League, addressed the meeting in explanation of the objects of that body. In the course of his remarks he said that it was the intention of the labour representatives who had been returned to Parliament to allow of no legislation beyond the passing of the Electoral Act to abolish plural voting, and secure to every man one vote. No local government, federation, or fiscal question would be permitted by them to be dealt with till a new Parliament was elected on the one man one vote principle. The speaker also made reference to the candidates for Gloucester, and spoke in terms of eulogy of Mr. Price, who, he said, was more entitled to receive the votes of the labour party than Mr. Hart.

Mr. Gould goes on to Stroud, where he is announced to speak to-morrow after the nomination.

TAMWORTH, TUESDAY.

Mr. Bruce Smith arrived at Tamworth this morning, and was driven to Moonbi, when he delivered an address to about 20, and was accorded an uninterrupted hearing. The Minister made an attempt to address an open-air meeting from the balcony of the Royal Hotel this evening. A large crowd gathered in the street beneath. The appearance of the chairman (Mr. T. M. Newman) was the signal for hooting, and when Mr. Smith stepped forward it became magnified to such an extent that the utterances of the speaker could not be heard. However, he endeavoured to gain a hearing, but was only met with groans and hoots. He then resolved to speak in a hall, and Mr. Smith and his supporters adjourned to the Oddfellows' Hall, at the door of which a strong body of men was stationed, and rooted out those who presented themselves for admission. Boys and youths were not allowed admission, and the proceedings were marked by comparative orderliness, but on the other hand a lack of enthusiasm by the general body of the audience until the conclusion of the speech, when the applause was more frequent. Mr. Smith condemned Mr. Dibbs for his no policy and political inconsistency generally. He set forth federation as the principal question, stating that it was inconsistent to advocate it with protection. He spoke strongly against any candidate being elected who professed to represent one class respectively, and without regard to the personal merits of the candidates. He advised the electors to vote for Mr. Dowel, the federationist, and for intercolonial freetrade and protection against the outside world; and for Mr. Tribe, federationist and freetrader. He was accorded a vote of thanks.

TEMORA, TUESDAY.

Mr. Lucas, freetrader, addressed 200 electors in Wesley's Hall last night; Mr. G. Foulkes chairman. The candidate said he was against the Local Government Bill, which pressed the farmers, who paid enough already. Light railway charges saved the Victorian farmers from ruin. Nearly the whole of his address was occupied with this question. He lightly touched upon the subject of electoral reform, advocating one man one vote, eight-hours, trades-unionism, and an amended Masters and Servants Act. He condemned the Queensland Government in connection with the shearers' strike, contending that the Government should have called Parliament together and passed a measure to bring about arbitration. A vote of confidence was carried.

Mr. Miller, the protectionist candidate, addressed 300 electors at Ward's Theatre last night, Mr. Wm. Cartwright being chairman. The address consisted of an attack on the other protectionist candidates for their non-attendance at divisions, supporting the Land Bill, and in thus saving the freetrade Government when their votes would have overthrown the Government. He had been asked to retire, but would stand fast. He was, however, agreeable to draw to decide who should retire. Mr. Matthew Quinlan moved a vote of confidence, which was declared carried. The freetraders are jubilant that Mr. Miller is standing, as Mr. Gordon's chances are thereby much enhanced. Mr. Gordon is expected to top the poll here, and Messrs. Mackinnon and Gough will have a hard fight for the second seat.

TOCUMWAL, TUESDAY.

The Tocumwal Progress Association has to-day sent a telegram inviting Sir Henry Parkes to deliver an address on freetrade at Tocumwal.

WALCHA, TUESDAY.

The protectionist bunch will speak here to-night. Mr. Copeland has returned from Niangala, where he was well received.

WALGETT, TUESDAY.

Mr. Chas. Collins arrived here yesterday, and addressed the electors last night, Mr. John Staunton in the chair. The candidate favoured federation, and was opposed to the constitution of the Senate, which should be elected by the people, on the basis of population. He favoured the election of magistrates, the chairman of land boards, and licensing bench, and favoured a land tax in connection with local government. At the conclusion of his address, Mr. E. Curley proposed, and Mr. Arthur Gray seconded, a motion of confidence, which was carried unanimously. Mr. Collins leaves for Narrabri to-night.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

ARAKOON, TUESDAY.

The ketch Jessie Sinclair is now ready for launching, but, owing to the heavy sea on, she will have to wait until the sea goes down.

BALLINA, TUESDAY.

As the Tomki was being towed over the crossing she struck on a sunken log and stripped her port propeller. She had to return to Ballina, and send to Lismore for a diver to replace the blades. A heavy sea was running to-day on the bar. The weather is fine, but very cold.

BEGA, TUESDAY.

The steamer Allowrie has arrived safe at Eden.

CAMDEN, TUESDAY.

The river water at an exceedingly slow rate receded until half-past 4, and is now rising again.

COOMA, TUESDAY.

A football match between the Rockhampton and Nimitybelle teams was played on the Cooma ground to-day, and was won by the former by 17 points to 8. It was played in drenching rain. It has been raining almost constantly during the last 24 hours, making a fall of 76 points.

GOULBURN, TUESDAY.

The man who was drowned yesterday at Kingsdale Crossing, on the Crookwell road, was named Brooks. He was a maintenance man employed on the roads. He attempted to cross with a horse and cart, although warned not to do so. The horse was swept off its legs. Several persons extended a pole to Brooks, but the unfortunate man was unable to grasp it. The police and others are searching for the body, which has not yet been found.

GUNDAGAI, TUESDAY.

The Gundagai Reserve Rifle Corps' annual musketry course, under Staff-sergeant Maitland, was concluded on Saturday. Out of 31 who qualified, 17 passed as marksmen and 10 as first-class shots, the balance being second-class, but they all earn the £1 capitation grant from the Government. Mr. J. B. Worldon won the Crown badge with the splendid score of 187, W. M'Cook, last year's winner, being second.

A great number of cattle, the property of residents of the town, which have been running on the river flat, have died during the past few days, from what cause is not known. Some think from eating a poisonous weed, others think probably from some disease among stock. It is considered that the Stock Department should investigate the matter.

INVERELL, TUESDAY.

The Mounted Infantry have gone through their annual course of musketry with great success. Sergeant M'Clymont gets the Crown badge, with the magnificent score of 194 points, Private J. M'Clymont coming next with 188 points; and the total average of the Little Plain detachment being over 142, while the whole company averaged over marksmen.

LISMORE, TUESDAY.

The District Court, which opened yesterday before Acting-Judge Gibson, is not yet finished. It adjourned to-night till 2 p.m. to-morrow. The Quarter Sessions will open to-morrow. Eight cases are set down for trial.

A heavy frost was experienced this morning in many parts of the district.

LITHGOW, TUESDAY.

At last night's meeting of the council, Alderman Donald moved that the council determine to have gas as the luminant for this town, and that steps be taken to procure plans and specifications for the necessary work. The mover advocated gas because of its utility for warming and cooking purposes in private houses, the chapness of coal here, the usefulness of refuse in asphalting, and the revenue derivable from coke. Alderman Spooner seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously, and it was decided to advertise for plans and specifications at once, and also to seek for guidance in the experience of the Bathurst and Wollongong councils. The work of lighting will be undertaken by the municipality directly.

Last week the dead body of a newly-born male infant was found in a well at the rear of the main street. A coronial inquiry was held, and a verdict was returned that death was caused by hæmorrhage owing to neglect of some person or persons unknown. On Sunday night Margaret Reid, a girl of 16, confessed that she was the mother of the infant. She declared that its birth took place early one morning unknown to any person, and the child was dead when she first saw it, and that after hiding the body under her bed during the day she put it into the well at night. She was arrested on a charge of unlawfully causing the death of her illegitimate male child, and the case occupied the Police Court yesterday and to-day. The accused was committed for trial at the next Bathurst Quarter Sessions. The medical testimony at the inquest showed that the child's death was the result of hæmorrhage.

MOSS VALE, TUESDAY.

The Municipal Council decided at its meeting last night to consent to the transfer of the contract for lighting the streets by electricity from Wood Bros. and Co. to Mr. T. K. Steans, Market-street, Sydney.

The local land board dealt with a number of cases at their sitting at the courthouse to-day.

MUDGEE, TUESDAY.

Frequent showers fell on Sunday and Monday, retarding farm operations, and delaying the getting in of the balance of the maize crop.

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.

William Woodlands, on remand from Sydney, charged with the embezzlement of £100, the property of Messrs. Thornton, Sanderkoff, and Co., by means of illegally cashing a promissory note, was committed this morning for trial at the next Quarter Sessions to be held at Newcastle. Bail was allowed, himself in £200, and two sureties in £100 each.

This morning, at about 8 o'clock, the body of a female child a few days old was found by a man named Duggan near the ladies' bathing-place on Newcastle beach. The body appeared to have been in the water four or five days. It was pronounced by Dr. Harris to have been stillborn. No inquest was held.

NOWRA, TUESDAY.

Christopher Williams, a young coloured man, has been remanded here for eight days on a charge of having impersonated William Witty, a half-caste, at the election. The accused is a bootblack.

PEAK HILL, TUESDAY.

Father Curran gave his second lecture on gold last night. The hall was packed by an attentive audience, who regretted that, owing to the other meetings, the lecture was somewhat curtailed.

WAGGA, TUESDAY.

Last week an area of Crown lands, comprising 800 acres in the parishes of Ardlethan, Marrar, and Derry, was applied for here by four applicants.

The Murrumbidgee Pastoral and Agricultural Association has adopted a programme for the show to be held on the 4th and 5th September.

At a meeting of the Murrumbidgee Turf Club the committee decided that the annual Summer Race Meeting should be held on the 31st August and the 1st of September. The prize money given by the club amounts to £750.

WALGETT, TUESDAY.

The roads are very heavy. A number are in town for the races. Over 30 horses are entered for the different events.

The proportion of heat to luminous rays in the total radiation of different sources of light was recently the subject of a lecture by Professor Dewar. It appears from Professor Langley's experiments that gas, oil, and candle flames give only 2 per cent. of light rays to 98 per cent. of heat rays. The corresponding figures for other sources are for the electric arc lamp 10 to 90; for magnesium wire, 15 to 85; and for sunshine, 30 to 70. The light of the firefly is far beyond all the others for luminous efficiency. It gives 99 per cent. of light rays to one per cent. of heat rays; therefore, inventors in this field should take the firefly as their model.

LIST OF CANDIDATES.

The following is the list of candidates for the electorates where nominations or elections have not yet been held. The letter M after a name signifies Ministerialist; the letter O, Opposition supporter; and the letter I, Independent or neutral. ## PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED.

A batch of books published recently by the Religious Society, London, includes "In Scripture Lands," "Tract by Edward L. Wilson, "The Midnight Sky," by Edwin Dunkin, F.R.S., F.R.A.S., a new and thoroughly revised edition, with 32 star maps, and many other illustrations, and "Swiss Pictures," with map, by the author of the well-known volumes of the same series. All three of these volumes are handsomely bound and very freely illustrated. From the same publishers comes "The Secularists' Programme," being an examination of the teachings of that school and a comparison of the secularist and Christian views of life, by the Rev. W. Harris, of the Victoria Docks. Copies of the "Girls' Own Outdoor Book" and "Outdoor Games and Recreations" also reach us from the same office.

Messrs. Griffith, Farran, and Co. send the May number of their periodical "New and Old," and we have also a pamphlet on "The Public Health" in relation to leprosy and vaccination, by William Tebb (Allen, London).

"Mitchell's Newspaper Press Directory for 1891" has been sent us in its forty-sixth annual edition (Mitchell, London), through Mr. W. Sidman, of Sydney. This directory, with which is included a colonial, Indian, and foreign supplement, claims to be the oldest publication of its kind extant. The Australasian section in this volume has received special attention. It is introduced by an historical sketch of the colonies, and the list of papers given is apparently complete.

CASUALTIES.

A cabman named Robert Kerr met with an accident last night while driving his cab. He was coming from the Redfern Railway Station into George-street when the breeching broke, and the horse bolted across the tramline. The wheels caught in the rails, and the cabman was thrown out on to his head. Constable Tarlin, of No. 2 station, conveyed the man to the Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted. He was unconscious, and had a deep lacerated wound over the eyebrow. Up to a late hour last night he had not recovered consciousness. He lived in Kerk-lane, Ultimo.

Patrick O'Grady, aged 34 years, was knocked down last night by a man, and received a wound one and a-half inch deep in his head. He was admitted to the Sydney Hospital.

Elizabeth Skinner, aged 42 years, was admitted into the Sydney Hospital in an unconscious state, suffering from injuries to the head which she had received from a fall downstairs.

Samuel Ohlsen, a Norwegian, 31 years of age, a wharf labourer, was admitted to the Sydney Hospital yesterday afternoon, with both bones of his left leg fractured. He had been working on the wharf, when a case struck him on the back of the leg.

Ah Toreny, a Chinaman, 51 years of age, was admitted to the Sydney Hospital, suffering from a wound, caused by the end of an umbrella, on the left side of the head, just below the ear.

THE LABOUR PARTY V. MR. REID ON FEDERATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Efforts are being made to show that the labour party will incline more to the ideas of Mr. G. H. Reid on the subject of federation than to those of Mr. Barton, but when it is remembered that one of the planks of the labour platform to which every labour candidate pledged himself was "Federation of the Australasian Colonies upon a national as opposed to an Imperialistic basis," it will be admitted that there is nothing in common between the labour representatives and men like Mr. G. H. Reid, whose main fear is not that the Convention Bill is Imperialistic, but that it is too national and too Australian in character. In fact, in not one of his many utterances on the subject of the Convention Bill has Mr. Reid denounced it as Imperialistic; but in every sentence he has spoken the head and front of the bill's offending in his eyes has been that it was too broad and Australian in character and too little provincial in its aims. He has in effect proclaimed against it because its object is to form a united Australian nation, and he is opposed to anything of the kind. He wants the miserable jealousies that prevail between New South Wales and Victoria perpetuated to the end of time, and fights desperately against the Convention Bill because its first work would be to establish freetrade throughout the length and breadth of the continent, and so remove the root of all the disagreements between the colonies. With these disagreements, and with the idea that the people of nearly nine-tenths of Australia are "robbers and plunderers," the new labour party has no sympathy; and even as it opens its heart and pocket to distressed labour in any part of Australia so does it recognise that it has a common brotherhood and citizenship with the people of all parts of Australia. Its heart is too big and broad for the miserable jealousies which Mr. Reid is doing his best to encourage and perpetuate. He will therefore get absolutely no support from the labour party in his designs on the Convention Bill; for his motives are not theirs, nor is his purpose in any way akin to theirs. He cares nothing for the one man one vote principle inside or outside the Federation Bill; but he will have much to say on the subject of allowing each State to have equal representation in at least one Chamber of the Legislature, and not because he really cares one straw about the principle of equal representation in the Senate, but because he knows that the smaller colonies would not and could not join in a federation in which their representation would be practically nil. Mr. Reid will also have much to say about the Governor-General's gold lace and cocked hat, forgetting that he was a stanch supporter of the Imperialistic cocked-hat party which sent away the Soudan expedition, and which pledged the country to the Imperialistic conference, which resulted in the Naval Defences Bill. All these things and many more of a like character will occur to the labour party when it finds Mr. G. H. Reid cheek-by-jowl courting it on the cross-benches, where he will seat himself, but the labour men are quite as bland as Mr. Reid, and when he thinks he will get them to play his game of destroying the onward march of Australian nationality, he will find that there is a gap between his ideas on the question of federation and those of the labour men, that not even his sophistry and blarney can bridge. The first mighty difference between Mr. Reid and the labour party is that he is the representative of the ideas of the last generation, whilst they are brimful of confidence and faith in those of the coming one. He is then an Imperialist, and they are Australian Nationalists to a man, and, lastly, he is partisan of things as they are with a little polishing off of corners; whilst they are the advance guard of the army who would have things as they might be and as they and I believe should be.

I am, &c., R. THOMSON.

The "breathing" of a locomotive—that is to say, the number of puffs given by a railway engine during its journey—depends (Iron says) upon the circumferences of its driving-wheels and their speed. No matter what the rate of speed may be, for every one round of the driving-wheels a locomotive will give four puffs—two out of each cylinder, the cylinders being double. The sizes of driving-wheels vary, some being 18, 19, 20, and even 22 feet in circumference, although they are generally made of about 20ft. The express speed varies from 54 to 58 miles an hour. Taking the average circumference of the driving-wheel to be 20ft., and the speed per hour 50 miles, a locomotive will give going at express speed 880 puffs per minute or 52,800 puffs per hour, the wheel revolving 13,200 times in 60 minutes, giving 1056 puffs per mile. Therefore an express going from London to Liverpool, a distance of 201¾ miles, will throw out 213,048 puffs before arriving at its destination. During the tourist season of 1888 the journey from London to Edinburgh was accomplished in less than eight hours, the distance being 401 miles, giving a speed throughout of 50 miles an hour. A locomotive of an express train from London to Edinburgh, subject to the above conditions, will give 423,456 puffs.

THE ANTI-EUROPEAN RIOTS IN CHINA.

BURNING OF PLACES OF WORSHIP.

GREAT EXCITEMENT AT THE MISSIONS.

By the Chinese mail to hand particulars are obtainable of the serious riots at Wuhu on 12th May. The Shanghai Mercury of May 28 says:—

By the latest intelligence from Wuhu the few rounds of blank cartridge fired on the rioters by the Governor of Anwhei appear to have had the effect of entirely quelling the disturbance. When the W. Cores de Vriers, which arrived at Shanghai on the 16th May, left Wuhu at 10 a.m. the previous day everything was then perfectly quiet, and the Chinese war-vessels, which had been of so much assistance, had left the port, Shen Ping Chêng expressing himself satisfied that no further outbreak was to be feared. Six hundred Chinese soldiers are quartered in the town from different places, the Cores de Vriers having brought up one hundred from Nanking. Mr. Woodruff, the Commissioner of Customs, walked down from his residence to the Custom-house unattended on the 15th May, without meeting the slightest incivility on the way, and the officers of the Cores de Vriers, which, like the other ships arriving at the port since the outbreak, went alongside the refuge hulk, were able to walk freely about the Settlement and see for themselves the damage done without the Chinese attempting to be in any way unfriendly, though the streets are reported to be still thronged with excited people. The mission premises are a heap of ruins, and so are the houses, the property of the priests, where the Customs officials principally resided. Much indignation is expressed at the conduct of the officials in charge of the telegraphs, who refused to wire down intelligence to Shanghai until they had privately telegraphed to the head of the department here for permission. The Customs officials have resumed their ordinary work, though in the Custom-house the rifles were still stacked ready for use at a moment's notice, and the pickets of Chinese soldiers patrolling the streets, blowing their horns and firing an occasional blank shot to frighten the inhabitants, still gave evidence that the fire was still smouldering. On her way down to Shanghai the Cores de Vriers passed the Inconstant, which is still anxiously looked for at Wuhu, about 18 miles beyond Nanking. She saw no sign of the Linnet. The greatest credit is due to Captain Cain and the officers of the Tehshing, who gave up their cabins to the ladies and children fleeing from Wuhu. Though there were no signs at Wuhu when the Cores de Vriers left, no one can tell what may happen, and it is a crying shame that there was no sign of a foreign war vessel there for the protection of the residents. The following notes on the trouble have been supplied to us by one of the French fathers:—It is quite certain that the Wuhu trouble has been premeditated. It was a regular attack against all foreigners. On Sunday night the Customs officials were already notified of trouble brewing against all foreigners, a number of whom went afloat on board the hulks in the river. On Monday there were general rumours of a hateful nature being propagated from the secret societies against foreigners without exception, and their covetousness of the riches of the natives of China (fong-yang-tsai). On Monday again we learned from a sure source of information, that the hatred of the savage rabble was largely directed not alone against missionaries, but also against the foreign Customs, the straightforwardness and honesty of whose officers goes against the grain of the majority of the low, vulgar rabble. Tuesday showed distinctly that the movement was well-planned and cleverly prepared, else it would have been impossible to direct such a large mob in unison, as really was the case. Therefore there is not the slightest doubt that the whole affair has been premeditated. All the missionaries' worldly belongings were destroyed, burned, or stolen. There were quarters for about 30 fathers, a fine library, and furniture, besides, of course, large supplies of stores and provisions not only for the local mission, but for the stations farther inland as well. There were also a school for boys, a chapel, servants' quarters, and other necessary buildings and outhouses. What the fire could not destroy the vandals certainly otherwise managed to do away with. The hospital attached to the mission, for the benefit of the natives, has been destroyed too. It is to be regretted that the local magistrate, even after being pressed by the British Consul, did next to nothing to take steps for the protection of the endangered people. On Sunday night two Christian women were taken up in a most brutal manner and dragged before the police magistrate, and were kept all night at the Cheh-sien's yamên. They were accused of having deprived two little children of the power of speech by the exercise of witchcraft, but the women had to be liberated, because the charge could not be proved. The next day a woman came and wanted her son from the orphanage, pretending they had robbed her of her child; but the charge was proved to be quite a trumped-up one; nevertheless quite a big crowd of desperate and threatening appearance kept hanging round the place all day. It is remarkable that a few days previous to this outbreak an abortive attempt had been made against the Roman Catholic orphanage at Yangchow, and requests through the Consul had to be made repeatedly to the Taotai before protection was afforded. In Wuhu it was at the very last moment that the three foreign resident fathers succeeded in saving themselves; when the incensed and excited mob invaded the premises the missionaries made their escape and embarked in a native junk and proceeded to Chinkiang.

It would appear that the mob at Wuhu were led by men well accustomed to command and who are believed to be leaders of secret societies, the object of which organisations is to embroil the Government with foreign Powers. It would further appear that the Taotai, who draws pay for 500 troops, had not 50 available for suppression of the riot. It is also stated that one of the graves of the French fathers was opened and the body searched by the rioters for treasure supposed to have been buried there. This desecration of graves caused much excitement on board the French cruiser Inconstant.

The Daily News gives the following literal translation of a proclamation posted in Wuhu on May 16:—"The country is betrayed and the people are ruined! Human beings are trampled down and reduced to dust! Such being the state of affairs we humbly beg to state the following:—Wuhu is a treaty port thickly populated with foreigners, who cause people injury to such an extent that it is impossible for the pen to fully describe. Lately the Roman Catholic Mission are building churches in every portion of the place. Every convert is paid a monthly sum of 6dol., and it is by such means that ignorant males and females are led to enter the churches, where men and women congregate together without discrimination. This breach of morality and custom is in itself a violation of the fixed laws of the State. Now, women are procured from other places and are paid to abduct children, whose eyes and intestines are taken out, and whose heart and kidneys are cut off. What crimes have these innocent children committed that they should suffer such horrible deaths? What makes it more lamentable is that when a child is stolen the child's family also perish. The loss of one's own flesh and blood is so deeply felt that the acute mental pain drives one to wish for death—quick apoplexy or suicide generally follows. But their (Roman Catholics) sins have reached the limit, and the vengeance of Heaven is ready to burst forth. On the 3rd of this moon two female child thieves went to Honan (south side of the river) and abducted a child by drugging him. The child's mother saw the act, and called out to the child, but the child was unable to speak, looking stultified. The people on apprehending the two abductresses discovered on their persons two bottles containing drugs for stupefying children. The female child thieves were taken to Pao-chia-chu—street patrol's office—and from there to the magistrate's yamên. The Roman Catholic Church priests, hearing of the matter, at once sent a bribe of 600 taels to the magistrate, who on receiving the money returned the two abductresses in sedan chairs to the church. The priests of the Roman Catholic Church steal and kill Chinese children, and their crimes should have been expiated with death punishment; but the god of wealth bought off their lives. Money is superior to law; the precious code and golden rules are misapplied. It shows the (magistrate's) intention of exterminating our Chinese race and of assisting the barbarian thieves. The following day Li Sh'en Shuen lost a child three years old, and Wang Wan-fah, a child aged five years. But this is more marvellous. A one-year-old child belonging to a woman by the surname of Shen was lying in a cradle in the room and disappeared in the twinkling of an eye, cradle and all, without leaving behind the slightest trace. The devilish tricks are so numerous that people are in despair of protecting their lives. The two fathers and the mother who lost their children proceeded to the Roman Catholic Church to look for their missing ones. They received several carcases and dried bones of young children, and also four underground cells. These discoveries caused suspicious thoughts, and the people were requested to make a search and examination. The barbarians, with their thieving conscience stricken and their hearts fluttering, bribed the petty military mandarin Yao with 40 taels, who accordingly despatched 40 soldiers to keep guard over the church's entrance. Swords were freely used on those who attempted entrance. A Chinese official, indeed, rendering barbarians help to injure his native countrymen. Two men were wounded with sword cuts on the head, blood trickling down all over their face. The hearts of the people rebelled at such an outrage. The devil's nest is torn down and burnt. The officials turned against the petty people, arrested some and threw them in prison with their hands and feet tied. The extraordinary occurrence originated from the officials and not from the people. The officials compelled the people to create a disturbance, and the people could not but produce a riot. Now the tens of thousands of the people of Wuhu, do you, on the 20th day with united hearts and combined strength destroy the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestant Church and all the properties owned by them! When these are destroyed, no rebuilding will ever be permitted. Destroy again as they rebuild. Chase out all the barbarian thieves, then can we rise and ascend the mats (meaning from unhappiness to happiness). Should any of the race be left here we can never arrive at the happy [stage or place]. Only the Roman Catholic Church is to be destroyed, but do not touch the Customs. If you injure the Customs, you will not escape the arm of the law. Know and remember this! The public community of the whole of Wuhu.

N.B.—Those who rent the houses belonging to the churches are warned to remove immediately to other places, so as to avoid being involved when the time comes. Drive away the evil [so that] the good may remain in peace."

As a rule the basin of the Black Sea is very deep, more than half of it sinking below 5500ft., though the deepest part is about 2000ft. more. The temperature and density of the water vary at different depths. Thus near the Bosphorous it is 73·6 at the surface, but at 150ft. the temperature falls to 42·8.

LECTURE.

"THE AGNOSTIC'S KNOWLEDGE."

The second of a series of lectures to young men on modern infidelity was delivered by the Rev. J. Fordyce, M.A., of Woollahra, in the Young Men's Christian Association Hall, last night. The subject of the address was "The Agnostic's Knowledge." Mr. S. T. Whiddon, J.P., presided, and there was a good attendance. Before proceeding with his lecture, Mr. Fordyce made a brief reference to the different meanings attached to the word "scepticism." The word might be used in its philosophical sense, as a denial of the "possibility of objective knowledge," or, in its semi-religious sense, where man attacked reason in order to exalt faith; in these lectures it was used in its popular sense, and represented that opposition to the Christian faith which was so general in the present time. All scepticism which was not ultimate or fundamental must be transitional, for in this attitude of mind no one really could, and no one ought to, find rest. The more critically-inclined persons in the audience were recommended to study the Right Hon. Arthur Balfour's treatise on "Philosophic Doubt," as a kind of protection against the loud arguments of the modern sceptical school. Mr. Fordyce then went on to deal with his subject. He said the most popular form of unbelief in the present day was what Professor Huxley called Agnosticism. The Atheist denied, the Theist positively affirmed, but the Agnostic called himself by a name which implied that he did not know. In reality this turned out to be mock-modesty, for the Agnostic meant the knowledge, positive and real, of what transcends phenomena is impossible to man. This was the form of unbelief prevalent among the cultivated classes who rejected Christianity; it was the creed of such men as Darwin, Spencer, Huxley, Tyndall, Matthew Arnold, and many more of the leaders of our time. Probably nine-tenths of the intelligent rejectors, or ignorers, of the religion of Jesus Christ in our day were Agnostics. It was hardly possible to discuss fully the origin and nature of Agnosticism. He could not assume, even if he were an expert in such matters, which he was not, that the audience was fond of metaphysical questions. It was enough to say that, speaking in a general way, this belief dated from Kant, or the Kantian philosophy. In his critical inquiries this great man seemed to reach no positive knowledge; indeed, he denied that man could really know anything but phenomena, and that his belief in God, freedom, and immortality were anything more than moral postulates. Following Kant, the Scottish Hamilton and the English Mansel taught the relativity of all knowledge; the former appealed to our hearsay belief in God as a kind of revelation or faith, and the latter based on this an appeal—a weak one enough—for the authority of Scripture. Herbert Spencer, the philosopher and guide of Agnostics, started from this point. He accepted Hamilton's doctrine of relativity of knowledge, and upon it based his denial of all knowledge of what these men called the absolute. Such was, in brief, the origin and nature of this view of the universe and of man's position. What, then, did the Agnostic profess to know? One was weary of fault-finding and opposition; suppose they asked these new masters what they really knew about God, or about what they would call the Power behind all that they saw or knew? then they would be able to discover the relation of all this to the faith of the Christian. If they put such questions to Spencer, Huxley, Arnold, or Fiske, the best teachers of this doctrine, they might at first be slightly disconcerted. They would very likely talk about "silent worship," about the "inscrutable" Power, about the "unknown and unknowable," and the like, or they would tell them, with Goethe, that the best way was to take their fill of that, and not to attempt to give it a name. Still, if they persisted, and if they studied for themselves their systems of Agnosticism, they would discover that they possessed far more knowledge than they were willing to admit. Take a few of their distinctive affirmations. They asserted that behind all that they saw and heard and experienced there existed a Power. They might not name this Power, they might not say how it existed, nor what it was, but they knew that it did exist; they had, said Spencer, positive knowledge of this. Also that it was really the cause of all that they called existence. Not merely the antecedent, but really the source. All that they saw, knew, and experienced, all the myriad forms of life, motion, all beings here, there, and everywhere, were temporary manifestations of this eternal Power. More than that, Spencer admitted that the highest manifestation of this Power "wells up" within themselves, as what we call "consciousness." They might not call this Power God or person, but they must think of it as mind. They were weary of asserting that this Power was orderly; all that they called law in nature, all that they called order in the universe, was simply the outcome of this Power's action. Lastly, this inscrutable Power was also an ethical Power—it "makes for righteousness." They might not say it lost righteousness, for this were to personify, but they must affirm that its ends or the results of its action was the triumph of righteousness. Think out all this, ponder well the result of such affirmations, and they would come to the conclusion that our Agnostic teachers knew a very great deal about what they were pleased to term the Unknowable. Men like Spencer, Huxley, and Fiske asserted that religion was essential to humanity; it was not due to the priests, it was not a kind of harmless or harmful superstition; it was the outcome of man's deepest aspirations, and his highest thought about the Power behind phenomena. More than this, Fiske boldly asserted that man was the end of creation (or evolution), and that all evolution was with a view to his intellectual or spiritual development and progress. Waxing still bolder, he asserted his belief in immortality, and reasoning from evolution and its lessons, he predicted the ultimate triumph of moral order in the universe. What ought to be their attitude towards this agnosticism of their time? Let them welcome all that was true or good in it. It was, partly at least, the outcome of their over-confidence, and their failure to speak with becoming reverence of the Power behind all. If "gnostics" grew too bold, agnosticism would ever flourish. Moreover, the Bible fully proclaimed all that was true in the agnostics' creed, and this, too, in language of wonderful beauty. So that Christians fully recognised the limits of their knowledge of God. The Christian view of life was far nobler than agnosticism, and it included all that was worthy of respect in this system. It regarded nature itself as a revelation of this Power behind phenomena, and it held man responsible for the use he made of this knowledge of wisdom and beneficence. It recognised a still higher revelation in human nature, in the moral capacity of man, and the intimations made through what he called his conscience. Kant himself often spoke of the sublimity of the moral law revealed within man, and his ethical system was founded on this. Then it accepted the Sacred Writings as a still further unfolding to men of the nature and purpose of this Power, and as a record of God's self-manifestation to the universe. Finally, it accepted Jesus Christ as the Grand Revealer or revelation of God, and His religion as the highest life for man. Thus, as Tennyson sang, "Truth dimly revealed in nature, in history, in man's mystic frame, has become 'current coin' by being 'embodied' for us all in the 'tale' of the life, teaching, death, resurrection, glorification, and the continued activity of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and Head of Humanity." Here, then, the Christian and Agnostic might meet. As St. Paul met Athenian seekers after the Being whose existence they confessed, but whose name they did not know, by a proclamation, or declaration, of Jesus Christ, so they must make this same appeal to agnostics. Apart from this Revealer, they too were, and must ever remain, ignorant; in this Revealer and Revelation they find, if not a full and complete, still a real, a positive, and a satisfying knowledge of God, of life's meaning, and of duty. Here, also, they took their stand on experience. Before they accepted this Revelation they were truly ignorant, restless, and weak; when they accepted it, and in proportion as they surrender themselves to its influence, they had new knowledge, fresh inspiration, and power to live for Christ's ideals, and for the race which He so dearly loved and died to save.

The very God! Think, Abib; dost thou think?
So the All-Great were the All-Loving too—
So through the thunder comes a human voice,
Saying, "O heart I made, a heart beats here!
"Face my hands fashioned, see it in myself!
"Thou hast no power, nor may'st conceive of mine,
"But love I gave thee, with myself to love,
"And thou must love me who have died for thee."

Was Browning's faith not possible to them all in those days?

AIR AND HEALTH.

At the Girls' High School last evening, Mr. J. L. Bruce, lecturer on sanitary engineering in the Technical College, delivered the second of a course of lectures upon "Suggestions from the Sanitary Laboratory." The subject for the evening was "Air and Health." There was a large attendance. The lecturer said that the question of pure air was an important and far-reaching factor in that branch of health called sanitary engineering. Air was as generally used as water, and all food and drink were exposed to it. Food of all kinds was liable to be exposed to the influences of whatever impurities existed in the air around it. The question, therefore, of how to procure pure and healthy air was a very absorbing subject to minds concerned with sanitation. A reform was needed in regard to the pollution of air, and the law was now stepping in to interfere with the more flagrant forms of air pollution. People did not realise how disgusting it was to live in an impure air bath, and to drink in air in which someone else had just washed his lungs. The lecturer then went on to describe how the body in carrying on its functions exhaled impure air and threw off other organic or inorganic particles into the atmosphere, and how the air exhaled from the body was as impure as the water which issued from the pores of the skin. The air was a constant bath, and people had to drink it in every few seconds. In a close, overcrowded room the house air-bath could be seen in full indiscriminate working order. Man lived in the air just as the fish lived in the water. Man lived at the bottom of a sea of air, and if too many human beings were confined to a limited space they fell into ill-health and died. Mr. Bruce then proceeded to describe, by the aid of diagrams and experiments, the nature and composition of the air and the various unhealthy particles it contained. He was listened to attentively throughout.

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Pressers' Union, held at the Temperance Hall last evening, the following were elected as office-bearers for the ensuing term:—President, Mr. C. Julius; vice-president, Mr. H. Moses; secretary, Mr. G. Williams; treasurer, Mr. M. L. Levy; auditors, Messrs. P. M'Laughlin, T. Ritchie, and W. Edwards; executive committee, Messrs. T. Ritchie, P. M'Laughlin, W. Graham, and W. Edwards; delegates to the Trades and Labour Council, Messrs. P. M'Lachlan and R. Greathead; delegates to the Eight-hour Demonstration Committee, Messrs. C. Julius, H. Julius, and F. Roberts; trustees, Messrs. Roberts, Lewis, and Archer.

The executive committee of the Trades and Labour Council met at the Trades Hall last evening, and dealt with business referred to it by the council. The decisions arrived at were not made public.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

TUESDAY EVENING.

In the Stock and Share market to-day, very little business was done, and quotations were unaltered. On the Sydney Stock Exchange the following sales were reported:—At 1 o'clock, Australian Joint Stock Bank, 24; Shale and Oil, 6s 5d. At 4 o'clock: Australian Joint Stock Bank, 24. Closing quotations were:—

On the Stock Exchange of New South Wales the following sales were reported to-day:—Australian Joint Stock Bank, 23¾; Bank of New Zealand, 6½; Australian Gaslight, 13¾; Real Estate, 2s. The following were the closing quotations, except those corresponding with the figures of the Sydney Stock Exchange published above:—Australian Joint Stock Bank, seller 23¾; Bank of North Queensland, buyer 65s, seller 67s; National Bank of Australasia, buyer £10 8s; Union Bank, buyer 64½; Illawarra steam, seller 5½; North Shore Ferry, buyer 39s; Port Jackson steam, seller 35s; Mercantile Mutual Insurance, buyer 6s; United Insurance, buyer 69s; Marshall's Brewery, buyer 4s 6d; Aarons' Exchange Hotel, buyer 9s 6d, seller 10s 1½d; Emu Gravel, seller 17s; Picturesque Atlas, seller 15s 9d; Sydney Cyclorama, buyer 8s 6d; Volunteer Land Orders, buyer 220; Real Estate, buyer 1s 11d, seller 2s 2d; Equitable Building, buyer 73½; Mercantile Land, seller 7s; Sydney Freehold Building, buyer 16s.

The syndicate which took up the bulk of the Queensland loan at £88 can already transfer stock at £90¼, a price which it must be acknowledged represents a very good "turn over" of a safe security, after being held for a day or two, with little or no money paid. That cannot be called bad financing—by the syndicate.

The price of silver is still rising, having since Saturday advanced one half-penny per ounce. The present quotation of 3s 9½d per ounce is the highest since the 17th March, when it rose for a day or two to 3s 9½d, falling, however, to 3s 9d on April, since which time, however, it has been mostly below that figure. From Bradstreet's, we learn that there had been heavy foreign buying of silver bullion in the American market, amounting to between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 ounces, the silver being held for account of foreign owners. It was believed that the transactions were of a purely speculative character, based on the small stocks of mercantile silver existing in Europe, and the certainty of a large Eastern demand within a few months. Against the success of this speculative movement, however, is the fact that the Austrian Government is about to introduce a gold standard, and might at any time throw on the market a stock of 150,000,000 florins (more or less), while Italy, France, Roumania, and other countries stand ready to throw on the market large surplus stocks of silver, on which they would only be too glad to realise.

From a return presented to the British Houses of Parliament, we learn that the total value of the trade of India in the year 1889-90 was £192,023,710, of which £86,656,990 represented imports, inclusive of £17,459,501 in treasure, and £105,366,720 represented exports, including £1,906,322 in treasure. This trade is represented as follows:—

| — | Imports. | Exports of Indian Produce. | Exports of Foreign Produce. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | £ | £ | £ |
| United Kingdom | 50,291,140 | 57,950,864 | 1,178,757 |
| British Possessions | 7,356,765 | 21,051,513 | 814,879 |
| Foreign Countries | 8,912,216 | 40,098,677 | 2,302,172 |
| Totals | 66,560,121 | 119,101,054 | 4,295,808 |

The wheat trade of India has increased very irregularly. In 1889-90 it was 13,799,224cwt. In 1880-81 it was 7,444,375cwt., but in the following year it was 19,863,520cwt., falling to 14,144,407cwt. in the next year, rising to 22,263,320cwt. in 1886-87, the highest quantity during the decade, falling to 13,538,169cwt. in the following year, then rising to 17,610,081cwt. in 1888-89, and declining again to 13,799,924 in the succeeding 12 months. Concerning the wheat and flour trade of the Indian Empire the report says:—

The exports from Karachi were larger, and those from Bombay and Calcutta smaller, than they have ever been since the development of the trade. It is doubtful whether Calcutta will in future export as much wheat as in 1888. The great wheat-producing tracts have now by the completion of the Indian Midland Railway come within the zone of Bombay, and the exportable wheat of the North-western provinces (west of Cawnpore), of Oudh, the Punjab and Central India will doubtless be shipped from Bombay and Karachi, whence homeward freight is much lower than from Calcutta. The decline in the trade of the year was due entirely to insufficient crops in the tracts whence Calcutta and Bombay draw their supplies. In the Punjab and Sindh the harvests were abundant, and consequently from Karachi was shipped more than from all the rest of India put together. Flour: This trade is of quite recent creation. It is almost exclusively a Bombay trade, more than 48 million lb. having been shipped from that port, where the flour is made in steam mills according to European methods, Persian wheat being employed to a large extent as being cheaper than Indian wheat. Very little goes to Europe as yet, only about 330,000lb. having been shipped to Belgium last year; but in course of time Indian flour should take its place with American in the English market.

In the Import markets to-day business was extremely quiet. Merchants find it almost impossible to sell anything in quantity without accepting a very considerable reduction in price; and as there is little disposition to make such sacrifice, an absence of business is the necessary result. The position of flour is unaltered. Roller brands are quoted at £11 10s to £12; stone makes, £10 5s to £10 15s, the demand being very restricted. In tea, we note the sale of about 150 half-chests of China at about 12d, the proportion of the total stock under this figure being small—the demand, in consequence, being relatively better than for the higher qualities. We hear, also, of three small parcels of Ceylon tea. Mr. Licht's estimate of the year's beet production is unaltered. As in March, April, and May, his estimate for the year ended in August is still a surplus of 50,000 tons in the crop of last year. For the nine months, however, the increase is only 8000 tons on the corresponding period of the previous sugar season. Twenty cases of maccaroni at up to 5d and 10 cases of vermicelli at from 5d were among the day's business. In liquids the movement of beer is small. Foster's ale and Bulldog stout noticed at the current rates. Sales of Martell's brandy; Hennessy's single-star is also in demand, 36s 6d to 37s being the current range of quotations. Lowndes's rum in quarters noticed at 4s 4d. The business doing in spirits, however, is small. Kerosene oil is dull of sale; from 10d quoted for high test. The clearances of hemp from Manila in the fortnight ended May 18 amounted to 880 bales, making 7050 bales from January 1, compared with 7023 bales to the corresponding period of last year. The state of the market on the date named is thus referred to by Messrs. Warner, Blodgett, and Co.:—

Hemp.—Transactions continue to be restricted to the settlement of small parcels, as dealers are storing all arrivals, and buyers are not anxious to press business, owing to stocks principally consisting of lower qualities, which are difficult of sale. We quote current, with 5 per cent. red, at 9.87½dol. per picul, or say at Exchange 3s 5½d, equal to £29 19s 6d per ton f.o.b. Prime marks command a high premium, being very scarce. We estimate dealers' unsold stocks at 40,000 bales.

The rise in the price of silver has promptly acted on the exchanges in India, cable advice from Calcutta quoting an advance in the c.i.f. rates for Eastern goods. For instance, castor oil is now quoted at 2s 4½d to 2s 5d; cornsacks, 4s 8½d to 4s 9d; bran bags, 3s 8½d. Woolpacks have also slightly improved, but to a lesser extent, as the demand for the season is pretty well over. The movement in metals discloses no new feature, except that I. C. Coke tinplates are offering below 21s, which is the price of small lots. For cement there is a moderate demand; 600 casks placed, also 2000 casks for forward delivery.

Messrs. Fraser and Co. advertise for sale by auction to-morrow (Wednesday) morning, River and Queensland sugars, teas, and also the salvage stock of groceries saved from the fire at Messrs. J. G. Hanks and Co.'s; in the afternoon, timber and doors.

In their report of May 18, Messrs. Warner, Blodgett, and Co. advise that the Manila market for coal was dull. There were buyers of Australian at 9·25dol. ex ship, May-June steamer sailing. Japanese was selling at 6·75dol. per ton ex ship.

Dalgety and Company, Limited, report having received a wire from London in the following terms:—"Wool sales continue firm, without further change."

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £3065 6s 11d; wine, still, £76 19s 3d; wine, sparkling, £53; ale, porter, and beer, in wood, £17 7s 6d; ale, porter, and beer, in bottles, £73 8s 6d; tobacco and snuff, £469 18s; tobacco, for manufacturing purposes only, £180 5s; cigars, £274 7s 10d; cigarettes, £41 5s; tea, £500 18s 9d; coffee, £20 17s 3d; coffee, raw, £31 17s; sugar, unrefined, £175; opium, 5s; rice, £147 5s 7d; dried fruits, £465 9s 8d. Specific duty: Bacon and hams, £32 4s 11d; biscuits, £8 1s 9d; bitters, over 25 per cent. of proof spirit, £5 12s 10d; butter, £9 10s 9d; candles, £58 8s 6d; cement, £142 10s; cheese, 4s; cocoa and chocolate, £16 8s 6d; confectionery, £92 5s 5d; dynamite and lithofracteur, £5 4s 2d; essences over 25 per cent. of proof spirit, £34 2s 11d; fish, £79 17s 10d; galvanised iron, £180 12s 8d; galvanised manufactures, £310 5s 9d; iron and steel wire, £5 13s; jams and jellies, £132 17s 6d; milk, 6s; oil, kerosene, £175; oils, in bottle, £18 17s 3d; oils, other, £492 19s; paints, £205 13s 10d; powder, blasting, 12s 6d; preserves, £9 17s 4d; salt, £72 4s 2d; shot, £25; tapioca and semolina, £3 15s; timber, undressed, £163 10s; varnish, £123 18s; harbour and light rates, £93 14s 8d; pilotage, Sydney, £31 10s; colonial distilled spirits, £116 15s 5d; excise on tobacco, £13 1s 5d; excise on beer, £185 6s 3d; licenses for selling tobacco and cigars, £4 15s. Total, £8367 9s 7d.

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAMS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

Wheat sold at 4s 10½d to 4s 11d. All other grains are dull. The new maize is in the market. Sales of good at 3s 4d. At the auction of new Indian teas lower prices had to be accepted, and the results showed a considerable loss. Tinplates are in fair demand at 21s. Kerosene, high-test, patent faucets, is selling lower, at 10d, to land.

There was a very quiet market to-day, and business in investment stocks was very limited. Quotations, however, were without much alteration, except that Equity Trustees, Standard, White Lead, and Tarrawingee Flux sold at lower prices, and Carlton and West End Brewery and Silverton Tramway at further advanced rates. Sales: Commercial Bank, £11 18s 6d, £12; Tramway and Omnibus, 77s 6d, 78s.

ENGLISH COMMERCIAL.

[BY CABLE.]

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 22.

Scrip of the new Queensland loan is to-day quoted at 90¼.

The price of bar silver is 3s 9½d per oz.

New Zealand merino wools are realising low prices at the present sales, but otherwise the market is steady.

PRODUCE MARKET—TUESDAY.

This morning, at the Darling Harbour auction sales, there was a very small attendance of the trade. The supplies of forage received were limited to three trucks of lucerne hay (in bales) and one truck of chaff, which met with moderate competition. Business throughout the wood auctions was fairly active. At the wharfs very light shipments were forward, but, as good balances of previous supplies were on hand, most lines of produce were fairly plentiful. Business was again interrupted by the unsettled state of the weather. Bran and pollard were dull of sale. The prices of sound dry lots of maize remain steady. There were inquiries for well-saved dry green leafy Hunter River lucerne hay. The lately advanced rates for potatoes were maintained. Butter was scarce. A moderate demand ruled for cheese. Particulars of the business transacted at the Darling Harbour auction sales were as follows:—

Wood.—Moderate supplies. Quotations for billet ranged from 8s 6d to 12s 3d per ton; bundle, 9s to 15s; foot, 9s to 15s 6d; bakers', 9s 6d to 13s.

Hay.—Three truck of lucerne hay forward. Two, in bales, from the Mudgee district realised 3s 6d and 3s 11d per cwt. respectively; one from Tamworth, 3s 9d.

Chaff.—Only one truck of oaten and wheaten mixed, in bags, received, sold at 3s 10d per cwt.

At the wharfs the wholesale quotations were:—

Wheat.—The nominal price of good milling lines was 5s per bushel.

Flour.—Quotations for stone makes were steady, from £10 5s to £10 15s per ton; roller-made, £11 10s to £12.

Bran.—Quiet, 9½d per bushel.

Pollard.—Also at 9½d per bushel.

Hay.—The principal supplies of Hunter River lucerne hay received continue to be of grassy and brown qualities. Prices of these were 30s to £2 15s per ton; well-saved green lots, £3 to £3 10s.

Maize.—Good sound dry river lines again quoted from 2s 2d to 2s 3d per bushel.

Oats.—There was no inquiry for seed varieties. Feeding oats, 1s 8d to 2s per bushel.

Chaff.—Further Victorian consignments arrived yesterday afternoon, prices £2 15s to £4 5s per ton.

Onions.—For best-conditioned Victorian sorts, £4 10s to £4 15s per ton was asked.

Potatoes.—New Zealand, worth £2 10s per ton; Circular Head, £3 15s to £4; Early Rose seed potatoes, £3 10s.

Butter.—Supplies were detained by the boisterous weather. Illawarra dairy makes, 1s 4d per lb.; factory-made, 1s 6d.

Cheese.—Ordinary colonial makes saleable from 5½d to 6½d per lb.; loaf cheese, 7d; small parcels, to 7½d.

Bacon.—There was no change in prices. Machine-cured Southern, 5d to 6d per lb.; hand-cured, 6½d to 7d; hams, 6d to 9d.

Lard.—Bulk lard, 2½d to 3d per lb.; bladders, 4d to 5d.

Eggs.—Stocks sufficient for requirements. Colonial lines, 1s 6d per dozen.

Poultry.—Dull of sale. Fowls, 2s 3d to 3s 3d per pair; ducks, 2s 9d to 3s 6d; geese, 4s 6d to 6s; turkeys, 5s to 10s.

TOBACCO LEAF.

Goldsborough, Mort, and Co., Limited, report that there was a brisk demand at their auction sale on Monday for all descriptions. Rates obtained from 3½d to 5½d per lb.

LEATHER AND SKIN SALES.

Messrs. Hill, Clark, and Co., F. L. Barker and Co., Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., and Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, report holding auction leather sales yesterday. The attendance of purchasers was rather smaller than at late auctions. Though the supplies submitted were on a limited scale, the demand was slack, especially for dressed leathers. Sole commanded fair attention from shippers at late rates. Basils were in good request. Harness leathers difficult of sale. Quotations: Sole, heavy, 7d to 8d per lb.; light and medium, 6½d to 7d; damaged, 4½d to 6d; kip, 9½d to 11d; tweed, 12d to 15½d; harness, 9½d to 11½d; shoe basils, 4s to 11s; saddlers', 12s to 14s dozen; bag and bridle, 9s 6d to 11s per side; yearling, 12d to 15d; calf, 15½d to 17½d per lb.

Supplies of marsupialskins were offered by the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company, Limited, Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., F. L. Barker and Co., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, Hill, Clark, and Co., and J. Bridge and Co. There was a strong demand, and values obtained were fully equivalent to those current last week. Largest grey kangaroo, from 160d to 220d each (exceptional lines to 246d), large 95d to 160d, medium 60d to 93d, small 26d to 59d, very small 2½d to 25d; red kangaroo, large 93 to 180d, extra large to 176d, medium 54d to 90d, small 24d to 53d, very small 3d to 23d; wallaroo, large 90d to 123d, medium 45d to 89d, small 3d to 44d; wallaby, scrub 4d to 35d, swamp 4d to 25½d, rock 2½d to 6½d; rabbits, 5d to 11½d per lb.; goatskins, 3d to 29d each; bearskins, 1½d to 13d each; platypus, 2s each. At the above sales some emu eggs were also sold at 18s per dozen.

Sales of sheepskins were also held by Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe, Hill, Clark, and Co., J. C. Young and Co. Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, F. L. Barker and Co., J. H. Geddes and Co. (the Pastoralists' Association, Limited), Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, J. Bridge and Co., and Winchcombe, Carson, and Co. Competition was animated, and last Saturday's rates may be repeated. Butchers' green skins, 20d to 54d; best dry full-fleeced skins, 5½d to 6½d per lb.; medium, 5d to 5½d; pelts to short growth, 2d to 4½d.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

Firm rates ruled in the mining market yesterday, and a good business was transacted. Souths improved in value to £5 8s, and Centrals hardened to £5 11s 6d. A parcel of Round Hills were disposed of at £5. Junctions remained easy, sales being made at 38s 6d and 39s. Bonanza Consols brought 12s 5d to 12s 7½d, and Bonanza Trust to 8s 6d to 8s 9d. Sunny Corners (ex div.) brought 34s 6d. In gold stocks, Earl of Hopetouns quitted at 47s 3d; Butcher's Reef, contributing, at 4s 3d; Sunlights paid at 26s and 26s 3d, and contributing at 21s 3d and 21s 6d.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

Gold companies had a moderate business, Butcher's Reef, Grand Duke, and South Star closing at improved prices. Princess Dagmar opened at advanced price, but the rise was not maintained. The market for silver continues dull, and transactions are very restricted, both in Broken Hill and Tasmanian companies. Sales: Broken Hill, £10 11s, £10 13s; Block 10, £15, £15 1s; South, paid, £5 8s, £5 5s 6d; British, 46s 6d, 47s 6d; Broken Extended, 33s 6d, 33s; Central, paid, £5 10s, £5 11s 6d; Pinnacle Amalgamated, 1s 6d, 1s 7½d; Butcher's Reef, 3s 7½d; Earl of Hopetoun, 46s 6d, 44s; Long Tunnel, £46, £43; Starlight, 7s 6d; Victory, Charters Towers, 50s.

BRISBANE, TUESDAY.

Charters Towers Crushings:—Brilliant, 1350 tons, yielding 2680oz. gold; Sunburst, 250 tons, 935oz.; No. 3 West Day Dawn, 98 tons, 90oz. Mills' United declared a dividend of 3d per share; Brilliant, dividend 2s; Sunburst, 1s per share on the new issue. The total dividends for two days was £11,150. The escort left Croydon with 17,368oz. gold. True Blue Nos. 3 and 4 South crushed 118 tons for 213oz. gold.

The True Blue Gold-mining Company, Limited, have a 10ft. reef in a block of ground, showing gold throughout. The Ophir block, on the Iguana Hill, and No. 1 West block cut a good reef this week. There is a general revival in mining at Croydon.

BROKEN HILL, TUESDAY.

The stopes have now been opened in the 370ft. level of the Central mine from the south shaft southwards towards the boundary. Carbonate of lead ore here is some of the richest in the mine, and there appears to be a good quantity of ore in reserve. Some of the faces in the stope are particularly rich in native copper, the show of this metal being better than any seen on the line of lode. In the stopes on the 400 level there is no change to report, but the faces look as well as ever. Nothing more has been done to the winze sunk from these stopes except to sink it a few feet, and time it later on. A crosscut will be run eastward to intersect the carbonate ore that has made out that way. The sinking of the water winze continues, and it is now down 46ft. There is plenty of water making, and the sulphide ore is improving in quality as they sink. The silver contents are 18oz. and 23 per cent. lead, and the percentage of zinc is less than it was. On the main level the main shaft in the Broken Hill Extended is down 644ft., and sinking is going on now that timbering has been finished. The country is somewhat softer. The western drive at the 500ft. level is in 131ft., and the face is reported to be looking better.

Water has been struck in a winze from the 425ft. level in the South Mine. The inflow is not sufficient to stop work, but is increasing. This development will facilitate smelting. Coke is arriving in quantity, also various fluxes. The main shaft has entered softer country. Good progress is being made in laying pipes from the Acacia Basin to the mine, and the pumping of water will begin about Thursday. It is probable that the concentrating mill will be set to work shortly, thus increasing the output of ore and bullion.

PAMBULA, TUESDAY.

Mining at Whipstick is drawing great attention. There has been a slight rush during the week, and some leases are pegged for silver, which appears to be extensive. Another rich gold reef has been discovered in the neighbourhood. Some Broken Hill miners on the spot speak encouragingly of the field, and are securing interests. The Morning Star Claim, Yowaka, is showing some splendid specimens of quartz, carrying fairly heavy gold. Crushing operations are stopped through the rains preventing carting.

CARCOAR, TUESDAY.

At the Glasson freehold paddock, situated at Myong, a new discovery has been made on alluvial ground by H. D. Stephenson, prospector, whilst working at a depth of 14ft. A few days ago a well-known mining speculator brought here rich specimens of a gold-bearing reef, estimated to contain fully one-third gold, obtained 60ft. from the first discovery on the same ground. It is the first time this private property has been prospected on.

CRUSHING AND SMELTING RETURNS.

Band of Hope and Albion Consols.—Tributors raised 63 tons stone for 10oz. 5dwt. 12gr. bar gold. 11 tons pyrites from No. 9 shaft, 1230ft. level north, produced 14oz. 18dwt. 12gr. bar gold, the stone from that level not showing gold at all.

Brilliant Gold Mine.—Messrs. Joseph Palmer and Son report that they have received the following telegram from Mr. T. B. Bearup, Charters Towers:—"Brilliant crushed 1350 tons, 2680oz. for three weeks. 2s dividend."

Commodore Vanderbilt Gold and Silver Mining Company, Limited (by wire), June 20.—Have despatched 2 tons 4 cwt. bullion, containing 1024oz. silver, 20oz. 14dwt. gold, 6 tons 12cwt. matte containing 462oz. silver, 6oz. 15dwt. gold, 2 tons 8cwt 2qr. copper; part product, 168 tons 19cwt. 1qr. ore, 7 tons 10cwt. old matte, for week ending June 16.

Tom's Lewis Ponds Silver and Gold Mine.—During the week we have smelted 190 tons of ore, 22 tons of matte, containing 3009·65oz. silver and 3·18oz. gold and 3·61 tons lead, and have produced 6 tons bullion, containing 2475oz. silver, 172·15oz. gold; also, 19 tons matte, containing 285oz. silver, 27·74oz. gold, and 2·41 tons lead. The above matte will be returned to the furnace.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Pioneer, Thackaringa, June 13.—No 2 shaft, 250ft. level, continues to look fairly well, and some nice clean ore and good seconds are being raised. No. 3 shaft, 200ft. level: There are still some nice bunches of ore and first-class seconds in this stope. Vertical shaft: Now 130ft. from surface; have passed through the lode. Would recommend putting in a drive to connect with the old workings, a distance of about 70ft., as there is a nice vein of ore about 5in. thick showing there. The lode has pinched very much in shaft. It is now only about 1ft. thick, and not much ore showing in it. Brown's shaft, 50ft. level: Contractors have got out some nice clean ore and good seconds; have despatched 15 tons of ore for week—12 concentrates and 6 rough ore. Mill has worked 40 hours, and treated 73 tons of Pioneer, yielding about 7 tons of concentrates.

Central Broken Hill Silver-mining Company, Limited.—400ft. level: Main west crosscut driven 4ft., total 40ft. Face in a mixture of siliceous, galena, and garnet sandstone. Water winze sunk 3ft., total 44ft. Supply of water thus far ample. The material in the bottom assaying 14oz. silver per ton, and 21½ per cent. lead. 600ft. winze sunk 10ft., total 24ft. The carbonate ore passed to the east at 22ft. in depth. The sulphide ore in the bottom assaying about 25oz. silver. Had the winze been one set of timbers further east, the bottom would now be in carbonate ore. The probability is now that a large body of carbonate ore lies under the 400ft. level, although it will not be encountered in the winze now being sunk, except in the upper part. Main north drive driven 9ft., total 857ft. South drive from No. 1 north shaft driven 17ft., total 85ft. A course of friable feldspar being met with in driving considerably expedited the work. No. 1 north shaft sunk 4ft.; total, 414ft. 300ft. level: 600ft. west crosscut extended 9ft.; total, 171ft. No change since last report. West crosscut off 600ft. parallel north: Drive driven 6ft.; total, 6ft. Good ore showing in the roof. Ore body off the parallel winze: No work is being done here except putting in timbers preparatory to stoping. 200ft. level: 700ft. crosscut west extended 13ft.; total, 97ft. The whole distance is through low grade gossan. 500ft. parallel north drive driven 13ft.; total, 33ft. Crosscut 50ft. north of the 500ft. on the parallel vein in a mixture of schist and low grade gossan, traversed with small veins of carbonate of lead, driven 7ft.; total, 7ft. The stopes are looking fairly well—in fact, as well as at any time. The timbering is in good condition, and all machinery about the mine is in good order.

Star of the East.—No. 1 shaft, 1620ft. level: North drive extended on the course of Star lode 11ft., making 182ft. from crosscut, lode 2ft., of average quality. South drive, same level, advanced 10ft., full length 160ft., lode 5ft., and showing good gold. 1520ft. level: South drive is now in 512ft., face carrying 2ft. of payable stone. No. 1 winze, from floor of north drive, is down 31ft., with 3ft. of stone at foot, showing nice gold. Stopes N. and S. are all in fairly good stone. No. 2 shaft sunk 5ft., full depth 1358ft. 1100ft. level: North drive on course of Guiding Star lode now in 364ft., without any material change; the rise is up 53ft., width of lode undefined, stone in sight is of payable character. 1000ft. level: South drive advanced 11ft., now in 187ft.; stopes following are showing good gold. 900ft. level: No. 7 winze from north drive is down 65ft., and sinking on splendid stone; winze in south drive sunk 17ft., stone at foot of fair quality. No. 4 shaft, 110ft. level: South drive is in 90ft.; lode of same dimensions and quality as last reported; stoping in north end in a very large body of stone.

Mount Stewart Lead and Silver Mining Company, No Liability, June 18.—S.W. drive, 90ft. level: Two men have driven 5ft., making a total of 24ft. I started them yesterday driving a crosscut to the hanging-wall, to see how wide the shoot of gold ore is at this point. Drive from bottom of winze: After going 2ft., the solid limestone was struck. The two men engaged here are now crosscutting from the drive. N.E. drive, 50ft. level: Two men have driven 4ft. 6in. The intrusion which I wrote of last as looking like the footwall still continues in the bottom of the drive. Big lode: The shaft was sunk by six men to a total depth of 105ft. The stuff at the 100ft. looked like a change for the better, so I continued; but it was only a band of gossan, so went back and opened out at the 100ft. level. Drove 7ft. 6in. to the eastward, and then 2ft. 6in. to the westward, all in lode stuff. I propose to continue the west crosscut until we strike the vein of ore passed through on the 50ft. level, and then drive on it in both directions.

New Hargraves Gold-mining Company.—Western drive extended 9ft.: total, 153ft. Have just cut a small oblique vein ½in. thick, dipping from north to south, with large influx of water, and country improving. Eastern drive extended 9ft.; total, 462ft. Ground much tighter; a blue slate and diorite strata dipping east and very wet. Pump and machinery working satisfactorily.

Great Lode Silver-mining Company, No Liability, Corowa.—Drive from 180ft. level now extended to 92ft. formation. Still in dolomite. Am now starting to follow underlay of lode in No. 1 shaft, which will be less expensive than crosscutting, and expect to have good news to communicate shortly.

Bonang Gold-mining Company.—Reef met in 400ft. level at a distance of 98ft. in the drive 20in. wide, showing nice sample of gold. Am now driving south on same. Water winze been centred and a shoot put in at the bottom. Drives at the intermediate level cleaned out and repaired. Truck road laid. Men started stoping in No. 5 level. Expect to be able to commence crushing in a fortnight. There is a good evidence of another lode to the west running parallel with this one. Everything at battery and on surface in first-class order.

Major's Creek Proprietary Gold-mining Company, Limited, June 21.—Dargues engine shaft: Contractors have sunk an additional 4ft., making a total of 199ft.

Silver Peak Silver-mining Company, No Liability.—South drive advanced 6ft., now 38ft. from crosscut lode. Material at present composed of garnet sandstone speckled with mundic and galena. Stopped this drive for a short time. Now breaking and sorting the ore.

Silver Hill Silver-mining Company, No Liability (Barrier Ranges, N. S. W.).—Winze from 100ft. level sunk 17ft., now down 68ft. Passed through small bunches of ore on the wall, but of no commercial value. East crosscut from face in 200ft. level extended 4ft., a little water in face, no ore as yet.

Rising Sun, June 17.—400ft. level: North drive being pushed on with better progress, less galena showing in the lode. South drive is being continued on the lode material, which is very irregular as yet.

New Broken Hill Extended, June 20 (by telegraph).—Depth of shaft, 644ft.; formation, masses of felspar and garnet sandstone. 500ft. level, western crosscut: 129ft. mineralised garnet sandstone. Timbering up shaft will be finished on Tuesday.

New Hargraves Gold-mining Company, No Liability.—Western drive extended 9ft., total 153ft. Have just cut a small bleak vein half inch thick, dipping from north to south, with large influx of water, and country improving. Eastern drive extended 9ft., total 462ft. Ground much lighter, a blue slate and diorite strata, dipping east and very wet. Pumps and machinery working satisfactorily.

Rising Sun Extended, June 17.—360ft. level: North drive in 10ft. from crosscut; lode has not been taken down since this day week. South drive in 15ft. from crosscut. No change.

Commodore Vanderbilt Gold and Silver Mining Company, Limited, June 17.—Main tunnel: Third stope south from No. 5 winze breaking payable ore; now 3ft. wide. Stope north at same level producing fair grade talcose ore; 5ft. wide. Intermediate drive south from No. 4 winze disclosing payable gossan; 6ft. wide. Stopes north and south from No. 3 winze, over intermediate, producing mixed gossan and siliceous ores of good quality; 18ft. wide. Intermediate drive north has been put ahead 10ft.

Band of Hope and Albion Consols.—No. 7. shaft: 1600ft. crosscut extended 3ft., total from shaft 477ft.; passed through several quartz leaders pitching west; now in nice slate country, and according to underlie in upper levels should be close to the lode. No. 9 shaft: 1200ft. level extended north 24ft., total from shaft 643ft.; face very much disturbed, as if approaching a cross course. 1300ft. level extended 26ft., total south from shaft 287ft.; lode very large, carrying fully 10 per cent. of mineral; no gold seen in the stone. A sample of the mineral on being burnt shows it to be worth fully 3oz. per ton. This drive is about 470ft. from the south boundary, and the make of stone appears to be pitching north.

Starlight Gold-mining Company, No Liability, Niangala, June 23.—Contractors have commenced work logging up shaft and fixing ladders. Will commence sinking the next 20ft. on Monday, the 22nd instant.

Peak Hill Proprietary Gold-mining Company, No Liability, June 20.—Dyke shaft is down 92ft., and No. 2 shaft 163ft., both producing very good ore. Crosscut north from 100ft. level (No. 2 shaft) is forward 127ft. in a formation carrying gold. Crosscut west from No. 3 shaft now forward 46ft. in country. 65 tons ore sent to battery.

United Albions, Steiglitz, June 19.—Have added 4ft. 6in. to depth of shaft for week. Better working ground now coming in from west, and, as a full staff of men has been obtained, progress will be more rapid.

Prince of Wales and Old Poverty, Tarnagulla, June 19.—West crosscut 1010ft. level driven 7ft., total 70ft.; signs of water coming in face. East crosscut 900ft. level extended 6ft., total 207ft., regular slate country. Have opened out south on lode at 900ft. in shaft; the stone is of promising appearance, and about 4ft. wide. Believe we shall get payable results here.

Pambula Golden Diorite-Mining Company, No Liability, June 15.—The shaft is down 90ft. The level from shaft is in 21ft., and the tunnel 127ft. The crosscut from tunnel 24ft.

Golden Gully Gold-mining Company, Limited.—The contractors are still making good headway with the crosscut at the 270ft. level. Extended same 6ft. during the past few days; total from main shaft, 200ft.; country slate. Have started rise at 100ft. level with two men.

Lubra Silver-mining Company.—Week's work, 284ft.; level driven 6ft., no improvement, vein 6in. thick; surface lode driven 2ft. 6in., no improvement, vein now very small. Trenching we got several slugs, same very rich.

Lady Jersey Mine, Chandler's Creek.—Drove northerly drive 5ft. 9in.; total distance driven 69ft. Got good prospects of gold as usual in the quartz. Discontinued this drive as directed, and am now putting in a crosscut, which has been driven from end of northerly drive 3ft., passing through a good quality of slate, much intermixed with small quartz veins.

SYNOPSIS.

New South Wales.—Cloudy in north and eastern parts to showery on parts of coast; fine elsewhere.

Victoria and Straits.—Generally fine and clear inland; cloudy and squally near coast.

Queensland.—Unsettled in southern portions of colony; fine elsewhere.

Tasmania.—Cloudy to raining on north coast; fine on the south.

South Australia.—Fine and cold; scattered clouds in places; much frost recorded.

Central and Northern Australia.—Fine throughout.

New Zealand.—Fine throughout.

FORECAST.

New South Wales: Variable winds; weather still unsettled, with showers on southern coast and highlands generally; sea decreasing.—H. C. RUSSELL. Victoria: Unsettled and cloudy, and in parts rain or fog; fresh to strong easterly winds in the Straits, and rough sea.—R. L. J. ELLERY. South Australia: Fine but cloudy, tending to become unsettled on south coast line; variable and light winds chiefly northerly and calms.—C. TODD.

RAIN HAS FALLEN IN PREVIOUS 24 HOURS.

New South Wales: From Newcastle south light to heavy on the coast; light at places inland. Victoria: Light at scattered places. Tasmania: On parts of east coast.

THE LOCAL OPTION VOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of to-day Mr. Bevill attempts to impeach the accuracy of the figures published on Saturday with reference to the votes polled in favour of full local option without compensation. He asserts that the league has no accurate knowledge of the names of those who have pledged themselves to support compensation. The league has given the names of those who are favourable to its platform, and the total number of votes which they have secured. The simple fact is that the Local Option League has a very exact knowledge of the opinions of candidates on the subject, as the test question sent out was a very severe one, and the non-compensation clause was clearly set forth in it. I have the replies to this question in my possession, and if Mr. Bevill or any representatives of the press would like to inspect the answers of Messrs. Molesworth, Abbott, and Houghton, they are at liberty to do so. These three gentlemen answer that they are in favour of full local option without compensation. It is true that Mr. J. C. Neild has declared in favour of allowing the people in each electorate to decide the question of compensation for themselves. Does Mr. Bevill regard this as a declaration in favour of compensation? At any rate, the league is quite satisfied to regard Mr. Neild as a supporter. The local optionists would be the last people in the country to prevent an appeal to the country on the question of compensation. We have nothing to fear but everything to hope for from the people. We have trusted the people all these years, while the licensed victuallers have been opposing the right of popular control in regard to the liquor traffic. Is Mr. Bevill's party prepared to take a popular vote on the compensation principle, and abide by it?

Mr. Bevill assures us that Mr. M'Millan is an advocate of compensation. Then why was his name not included in the licensed victuallers' list? Mr. Bevill knows quite well that the Treasurer, as a member of the Government, must have assented to the introduction of the Publicans' Licenses Further Restriction Act, a measure which provided for full local option without compensation. Surely this is enough to indicate Mr. M'Millan's ideas on this subject. To say that the league has counted all Ministerialists as supporters is untrue. Some of our heaviest polling was amongst the labour candidates and protectionists. The policy of the league is to know no parties. We vote and work for the men who will give the people the right to prohibit the liquor traffic if they desire to do so. Believing the drink question to be the greatest social and political problem of the day, we sink all other issues and strive to secure the return of men pledged to local option without compensation. I am quite sure that no official of this league has ever stated that the names of Ministerialists were placed on our ticket simply because as Ministerialists they would vote for the bill. Either Mr. Bevill or his legal friend is mistaken.

I am, &c., F. E. M'LEAN,
June 22. General Secretary Local Option League.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

Owing to the recent heavy rains it has been decided by the committee of the Sydney Driving Park Club to postpone the meeting set down for to-day until Wednesday next, 1st proximo; and the Canterbury Park authorities have also deferred their trotting and race meeting arranged for to-morrow until Tuesday next.

His Excellency the Governor has signified his intention to visit the Rosehill June reunion on Saturday next, and, should the weather prove favourable, will be accompanied by Lady Jersey. The course and reserves are in splendid order, and the number and quality of the horses engaged in the various events promise to bring about first-class racing. The only scratching notified yesterday was Silverthread from the Granville Stakes.

After a digest of the weights for the V. R. C. Melbourne Cup, speculation took definite shape yesterday, when Carbine hardened in the market, and 100 to 10 was the best price to be obtained at the finish, all the money at 100 to 8 and 9 having been exhausted. Vengeance was next in demand, and the son of Newminster was backed to win over £6000 at 100 to 3 and 4, and 100 to 5 was the best offer at the close. Backers would operate against Melos, Malvolio, and Dreadnought at 100 to 3, but the best price available was 100 to 4, consequently very little business was transacted. From 100 to 3 to 100 1 could be got about any other; the latter quotation being available against about 50 outsiders.

The postponed trotting and race meeting under the management of the Lillie Bridge authorities takes place to-morrow evening, commencing at 8 p.m.

Mr. George Kiss announces a sale of racing ponies at his bazaar, Pitt-street, to-day, commencing at noon, when the following well-known performers will be brought under the hammer:—Villewood, Sailor, Sinbad, Negress, and Aska.

Advices from America record the result of the race for the Brooklyn Handicap of 20,000 dollars, 1¼ mile, run at the Brooklyn Spring Meeting on May 15. The prize attracted 20 horses, and the top weight—Mr. D. T. Pulsifer's b h Tenny, by Rayon d'Or from Belle of Maywood, 9st 6lb—won by two lengths in 2 minutes 10 seconds. Tenny started favourite at 2 to 1. It will be remembered that last season, in a match with Salvator over a mile and a quarter, Tenny was only beaten by a short head in 2 minutes 5 seconds.

The New York Sportsman is responsible for the following:—"The breeding of Mersey, dam of Carbine, purchased by Mr. W. R. Wilson for 2300 guineas at the dispersal of the Sylvia Park stud, affords food for reflection. She is a daughter of Clemence, by Newminster, and was bred by the Duke of Westminster. Clemence, according to two stud grooms at Eaton, who testified on oath, was the real dam of Bend Or, and her produce and that of Rouge Rose got 'mixed.' That such a thing is possible we had ample proof last year in Lord Calthorpe's stable, when D'Orsay and Montaigne were transposed. Bend Or, it will be recollected, was formally objected to, and Sir George Chetwynd speaks of the matter in his book. He was a steward of the Jockey Club at the time; but, as he had some bets on the Derby, Lord Calthorpe, in conjunction with Mr. Craven and Mr. Lowther, disposed of the objection. Sir George states that the stud groom, who gave the information, died two or three years afterwards, and on his death-bed solemnly averred that all he had said was true."

The services of the American sire Iroquois, winner of the English Derby, 1881, appears, according to the following excerpt from the New York Sportsman, to be in demand by Australian breeders:—"Overtures have been made to General Jackson, of Belle Meade, by Australian parties, to secure the services of Iroquois for several mares by Musket, the famous Australian sire. Foals in Australia take their age from August 1; and so the services of Iroquois are wanted about September or October."

FOOTBALL.

The following matches were played on Saturday:—

The Sydneys journeyed to Riverview, to meet the members of the St. Ignatius College team in the Flannagan Cup competition. The weather was not very promising on leaving the Sydney wharf, but it was found on arrival at the college grounds that comparatively little rain had fallen, and the match was therefore contested under fairly favourable circumstances. On the players taking their allotted positions, it was at once seen that the local representatives were collectively a heavier team than their opponents; and as the latter placed only 17 men in the field, it seemed as if the metropolitans were to suffer another defeat. Butler was in charge of the visitors, Jennings occupying senior position for the collegians. The reds, having a keen recollection of the reverse sustained in the previous match with the College, forced the pace from the start, and playing well together, scored a behind right off. Riverview responded well, but M. Sullivan relieved his goal, and Sydney added another behind shortly after. The collegians were not yet fairly started, the combination and quick marking of their opponents spoiling their well intentioned rushes. Davidson repeatedly did useful work in the centre, but the Sydney backs were too watchful and spoilt whatever opportunities the locals had of scoring. At length the reds made a decided move forward, and Arnold, marking well, had a shot, but was not so successful as Tobin who also marked in his usual faultless style and scored the reds' first goal. Brilliant play ensued, the Sydney's having if anything the better of the game. D'Arcy, Jennings, O'Connell, and Dynon were performing valorously, but at length Elliker found an opening, and a behind resulted. At the first interval the local representatives had not yet started their score, the metropolitans being 1 goal 3 behinds to the good. With the wind in their favour, it was thought that the local players would soon equalise matters, but Shipton made a magnificent run round the wing, beating all intercepting opponents in fine style. His effort placed the local goal in danger, D'Arcy relieving just in time. Jennings sent the ball further westward, but the reds had it back again, and a chance of scoring was lost by the ball being rushed through. The locals were now all astray, the Sydneys keeping up a persistent attack. Elliker, who throughout played very well, eventually marked and kicked a splendid goal. The same player shortly after marked to Shipton, the ball being taken by Punch a few feet in front. Good centre play ensued; but the reds were not yet satisfied, and added another behind. Davidson again put in a serviceable run, and Dynon furthering his club-mate's effort, marked to Lennon within reasonable distance. A good kick was stopped in front, but the College at last opened its score with a minor point. The next feature was a good mark by Lynch, but Butler nullified its effect, and Sullivan ran the ball out of danger. The half-time interval followed. Thus far the Sydneys had much the better of the game, their play all round being of a high order. After the usual scramble in the centre, operations were continued with, if anything, renewed vigour, this period being spiritedly and evenly contested. At first the reds were the aggressors, but later on the "Boys" improved and forced the pace. Sydney secured behinds through the instrumentality of Watson and Brew; then the first-named secured a brilliant mark, but added only a minor point. The Collegians livened matters up, D'Arcy and Jennings accounting for a behind between them. Adopting their opponents' style of play a series of marks, in which Dynon and O'Donnell were conspicuous, again placed the visitors' goal in danger. Tobin, however, temporarily broke through the investing lines, but as the ball was brought back again great excitement reigned amongst the youngsters present. However, a minor point only was scored, and the reds changing the venue Brew missed a goal by a couple of feet only. With the score at, Sydney 2 goals 9 behinds, College 3 behinds, ends were changed for the last time. The reds still occupied a prominent position, Shipton being instrumental in adding a behind. Jas. O'Meara then marked well, taking the ball from among three opponents. An easy goal resulted. This seemed to be Sydney's last effort, as the Collegians thenceforth had matters very much in their own hands. It was, however, some time before the score-sheet was altered, and eventually Jennings sent the ball in the proper direction, and scored a major point. Dynon followed with another goal shortly after, and the excitement among the youthful onlookers again waxed warm. Spirited work was still being shown, and as the local players were in excellent condition the reds were now fairly cornered. The ringing of the ball prevented any further scoring, and a splendidly contested match was won by the Sydneys by 3 goals 10 behinds to 2 goals 3 behinds. Without exception all the winning team played well, and notwithstanding that a handicap was conceded, they more than held their own until the last quarter. Among the most prominent of the contestants may be mentioned Shipton, Elieker, and Tobin for the reds; Jennings and D'Arcy for the locals, other prominent players being Butler, Arnold (2), M'Dermott, O'Meara, F. Watson, Dynon, P. O'Donnell, Cullinane, Lennon (whose kicking was good), Davidson, Kelly, and Dalton. Mr. Farmer, of the Waratahs, performed the duties of field umpire in a satisfactory manner. After the match the members of the visiting team were the guests of the Rev. Father Dalton.

The following is the scoring in the Flanagan Cup competition, under Australian rules, up to date:—

| Clubs. | Matches Played. | Won. | Lost. | Points Scored. | Possible |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| West Sydney | 2 | 2 | 0 | 8 | 8 |
| Waratah | 3 | 2 | 1 | 8 | 12 |
| Sydney | 2 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 8 |
| St. Ignatius | 2 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 8 |
| East Sydney | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 4 |

Kingston (Burwood) played Glenmore B on the former's ground, and the match resulted in a win for the locals by 14 points to 4. Tries were obtained for Kingston by H. Board, H. Jones (2), and L. Johnston, one of which was converted into a goal by Pierce. The Glenmores scored a goal from the field. Besides the above, Pierce (2), Webb, and Wild played a sterling game for Kingston. Mr. C. Kennett officiated as sole umpire, and gave every satisfaction.

CRICKET.

The following are the principal averages of the Surrey United Club's A team for the past season:—Batting: J. Beveridge, 21·14; J. Hillier, 20·22; J. Ashdown, 17·85; S. Brown, 15·55; A. Atkins, 12·65; E. Giffard, 12·62; E. Ironside, 11·56; A. Buckle, 10·62. Bowling: E. Giffard, 6·50; A. Atkins, 9·25; E. Ironside, 12·01. Beveridge won the first trophy for batting, and Hillier the second. A. Atkins won the first trophy for bowling, and Ironside the second. The A team played 31 matches, of which 7 were won, 7 lost, and 17 drawn. The B team played 31 matches of which 10 were won, 4 lost, and 17 drawn. In the B team the batting averages were won by C. Lenton and E. Carloss. Lenton also wins the trophies for most double-figure innings and catches. A. M'Coy wins the first bowling average and E. Carloss the second. The C team played 25 matches of which 5 were won, 12 lost, and 8 drawn. J. Johnson won the first batting and bowling averages. The club intends to hold its annual ball on July 1 at West's rooms.

LACROSSE.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather on Saturday, the Sydney and Iroquois Lacrosse Clubs mustered in full force at Hurstville to give the exhibition of the game arranged with the object of promoting a club in that quarter. The Iroquois won the toss, and naturally elected to throw with the wind, which was blowing strongly from the south. The ball was "faced" at 3.35, and although both clubs put their best foot forward, and each of the goals was at times menaced, so equal was the play that half-time arrived before any score had been made. After the usual 10 minutes' rest and a change of goals, the rubber was again "faced." The wind now appeared to give the Sydneys the advantage, and they pressed their opponents' defence until Andrews, taking the ball behind, passed to Menlove, who at close quarters tipped it home for Sydney. The scoring having been opened, increased animation was at once discernible, and within another five minutes the Iroquois were rewarded for their exertions by a goal from Black's crosse. The scores were not to be kept level, and two minutes more play—both teams going their fastest—saw the rubber flying through the Iroquois posts, neatly despatched by Andrews. At this point the game reflected credit on the players, the few spectators who had braved the elements being enthusiastic in their praise. Before time was called the Sydneys, through the agency of White, increased their score to 3, and at this the scores remained (Sydney, 3; Iroquois, 1). Although beaten, the Iroquois have every reason to be gratified at the stand made against a very strong team. Their goalkeeper especially deserves honour for the way in which he defended his posts.

PEDESTRIANISM.

The Carrington Colts' Handicap will be run to-night.

The Marrickville Handicap meeting will take place on Saturday.

Mr. D. Blyth intends to give a benefit to C. Linden, the disabled pedestrian, at the Marrickville Grounds, on Friday. The handicaps will appear to-morrow.

LILLIE BRIDGE HANDICAP.

The Lillie Bridge Professional Handicap was run through last night, and it was won by J. Creed, who started at even money with J. Butler. The following are the details of the running:—

RIFLE CLUB MEETING.

The half-yearly meeting of the Railway Reserve Rifle Company, No. 1 (Redfern) took place recently, at the Railway Institute. The President (Mr. S. Browne) occupied the chair. The treasurer (Mr. A. G. Heness) brought forward his balance-sheet showing a good cash balance in favour of the company. The hon. secretary (Mr. J. Reilly) produced the prize list for the present quarter. It comprises 10 prizes, consisting of a silver cup presented by Mr. W. Stephens; three Martini-Henry rifles, presented by Messrs. J. Harris, J. Dawson, and E. Silcocks; silver egg-frame, by Messrs. M'Lean, Brothers, and Rigg; a trophy, by Mr. F. Angus; another by Mr. D. Dale; and three ammunition prizes by the company.

AMERICAN LOCOMOTIVES FOR NEW SOUTH WALES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—From the Scientific American of 9th May, to hand by the mail this morning, it appears that a large order is being executed by the Baldwin Locomotive Works for locomotives for the New South Wales rail and tram ways. Already 27 of these have been shipped on the steamer Henley, while the total order received by the Baldwin Locomotive Works amounts to 47.

It is also stated on authority that an American engineer, William Rhodes, will supervise the erection and trials of these locomotives in New South Wales. Mr. John H. Converse, of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, stated to a representative of the Scientific American, "as to relative cost, from all the data that I can obtain, I am of the opinion that at present an American locomotive can be delivered in Australian ports at about the same cost as an English locomotive."

No comment of mine is necessary. I will only ask the question:—Is it any wonder that those hammers at Balmain are silent and that the workers in that suburb by their united votes returned four members pledged to keep all Government work in the colony?

I am, &c.,
H. TENNENT-DONALDSON,
Secretary National Protection Party.
